Dinner/Dance Saturday

This Is Our Golden Anniversary Week

This is the week our Golden Anniversary Year begins. The county commission and 13 municipalities have dedicated the week to our celebration, fourteen community colleges have sent congratulatory letters, and preparations for the Birthday Dinner/Dance Saturday night at the Breakers are continuing on schedule.

The big birthday cake has been constructed by Claude Edwards' crew with an assist on painting the icing by Dr. Sarah Pappas and her husband. Arrangements have been made for orchids for the tables, and the souvenir program is expected back from the printer on Tuesday.

The Earth Tremors are practicing, and we understand they have a surprise or two--as they usually do.

There have been lots and lots of little problems, but they are getting solved, and you don't want to know about them. Everything is shaping up for a great party.

About dress. Dr. Erling says hemlines will be long and short and in between. Men will be in tux, dinner jackets, and dark suits. It will be a dress-up affair, but there will be considerable variety in what people consider to be semi-formal.

Although not listed as official anniversary events, we will have this week a band concert on Tuesday, a trustees meeting Wednesday, a faculty meeting Friday afternoon, an employee get-together Friday night, a career expo Saturday, and a benefit concert Sunday by the 5 O'Clock Band.

Altogether, a pretty good week for the beginning of our Golden Anniversary Year.

Dr. Roueche To Speak To Full-Time Faculty

Dr. John Edward Roueche, one of the nation's best known speakers on education, will be our guest speaker at a general faculty meeting, Friday, Oct. 21, at 1 p.m., in the Allied Health Lecture Hall.

All full-time faculty, from North, South and Glades as well as Central are expected to attend the meeting. Classes will be shortened, or suspended as necessary in order to be present promptly at 1 p.m. The meeting will last approximately one hour.

"Ever since I head Dr. Roueche speak at a national meeting, I have wanted to give our faculty the opportunity of hearing him," says Dr. Eissey,who arranged for the meeting. "He is both inspirational and knowledgeable."

Dr. Roueche is Professor and Director of the Program in Community College Education at the University of Texas.

Except for a period spent at Florida State, where he obtained his Doctorate in 1964, Dr. Roueche's education and early career were in North Carolina, where he attended Mitchell Community College, Lenoir Rhyne and Appalachian State.

He has spoken at more than 100 state and regional associations in the past two years, and at 750 colleges and universities since 1970.

Congratulations to the Occupational Therapy Assistant Graduates, who for the fourth year in a row, have had 100% pass the National Certification Exam. They are now recognized by all 50 states as Certified OTA's and are employable.

Career Expo At PBJC South

A Career Expo covering jobs in health, education, finance and law, and business will be hosted by PBJC South Saturday, Oct. 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Twenty-two speakers, including our own Pat Dyer, who are all members of the Palm Beach County Women's Network, will give overviews of their respective professions.

"One of the goals of the seminar is to show people what it's like to have a career in a certain field," said Jennifer McCormick, program specialist. "The Women's Network tries to help women think more of themselves as professionals."

The fee is $3. For registration or more information, call Continuing Education at 8181.

CLAST Passing Scores

A public hearing on passing scores for the College Level Academic Skills Test, (CLAST) has been scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 18, in Conference C at PBJC Central, at 7 p.m.

The hearing has been scheduled by Dr. Paul Graham, vice president for Academic Affairs, who has chaired a committee of lay citizens and academics in meetings to provide guidelines to the state in setting passing scores.

Recommendations from the local team will be compiled with similar scores all over the state and considered by the Commissioner of Education when he sets the scores for the state-wide test.

Beginning in the Fall Term, 1984, students must pass the CLAST test, given after completion of the first two years of college, before they will be accepted into the junior year at state universities.

The test will be given both to community college graduating sophomores, and to university students finishing the sophomore year.

"We do not anticipate a large turn-out for the public hearing," Dr. Graham said. "This is a subject that ought to be of great interest to many people at this time, but probably will not be.

"We'll begin to hear from them after they do not pass the test."

Trustees Meet Wednesday

Palm Beach Junior College trustees will meet Wednesday, Oct. 19, 7:30 p.m. in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

There are 23 items on the agenda, about half the normal number. Included are requested approval of preliminary drawings for the Student Services Building and educational specifications for the Vocational Technical Building, both at the North campus.

The date of the November meeting of the board has been changed to Tuesday, Nov. 22, 7:30 p.m., and the meeting will be held at PBJC South.

FACC Election

According to the FACC election committee, comprised of Bob Book, Jeanette Sanders and Dr. Sam Bottosto, the PBJC chapter has elected the following new officers: George Matsoukas, President, Sandra Richmond, Vice President, Bill Graham, Secretary and Alice Carlisle, Treasurer. Congratulations and best wishes for a successful year.

LATE ANNOUNCEMENT - Effective Oct. 20, 1983 Tax Sheltered Annuities will be sent directly to individual companies following each pay day. Also, Credit Union deductions will be sent to the Credit Union bi-monthly. Hopefully, this will insure that individuals receive more timely credit for interest, etc. ... Barry Rogers

Band Concert To Feature Classical Guitarist

A free band concert featuring a classical guitarist will be held at PBJC Tuesday, Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. in the Central Auditorium.

The 50-piece concert band will perform Joseph Jenkins' "American Overture for Band," featuring the horn section, Rossini's "Tancredi Overture," Clifton Williams' "Symphonic Suite," and selections by John Williams from the popular film "E.T."

A special feature will be a performance by classical guitarist Dr. Kenneth Keaton, a recent addition to the PBJC music faculty. He will perform works by William Walton and Isaac Albeniz.

Dr. Keaton was previously on the staff of Florida Atlantic University and Broward Community College. He holds a doctor of musical arts degree from the University of Miami, and is only the second guitarist in the United States to earn this degree.

While at Miami, Keaton studied with the great Cuban-American guitarist Juan Mercadal. He has also performed in Master classes with Pepe Romero, Oscar Ghiglia, and George Sakellarion.

The United Way Drive

I wish to thank all who are cooperating with the United Way Drive at Palm Beach Junior College.

Tuesday the free Kidney Screening Program spent a day at PBJC. Many took advantage of this health service. The Kidney Association is a member agency of the United Way.

Listed are some of the 210 services supported by the United Way:

Abused Children. Adoption Services. Family Preservation. Epilepsy. Children's Hospital. Drug Abuse. Alcohol Abuse. Salvation Army. Visiting Nurses. Sickle Cell. Voluntary Action. Goodwill. Crisis Line. Youth Sports.

The United Way agencies need your support. One battered child is enough to justify your response.

This week I am sending United Way contribution cards to employees who have not attended a United Way meeting. You may pledge a gift and have payroll deduction or you may send a contribution. Please respond to Fred Holling, station 12.

United Nations Commemorated

The Social Science Department is assisting the United Nations Association of Palm Beach County in commemorating its 38th anniversary on Monday, Oct. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the PBJC auditorium.

The principal speaker of the evening will be a 32 year-old Israeli citizen, Eli Somer, currently a doctoral student at the University of Florida in Gainesville. His topic will be: "The United Nations Today with Emphasis on Its Role in the Middle East." ..S.Bottosto

Band In Benefit Concert

Sy Pryweller and the 5 O'Clock Band will join a large number of other local musicians in a benefit performance Sunday, Oct. 23, from noon until 7 p.m. at the Moose Lodge, RCA Blvd., Palm Beach Gardens.

Proceeds from the concert will go to the parents of little Eva Kapiniaris, age 7, who has been winning a gallant battle against cancer with the aid of some very expensive medical help. Sy has tickets.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 2 October 24, 1983

Dinner/Dance Is History, But - -

The Golden Anniversary Celebration Is Just Starting

As you read this, the Birthday Dinner/Dance last Saturday is history, but the Golden Anniversary celebration is just starting. We begin again on Nov. 3, and in six days we will hold six major events.

Here is a list of the next six events, with information about some of them you may have heard little about before. The Monday Report will try to give more information, particularly on the big, homecoming Open House, next week.

GLADES SPORTS DAY

Our Glades people have put together what sounds like a fun-filled day for high school students from seven Glades area high schools on Nov. 3.

We didn't believe there were seven high schools out that way, but they came up with the names: Glades Central, Clewiston, Pahokee, LaBelle, Christian Day, Glades Day, and Glades Christian Academy.

Each high school has been invited to send 30 students to the college for a day of sports contests from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with a free hot dog lunch and T-shirts for all.

According to Jan Bottoms, physical education teacher, there will be trophies for three major events, and an overall trophy for the high school which compiles the most points in all three events.

There will be a two-mile run, volleyball, archery, a free-throw basketball contest, a frisbee toss, horseshoes, and a three-legged race.

SENIOR GROUP THEATRE

If that sounds too strenuous for you, how about an evening, or a matinee, at the theater, Nov. 4-6.

Nancy Goodwin and cohorts are busy putting the finishing touches on a thrill-packed suspense drama, "The Night of January 16th" by Ayn Rand for

Dr. Eissey To Be Honored

(Note: The following letter from Darrell F. Miller, president of the Northern Palm Beach County Chamber of Commerce was received at PBJC. It tells the story better than we could tell it by re-writing.)

Dear Ed:

Congratulations! It is my pleasure to inform you that Northern Palm Beach County Chamber of Commerce's Past Presidents' Committee has chosen you as the recipient of our 20th Annual Community Appreciation Award. The committee chose you from among many outstanding nominees, and we wish to present you with this award at a luncheon to be held in your honor at PGA Sheraton Resort in Palm Beach Gardens on Friday, October 28th. There will be a reception at 11:30 a.m. with luncheon at noon.

Lt. Governor Wayne Mixon will be our "Keynote Speaker" and he will be accompanied by his aide, Matt Bryan.

Again, congratulations Ed, you richly deserve this honor.

Applications for membership on the 1983-84 Palm Beach Junior College Brain Bowl Team will be taken in the office of Coach A. Hamlin, BA 107 or Dean of Student Activities, BA 110. All five members of the Southern Region Championship Team will receive $250. The members of the State Championship Team will be awarded $1,000. with $500 to members of the runner-up team. Please inform those students who might be interested and encourage them to apply. ..A.Hamlin

"POPS" Convention Slated For PBJC

The People's Own Party, "POPS", will hold its national convention on the Central campus of PBJC Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1983--a full year ahead of the national presidential election, Nov. 6, 1984.

According to Ret Siger, party spokesman, "POPS" chose the South Florida campus because of the "sunny political prospects of the college."

It was the PBJC campus site used by Governor Ronald Reagan, February 22, 1980, to launch his successful campaign for the presidency.

The Palm Beach campus has also hosted Hubert Humphrey, George Wallace, "Scoop" Jackson, Sargent Shriver, Shirley Chisholm, Phil Crane, John Anderson and many other noted politicians.

Rumor has it that POPS was looking over Burt Reynolds for a spot on the ticket at the Dinner/Dance Saturday at the Breakers. ...Ret Siger

8 p.m. curtains Nov. 4, 5, and 6, and 2 p.m. matinees Saturday and Sunday.

This play was first performed 50 years ago, the year the college was getting started.

A stellar cast has been assembled to portray the trial of Karen Andre for the murder of her lover. The court is trying to determine whether she pushed him out the window of his New York penthouse apartment, or whether he fell.

Twelve important cast members have not yet been chosen. They are people from each audience, who will be picked to serve "jury duty" and will actually decide how the play will end with their verdict.

Tickets are $4 and are going fast.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY RUN

The Monday Report has already told you about the run, so we won't repeat at this time. It's still very much on for Nov. 5. Call Dr. Erling's office if you want to run, or if you want to help.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The Golden Anniversary Women's Invitational Tennis Tournament will be taking place on the same day as the run, beginning Saturday, 9:30 a.m. on the courts at PBJC Central. We understand there will be teams from several other Junior Colleges, and promise to tell you more next week.

OPEN HOUSE

We haven't told you much about this one, and we won't this time, either, since we plan a major article next week. Just save Sunday, Nov. 6, 1 to 4 p.m., for our homecoming Open House at PBJC Central.

"POPS" CONVENTION

On the second Tuesday of November, just one year ahead of the presidential elections, our Political Union, with help from drama and speech, will stage a preview of the national political conventions.

We don't know too much about this event, yet, but we have received a press release from "Ret Siger," one of Ed Pugh's nom de plumes, and it is printed elsewhere under the heading "POPS" Convention Slated for PBJC.

Voter Registration Drive Successful

The most successful voter registration drive in PBJC history took place last week when 284 voters were registered, according to Ed Pugh, faculty advisor for the PBJC Political Union.

Pugh, who said the turnout was "terrific" could not recall the exact total of the previous best mark, but thought it was under 200.

Pugh and his student registrars, who had been trained by the county supervisor of elections, were surprised that there were more Republicans registering than Democrats--119 to 118.

"This is the first time we have ever had more Republicans than Democrats," Pugh said. "I have no explanation."

Other registrants were 25 No Party, 18 Independent, two American Independent, one Liberal, and one Conservative.

"The large turnout is even more surprising in view of the fact that there is no election in the offing, Pugh said.

"I believe that the early campaigning for the 1984 presidential race, and the media play for the different candidates may be responsible.

"If so, we may have uncovered one good reason for the early campaigns."

Short Agenda Produces Short Meeting

PBJC trustees disposed of a short agenda in short order Wednesday night.

It had only been three weeks since the last meeting, and the short time between meetings seemed to result not only in a short agenda, but one that contained very few items requiring discussion.

Trustee Willard Findling reported on the 14th annual American Community College Trustees convention Oct. 12-16. Personnel items were approved.

After a brief discussion, the board approved an increase in the hourly rate for litigation for James Adams, board attorney. They authorized Dr. Eissey to seek liquidated damages on two millage projects.

Dr. Eissey announced that the November meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 22, at 7:30 p.m. at PBJC South, in one of the new classroom buildings.

Wednesday's meeting got underway at 7:32 p.m. and was adjourned at 7:58 p.m.

Luncheon Is Served

The Hospitality Department is putting on their second luncheon of the semester on Thursday. Reservations will be open to the faculty for seatings at 11 a.m. at 15 minute intervals until 12:15 p.m.

This week's luncheon choices are Beef Stroganoff with Noodles, $3.75; Chicken Breast St. Germaine, $3.50, and Fruit and Cheese Plate $3.50.

All entrees will include choice of soup or salad plus potato, vegetable, bread and butter. Coffee and dessert will be available for a nominal charge.

For reservations, call 8125 before Wednesday.

New Suggestion Committee Appointed

This year's Suggestion Committee has a new look with three faculty members, a department chair, a supervisor of maintenance and the Director of Personnel. The Suggestion Committee is one of the committees appointed by the President with the following general responsibilities:

1. Establish a system for employees and students to offer suggestions.
2. Review suggestions.
3. Submit suggestions to appropriate administrative personnel for further analysis.
4. Coordinate responses between suggestor and appropriate administrative personnel.
5. Provide appropriate recognition for personnel or students whose suggestions are implemented.

Personnel and students may submit suggestions by completing the appropriate suggestion form. That form is available in either the bookstore or the personnel office on the Central Campus and can be received through the Provost's Office at PBJC North,South and Glades.

The form requires the completion of the following information:
Current Status of Operation, Procedure or Activity
Summary of New Suggestion
Benefit of Value of Implementing Suggestion

Completed forms should be forwarded to Director of Personnel.

Pugh, Joseph Schneider and Richard Yinger. The Committee is aware that many college personnel and students have ideas which could improve our operations. Please feel free to document these ideas and forward them for further consideration. Suggestions, of course, must be signed. All such suggestions will be reviewed and will receive responses.

Sabbatical Leave Requests

Requests for sabbatical leave must be submitted before December 1, 1983.

Sabbatical leave may be granted for the purpose of travel, professional academic advancement, or health restoration if one does not have accumulated sick leave in a sufficient amount to take care of the health problem.

To be eligible for sabbatical leave, one must be in or beyond the 7th continuous year of fulltime employment at the college. For further details regarding the guidelines for sabbatical leave, please see the Personnel Rules Manual, Board Rule 6HX-18-5.37 on pages 35 and 36.

Please send all requests directly to Sarah Pappas at the North Campus. Dr. Pappas is Chairman of the 1983-84 Sabbatical Leave Committee. She can be reached at 622-2440, ext. 256, if you have any questions.

Phi Theta Kappa Initiation

Dr. Roger Nichols, deputy commissioner of education for the state of Florida, will be the guest speaker at the initiation ceremony for Phi Theta Kappa at PBJC South.

Between 30 and 40 new members will be inducted into the Alpha Delta Iota chapter Nov. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Gold Coast Room of FAU's University Center.

Initiates are selected from the upper ten percent of the student body, must have completed 12 semester hours with a grade point average of 3.2 or higher, and must maintain at least a "B" average.

A national junior college honor society, the object of PTK is to promote scholarship, develop character, and cultivate fellowship among students.

Light refreshments will be served after the ceremony. The public is invited.

Late Personals...

The Mental Health Assn. of Palm Beach County has elected Dr. Franklin Saunders to serve on the Board of Directors. Dr. Saunders is an associate professor in the Mental Health Technology program at PBJC, a member of the Florida Psychological Assn. and a state licensed psychologist. The Mental Health Assn. provides public education, a lobbying organization to promote the welfare of the mentally ill and emotionally disturbed, and an organization of concerned citizens to help wherever there is a need.

According to Easter Arora, the Student Nurses State Convention was held Oct. 5-7 at the Marriott Hotel, Ft. Lauderdale. The convention theme was "Nurses-The Caring Professional". This year's activity entry was a poem, and Kim Palmer received a trophy for her winning work, "In the Name of Caring". In addition, two students ran for state office--Kathy Rathbun for president and Karen Richardson, who was victorious as Regional Director, District Five.

Announcements...

The Institute of New Dimensions will begin their ninth year of classes on Oct. 31. This innovative program, which began here in 1975, has grown successfully over the years, and according to administrator Anita Furst, this year promises to be bigger and better than ever.

The following people were elected as delegates to the FACC 34th Annual Convention: Alice Carlisle, Al Fellner, Bill Graham, Dick Jones, Gordon Kramer, George Matsoukas, Jennifer McCormick, Frank McLaughlin, Ron Moses, Sandy Richmond, Jeanette Sanders, Noel Smith and Alice Zacherl. All individuals attending the convention as non-delegates through their department budgets, please take care of your registration and hotel arrangements before Oct. 28.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 3 October 31, 1983

Don't Miss The Open House

More Golden Anniversary Events On The Way

This coming week is jammed-packed with events, mostly those in celebration of the Golden Anniversary. But one you will not want to miss is the Open House this Sunday, November 6.

The highlight of the event will be an extensive array of old photographs, yearbooks and memorabilia in the cafeteria. The pictorial displays will span the college's 50-year history, and will be divided by the various locations: Palm Beach High, Morrison Field, Lake Park, Lake Worth, and Roosevelt Junior College.

"There should be plenty of old, familiar faces on hand, including Watson B. Duncan and myself," said Dean Paul J. Glynn, co-chairman.

In addition to the nostalgia, there will be guided tours and special presentations by at least 14 of the college's departments, including demonstration of the Plato computer system, helicopter and dog shows, oral hygiene instruction, free blood pressure monitoring, and many others.

On the ball field, a softball game between the present Lady Pacers and Alumni Lady Pacers will be played at 2:30 p.m. The new PBJC Bookstore will be open from 1-4 p.m., and visitors may register there for valuable door prizes.

"For those who get hungry, we'll be serving a traditional barbecue in the Food-service Dining Room for a small charge," said Dr. Sam Bottosto, co-chairman. "We hope people will partake of this delicious food."

Great Telegram ---Great Party

The telegram arrived just a wee bit late for Dr. Eissey to read it at our Birthday Dinner/ Dance, but considering how busy the sender and his staff have been recently, it is amazing that it got here at all:

"It gives me great pleasure to extend my congratulations to the faculty, students, alumni and friends of Palm Beach Junior College on this Fiftieth Anniversary Year.

"You have reached this milestone in the history of your school during a period of unprecedented challenge to American higher education. The responsibilities of colleges have increased as dramatically as your enrollment of more than 33,000 students. You can be proud of your school, of your contributions to our society, and of the position you have achieved in the universe of education.

"I extend to you my very best wishes for many more achievements and rewarding decades of service to the young Americans of the State of Florida." -- Ronald Reagan

Although Reagan's note, and a couple of others from Washington were late in arriving, almost everything else did come together Saturday night at the Breakers, for a memorable evening for all who attended.

At an administration meeting the following Monday, the consensus opinion was that a note to Burt Reynolds thanking him for taking time away from his busy schedule to be with us was very much in order. If any of you feel the same way, the mailing address is: Marriott Hotel, 1881 SE 17th St., Ft.Lauderdale,FL 33316.

NOTICE-REKEYING THE GYMNASIUM BUILDING Thursday, Nov. 3. New keys will be issued from the Inventory Office starting Wed., Nov. 2. Part time instructors can pick up their keys at the message center located in the gym. Thank you.

Dr. Roueche: "Expect A Lot, Demand A Lot"

From his opening story about a non-talking bird who was given every learning device possible--but no bird seed--to his closing remarks about excited and committed teachers, Dr. John Roueche showed PBJC teachers Friday, Oct. 21, why he is one of the country's most popular speakers on education.

Dr. Roueche mixed entertainment, information and inspiration so skillfully that his hard nosed view of education today and what needs to be done about it was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Dr. Roueche believes in a simple, clear and functional structure, in high expectations, and in nurturing. He likes homework--lots of it, all read and returned with comments.

He likes essay examinations, writing across the curriculum, and greeting your students by name when they walk in the door for the first time. He does not like true-false and multiple choice, easy attendance and withdrawal policies, and late registration.

"It is powerful to expect things from people," Dr. Roueche said.

The festivities will begin at 1 p.m. with an opening ceremony at the South Portico, which is in front of the Administration Building. There will be an invocation, Marine color guard, and pledge of allegiance. Dr. Eissey will make the opening remarks, Dr. Bottosto will introduce the departments, and Sy Pryweller and his Five O'Clock Jazz Band will perform the National Anthem.

The program will conclude at 4 p.m.

WOMEN'S INVITATIONAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The four teams that were top finishers in the 1983 State NJCAA tennis tournament will vie for honors at the Golden Anniversary Women's Invitational Saturday, Nov. 5, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The teams are PBJC, Broward Central Community College, Indian River Community College, and Florida Junior College.

"This will be a double elimination tournament, which means if a team loses once, it moves into a loser's bracket, and if twice, then it is eliminated," said Coach Julio Rive.

"We hope a lot of people come, because there will be good tennis played there," he added.

The tournament is free and open to the public.

There is one event that is not listed on the Golden Anniversary calendar. The Pacer basketball team will tip off its season opener against the Palm Beach Atlantic Sailfish Saturday, Nov. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the gym.

The Social, Cultural and Welfare Committee, chaired by Jennifer McCormick, has planned a covered dish dinner before the game (6 p.m. in Conference Room C). Bring your favorite dish, meet with friends and fellow employees, and help root for the basketball team.

Admission to the game is free for PBJC students, faculty and staff. Tickets for the general public are $2.

The rest of the Golden Anniversary events planned for this week -- Glades Sports Day, Senior Group Theatre, Golden Anniversary Run and the POPS Convention -- will still be held as planned. These were outlined in last week's Monday Report.

Old-Fashioned Community Picnic At PBJC North Saturday

The Anniversary celebration will continue this week with several events, highlighted by a community picnic at the North Campus on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This will be one of the old-fashioned kind, complete with games, food and entertainment.

"There will be something for everyone at the picnic, from three-year olds to adults," said Dr. Ottis Smith. "We especially hope people will bring their families. They may bring their own picnic hampers if they wish, or enjoy the food that will be provided."

The day promises to be filled with old-fashioned picnic games, such as potato sack races, egg toss, peanut hunt, three-legged race, barrel race, horseshoe toss and volleyball.

A special softball tournament is slated featuring co-ed teams from the four area Chambers of Commerce: Jupiter-Tequesta, Northern Palm Beach County, Palm Beach Gardens and the Chamber of Commerce of the Palm Beaches.

The picnic will also be a carnival of sorts. There will be a special dunking booth, where vindictive souls will have the chance to plunge PBJC administrators, faculty, North County community leaders, government officials and others into a huge tank of water.

Go Fish, Ring Toss and other game booths have also been planned.

Community Appreciation Award Presented To Dr. Eissey

The 20th Annual Community Appreciation Award was presented to Dr. Eissey by the Northern Palm Beach Chamber of Commerce Oct. 28 at the PGA Sheraton in a ceremony filled with humor and friendly feeling.

The Pacesetters set the tone with a varied election of songs received with warm applause.

Lt. Gov. Wayne Mixson, keynote speaker, said the selection of his "long-time friend, Ed Eissey" for the honor was especially appropriate since the "sunrise type industries" scheduled to come into Florida in the near future "will need education of the type provided by community colleges."

Dr. Philip Lichtblau, chairman of our board of trustees, said that Dr. Eissey had been a perfect candidate for the candidacy for president of the college except for one failing--"he shuns publicity."

In a serious vein, Dr. Lichtblau said one of Dr. Eissey's strongest characteristics is "an abiding love for Palm Beach County, and for the state, and his dedication to the best in education."

Robert Riggs, Principal of Forest Hill High School and a friend of Dr. Eissey's for 40 years, said he expected Ed to spend the rest of his life, "out there, somewhere, hustling things for people."

Mary Beall told of following Dr. Eissey through four jobs in 14 years, vainly trying to collect a "big raise" he promised her on the first move. Then she spoke seriously of Dr. Eissey's

MONDAY REPORT DEADLINES

Because of the holiday on Nov. 11, the Monday Report deadline for the next issue will be Wednesday, Nov. 9, 2 p.m.

Two weeks later, Nov 24 and 25 will be Thanksgiving holidays and the deadline will be Tuesday, Nov. 22, 2 p.m.

The regular deadline remains Thursday, noon.

Phi Theta Kappa Convention

According to our own Allen Hamlin (Central campus, math department) who was recently appointed state advisor for Phi Theta Kappa, last weekend saw a very successful state convention as approximately 290 students and sponsors gathered in Clearwater.

Included in the program were welcomes by Dr. Carl Kuttler, President and Dr. Jerry Odom, Provost of St. Petersburg Jr. College, and the keynote speaker was state representative Betty Easley. Also present was PTK Southern regional vice president Lori Dowdy from Banner Elk,N.C.

The weekend included: business sessions for discussing the national theme, and for presenting (and later installing) the candidates for election to state office; the Saturday evening awards banquet; a volleyball tournament; a Hawaiian dinner; and a Jacuzzi-in. ...R.C.Moss

Personals . . .

Leonard Bruton, social science instructor, South campus, has been appointed Consultant to a state-wide Student Committee to review and evaluate CLAST. The Student Committee represents members of the Florida Junior College Student Government Assn. and the Florida Community College Activities Assn. Mr. Bruton's appointment was made jointly by Stafford Thompson of FCCAA and Sylvester Covington of FJCSGA. The Committee's work will end in April, 1984.

...Stafford Mooney

Dr. Samuel Bottosto will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the King's Point Democractic Club on Nov. 10, 8PM at Temple Emeth and at the Cresthaven Men's Club on Nov. 15 at 12 noon (Crosley Clubhouse). Both talks will be concerned with the upcoming presidential campaign.

"We'll have music continuously throughout the day provided by PBJC's Five O'Clock Jazz Band, Harmony Winds Band, Sherry Edwards and the Shining Touch, Michaels and Martin, Blade, and the Outfit Band," Dr. Smith said.

Admission is free, and most of the activities are without charge. All PBJC employees are encouraged to attend.

POPS CONVENTION

The college will take an unconventional look at politics with the first "POPS" Convention tomorrow at 11 a.m. at PBJC Central.

POPS (People's Own Party) planned the convention to occur exactly one year before the '84 election. Part of the college's Golden Anniversary celebration, it will convene on the Sunshine Court, the lawn between the library and the Continuing Education Building.

The POPS party will name a ticket...a president, vice-president, and acting president," said Ed Pugh, Political Union faculty advisor. "Excerpts from the party platform and its slate of recommended appointees will also be presented."

Many student groups have helped to provide signs, noisemakers and other politcal paraphernalia. The Sunshine Court Jesters will perform, and there will be music and singing.

JAZZ CONCERT

One event was not listed on the Golden Anniversary calendar, but bears mentioning. Sy Pryweller and the Five O'Clock and Twelve O'Clock Jazz Bands will perform in concert tonight at 8PM at the Central auditorium.

The Twelve O'Clock Band consists of mostly college students who are graduates of local high schools, and the Five O'Clock Band is composed of local high school and middle school band directors, a choral director, an engineer and several professional musicians.

The combined bands will play a variety of toe-tapping big band tunes, and will feature a number of soloists. Admission is free.

Next week, reports on the music department's "Best of Broadway" & the Choral Arts Society.

New Theatre Group At PBJC North

Palm Beach Junior College North has just given birth to a new theatre group.

The group, which held its first meeting Oct. 12, will bring together college students, faculty, staff, and members of the community for the purpose of producing top-quality live theatre in the North County area.

In conjunction with the birth of this group, PBJC North will be offering a Theatre class (Introduction to Theatre) as part of its Winter Schedule. Beginning in January, 1984, the class will meet on Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon and will be taught by Dr. Barry Russal, who is also artistic director of the new theatre group.

Dr. Russal is an associate professor of English at the North campus and former director of the Glades College and Community Theatre.

Anyone in the community, whether experienced in theatre work or not, is welcome to join the group or register for the class, or both.

The first production anticipated by the group will take place during the winter term, perhaps as early as February. Planning for that production will begin in the near future.

For additional information, please contact Dr. Russal at 622-2440.

genuine concern for people, and congratulated the chamber on its selection.

In presenting the award, Tedd Moffett, the chamber's president-elect, called Dr. Eissey "a man of humor, a dedicated professional educator, and a leader of leaders."

In response, Dr. Eissey pointed to others as the reason he was being honored--his family first, and the faculty and staff of Palm Beach Junior College immediately thereafter.

"If it were not for the dedication, love and support of these people, I know I would not be here today," Dr. Eissey said.

November Is The Month For Musical Events

Our anniversary year, off to a great start with the events which have already taken place, now swings into a musical phase with two official events and two extra added attractions in the remainder of November -- all musical.

This Is Your Chance To Hire The President

SITUATIONS WANTED. College president, available once each month for two or three hours, morning or afternoon. Seeks work in any position at PBJC. Promises superior performance and no back talk to supervisor. Wants to know what your work is like. Call Agent, Dr. Elisabeth Erling, 8086. Salary negotiable, but a cup of coffee might be about right.

Frankly taking his cue from Gov. Bob Graham's highly successful "workdays," Dr. Eissey is planning to arrange a schedule of 12 work days in 1984, one each month, at some work station at one of the campuses.

"My regular schedule is so full that it will not be easy to clear the time for the work days," Dr. Eissey says, "but I believe this could be an important way for me to keep in touch with the reality behind the reports that constantly come over my desk."

The workdays are different from the Coffee with Ed sessions, which emphasize a free flow of communication with the president. These will be continued, since they have proven to be a good method of communication. Dr. Eissey wants to do more than talk during the workdays. He wants to work.

Dr. Erling, who will be getting together a list of invitations, suggests that you have some real work in mind, but said she will be glad to add an invitation for any job on any campus to the list that is under consideration.

The music department will present The Best of Broadway Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 17-19 at 8 p.m., with a matinee on Sunday, Nov. 20 at 2 p.m.

The show will feature the music of Rodgers and Hammerstein, Cole Porter and others, from musicals such as "West-Side Story," "South Pacific," "Anything Goes," "Cats," and "A Chorus Line."

The show will be an amalgam of PBJC students (both present and past), music faculty, and a visiting artist.

"Our master of ceremonies will be Dr. Philip Perkins, the former pastor of Grace Episcopal Church in West Palm Beach," Dr. Hugh Albee said. "He performed with us in the past, so this year we wrote to him in Connecticut and invited him back."

The orchestra, under the direction of Sy Pryweller, will be comprised of students and musicians from the community.

Tickets are $6, and will be available in the Box Office from noon to 4 p.m. For reservations, call 8141.

PALM BEACH CHORALE

Classical works by J.S. Bach and Johann Pachelbel will be performed by the 35-member Palm Beach Chorale Monday, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the PBJC Central auditorium.

Directed by David Chandler, the group will be accompanied by a chamber ensemble and a harpsichord. The program will include Bach's "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," and Pachelbel's "What God Ordains Is Always Good."

Tickets are $2, and may be obtained at the box office the night of the concert

Golden Anniversary Run

We couldn't have asked for better weather for our first 5-mile run on Saturday, Nov. 5. The morning of the race was a beautiful, sunny 70 degrees with 62 percent humidity and no strong headwinds.

A field of 423 racers wound their way through John Prince Park and along the shores of Lake Osborne. At each mile, their times were called out by helpers from the college while volunteers from the Palm Beach Amateur Radio Service communicated mile-by-mile results to a person centrally located at the finish line.

Henry Vaughn, a 25-year old insurance agent from Clewiston, was the overall winner with a time of 26:12. He was followed closely behind by Marshall Jones, who crossed the finish line at 26:22.

First place in the women's division went to Nina Foster, a Palm Beach Gardens resident and part time student in the Business Administration Department. She finished at 32:35.

Among the 423 were PBJC employees, such as Erin Brandy and Teri Lenahan from PBJC North, Robert Morphew, Tom Mullins and Gerry Oenbrink. (Oenbrink won first place in the women's 30-34 age group).

The youngest runner was nine-year old Terry Gibson and the oldest was 64-year old Dan Biele.

There were a number of runners who showed that families that play together, stay together. Fourteen husband-wife pairs competed, as well as 17 parent-child teams. Three families had at least three members running.

Needless to say, the run was fun for the competitors as well as the coordinators.

"I was very pleased with the organization and support from the members of the college family. It was a lot of fun," said Dr. Erling. "The committee will recommend to Dr. Eissey that the run be continued next year."

The run was co-sponsored by Barnett Banks; Gatorade, Lake Worth Herald, Cushman Fruit Co., WNGS Radio, the Palm Beach School of Holistic Massage, Crystal Rock Water, the T-Shirt Factory, Yellow Cab, and Overland Construction Co. also supported it.

NOVEMBER DOLLY HAND EVENTS

Two musical events for the whole family are planned at PBJC Glades during November.

The Artful Dodger and other characters from the Dickens' classic "Oliver Twist" will come alive on stage at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center Saturday, Nov. 19 at 8 p.m.

The musical "Oliver" will be performed by the Florida Artistic Management Theatre of Jacksonville. General admission is $12 for adults and $6 for children.

On Sunday, Nov. 27, the Poinciana Children's Theatre will present "All the Things We Are" at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

An original musical written by Lois Biddix, it is the story of love shared by those involved in group art called THEATRE.

Showtime is 2:30 p.m., and all seats are $3.

For more information, call Judy Schiele at 439-8160 or 996-3055 (Glades).

Golden Anniversary Off To A Great Start

By any measure, the Golden Anniversary year is off to a great start. The dinner/dance and the events of Nov. 3 through Nov. 8--six official events and a couple of extra bonuses--were all considered successful by those organizing the events as well as the participants.

Beginning with the Sports Day in the Glades on Thursday, things really began to move quickly. On Friday night, and throughout the weekend, the Senior Players were at work in the auditorium.

Saturday morning at 7:30 a.m. came the Anniversary Run, followed by the Tennis Tournament later that same morning. Saturday night was the first basketball game of the season, an extra added attraction.

Sunday was the day for Open House. Monday night was another added attraction--a band concert.

Tuesday morning was Ed Pugh's extravaganza--a decidedly unusual look at the political system one year before the presidential elections--the POPS convention.

As you read this, the PBJC North community picnic will have taken place. After the musical events outlined on the lead story of this issue, we will have a short breathing spell. The only scheduled event for the rest of 1983 is an Open House at PBJC Glades on Dec. 10.

Basketball Begins

The first basketball game of the season took place Saturday night, Nov. 5, the evening before Open House.

Coach Jim Voight's team jumped to a 27-2 lead over Palm Beach Atlantic, and won the game 100-76. Cedric Gray scored 32 points, and three other players were in double figures.

By the time you read this, the team will have played in a tournament at Winter Haven, and will be playing Palm Beach Atlantic again, tonight, 7:30 p.m., at the gym.

So far, the team looks good, and somebody has been doing some hard work. They deserve your support.

Sports Day At PBJC Glades

The Sports Day at PBJC Glades on Nov. 3, 10 a.m. til 2 p.m., was attended by some 150 high school students, who participated in all events with energy and enthusiasm.

PBJC students were also involved in the events, and were the winners in one. The overall race for the most points scored by a team was won by Pahokee High School.

The weather cooperated unbelievably well. The day was filled with rain on the coast, and showers threatened at the Glades, once coming within a mile of the campus--but nobody got wet.

All schools attending won at least one event, and the race for overall champion was not decided until the final event--a run. Pahokee swept first, second and third in this event to become the team winner.

PBJC Wins Women's Tennis Tournament

The best four teams in the state were pitted against each other in the Women's Invitational Tennis Tournament, and PBJC came out on top, with 16 points, followed by Indian River, 12 points, Florida Junior College, 5 points and Broward Community College 4½ points.

In the B Division, Anki Holm, PBJC, defeated Libby Locke, PBJC, 8-2. In the C Division, Lena Svensson, PBJC defeated Leasha Gregson, PBJC, 8-4.

Coach Julio Rive seems to have another winning team assembled.

Many Former Students At Open House

The major anniversary event in the Nov. 3-8 time period was the Open House Sunday at PBJC Central, and this was a friendly, unhurried affair that gave hundreds of people, (it's almost impossible to get a good estimate of numbers), a chance to look at our buildings and programs, and a chance to visit with old friends.

Paul Glynn's photographic display in the cafeteria was spectacular, and former students were having a great time finding themselves and/or friends in the photos and getting together with people they had not seen in years.

There were visitors all over the campus throughout the time period--not in spectacular numbers, but enough to provide some reward for the work of preparation.

The Homecoming aspect of this Open House was its most significant feature, and we will be hearing more about this kind of thing in the future.

Visitors at the bookstore--which really is a spectacular improvement now that the space has been doubled--were steady throughout the day, and 295 registered for the door prizes there.

There was considerable interest in the computer learning display at the Center for Personalized Instruction. People did not just walk through--they stayed to watch demonstrations.

Thanks to the many who worked so hard to make the Open House such an outstanding success.

"The Night Of January 16th"

Karen Andre, on trial for the murder of millionaire businessman Bjorn Faulkner of New York, was acquitted five times in five separate trials last weekend at Palm Beach Junior College.

The courtroom was on the stage of the Central Auditorium, where the PBJC Senior Players performed Ayn Rand's "The Night of January 16th."

The court was trying to decide whether or not Andre pushed her lover out the window of his penthouse apartment, or whether he committed suicide.

The unique aspect of the play was that each night, the twelve jury members were selected from the audience. The juries for each of the three evening performances and two matinees all rendered the verdict of "not guilty."

"A tabulation of verdicts given during a Broadway run of the play showed that acquittals outnumbered convictions three to one," said Nancy Goodwin, director. "This could indicate a public bias against capital punishment."

Goodwin said the play "went over well," in both attendance and audience response. Consequently, the group will give a benefit performance Nov. 19 at the Crestwood Community School in Royal Palm Beach.

"We were very successful, and I'd like to thank all who've helped with it," she said. "I've been getting calls from people who want to get involved with the Senior Players."

Part of the PBJC Continuing Education Division, the Senior Players are actors and actresses 55 years of age or older.

LATE ANNOUNCEMENT: On Thursday, Nov. 17, colleges across the nation will be celebrating the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout Day. The Student Health Service at PBJC is inviting all smokers at all four campuses to kick the habit for at least 24 hours. Pledge sheets and quitters guide are available in the student health clinic. Call Mary Cannon, 8066.

"The Day After"

The PBJC Social Science Department will hold a community forum on the nuclear arms race Monday, Nov. 21 from 7-9 p.m. in the Allied Health Lecture Hall.

The forum will address the ABC-TV film "The Day After," which will be broadcast Sunday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m.

"Several members of the social science department will be panelists who will discuss the film and its implications," said Dr. Richard Yinger, coordinator. "Our goal is to provide an opportunity for expression of a wide range of attitudes and feelings in response to the nuclear arms race."

He said colleges and universities all across America are trying to prepare for (the film showing) by holding forums such as the one planned at PBJC.

"We hope the citizens of our community will feel free to come and express their ideas," he said.

Professors End Walkout At California College

A three-week strike by faculty members at Compton Community College ended when the faculty union accepted increased course loads and cuts in salaries and benefits.

Members of the Compton Community College Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Teachers (A.F.L.-C.I.O), voted 39 to 6 to accept a new contract calling for a 5 percent reduction in pay, a 12 percent cut in medical benefits, and an increase in teaching assignments.

Most of the 140 faculty members walked out when the college's board of trustees imposed almost identical cuts. The board said they were necessary because of reductions in state aid for California's community-college system. (News Item Reprint)

Toe-Tapping Jazz In Store For December

Sy Pryweller and his Jazz Bands have become one of the most popular musical groups in the county,it seems.

Last Monday, the Twelve O'Clock and Five O'Clock Jazz Bands performed in a double concert to a large crowd at the Central Auditorium.

"We had a nice-sized crowd, a mixture of old and young people," Sy Pryweller said. "We did 'Take the A Train,' 'Just the Way You Are,' and pieces by Woody Herman, Count Basie and Buddy Rich that were very popular."

The Bands' agendas are fairly full for the rest of the year. Here are some of the concert dates you may not want to miss:

*Friday through Sunday, Dec. 2; "Frolic 1983, an Extravaganza of the Arts in Palm Beach County" will be sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Dept. at Santaluces High School. Both Jazz Bands will perform Dec. 2 at 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Admission is free.

*Monday, Dec. 5 and 12; Christmas Festival in downtown Lake Worth; times TBA.

*Sunday, Dec. 11; PBJC Concert Band and Choir will give a holiday concert in the Central Auditorium, 2 p.m., free.

"THANK YOU" to all staff and students who volunteered to make the Golden Anniversary Run an outstanding event of the 50th Anniversary Calendar. Runners and workers all had a good time. It was especially gratifying to see all the parts come together as a whole in such a complex event. Your enthusiasm made this event a positive experience for all of us who participated. Our thanks to all who worked so diligently to fill their assignments. It is being recommended that it become an annual event, so we hope that we can count on you next year!!

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 6 November 21, 1983

First Meeting On New Campus

Board's November Meeting Is At PBJC South

The regular November meeting of the Palm Beach Junior College trustees will take place Tuesday, Nov. 22, 7:30 p.m., at PBJC South, in Boca Raton.

A reception for the board, prior to the meeting, has been scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

The meetings will take place in one of the recently-erected relocatable buildings on the PBJC South campus, an area in the northeast section of the Florida Atlantic University campus on Florida Atlantic Bldv., north of the Henderson University School.

This will be the first meeting of the board on the site where PBJC South buildings will be erected as funds become available.

The board faces a 43-item agenda, but none of the items appear to be controversial, and most will probably be passed on a single vote with the consent agenda.

In "New Business" the board will be asked to approve the student calendar for 1984/85, and the annual update of the College Plan.

Six of the 16 items in Business Affairs involve renewing agreements with the School Board, the South Florida Fair, the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, the Institute of New Dimensions,

PBJC North Community Picnic A Splashing Success

The Golden Anniversary Community Picnic, held at PBJC North Nov. 12, made a big splash... and most of the waves seemed to have come from the dunking booth.

By far the most popular attraction, the dunk ank humbled such notables as Dr. Ottis Smith, Dr. Sarah Pappas, John Jenkins and Carolyn Martin.

But the longest line formed when Dr. Eissey sat on the platform.

"The only person who didn't hit the target to drop me into the water was Pat Wilson, and she really tried," Dr. Eissey said.

"By the way, the water was very, very cold!"

Another event that attracted interest was a co-ed softball tournament among the four area chambers of commerce: Palm Beach Gardens, Northern Palm Beach County, Jupiter-Tequesta, and the Chamber of Commerce of the Palm Beaches.

In the first round, Palm Beaches beat Northern Palm Beach County, and Palm Beach Gardens won over Jupiter-Tequesta (by default). Palm Beaches wrapped up the final game with an 8-6 win over Palm Beach Gardens.

In addition to softball, there were other games for all ages. These included ring toss, go fish, volleyball, football, potato sack aces, three-legged races, egg toss and horseshoes.

The Phi Beta Lambda and Phi Theta Kappa student organizations provided hot dogs,

Let's Take A Look At The Pacers

Now that Golden Anniversary events are slowing down a bit, why not make this the time to begin taking a look at this year's basketball Pacers?

The Jim Voights, (we have the only father/son coaching in this part of the country), have put together a team of runners and leapers who may be giving other teams in our division a lot more trouble than they anticipate if the shooting gets a bit better.

So far, the record is 4-1, with two wins over Palm Beach Atlantic, close wins over Polk and Edison, and a substantial loss to Brevard, one of the teams always in the thick of the fight for state supremacy.

In terms of conference play, the Pacers were recently called the "mystery team" by the Miami Herald, which called Dade North the overwhelming favorite to win the Southern Conference title again this year.

Dade North's Falcons lost their two top scorers from last year, but have Tony Fairley, a 6-2 guard who is being called a potential All-American, and Bernard Innocent, a 6-9 center returning -- and have added Randall Mounts from last year's Pacer team to offset the loss of last year's scorers.

The Herald article ranked Dade South as good, but short, Indian River as a team with a winning tradition but little bench strength, Broward as hurt severely by graduation of the entire starting team, and Edison as tall and with improvement over last year's 3-23 mark.

If you want a look at the "mystery team," you can have it tonight at the gym when the Pacers face Daytona Beach, and again on Nov. 30 when they meet Manatee. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

cold drinks, cotton candy and other treats. PBJC's Five O' Clock Jazz Band and several bands from Rock of Ages Productions in Riviera Beach provided good live music.

"The purpose of the picnic was to bring recognition to PBJC North and to acknowledge the Golden Anniversary. We succeeded in that," said Dr. Ottis Smith. "The beauty of it was the way the faculty, students, staff, and the chamber members worked together and got to know one another."

"We also had a goal of breaking even financially," he added.

"We did take in enough money to cover the cost of the picnic."

PALM BEACH CHORALE

The 35-member Palm Beach Chorale (part of the Continuing Education Division) will perform classical works by J.S. Bach and Johann Pachelbel tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Auditorium.

Directed by David Chandler, the group will be accompanied by a chamber ensemble and harpsichord. The program will include Bach's "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" and Pachelbel's "What God Ordains Is Always Good."

Tickets are $2 and may be obtained tonight at the box office.

There is only one more Golden Anniversary event this year; the Open House at PBJC Glades is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 10. We will have more reports later on the Glades Open House and events scheduled for 1984.

Three Day Spring Break In 1985

A three-day spring break for students and faculty in the 1985 Winter Term is included in a student calendar to go before the board at Tuesday's meeting of the trustees.

The break, on March 4, 5, and 6, 1985, will be on a one-year trial basis.

If the break creates controversy, or if attendance by faculty and staff on days before and after the break is significantly lower than usual, the administration will reconsider its position.

Please note that the spring break is for students and for faculty not on year-round contracts. It is not for other employees.

Considerable preparation went into the administration's recommendation.

A survey was conducted during this term to determine the attitude of the faculty, department/division chairpersons and students toward instituting a three-day spring break during the Winter Term, 1985.

One hundred and ninety-six faculty were mailed questionnaires. One hundred and forty-two faculty returned questionnaires.

Twenty-six department/division chairpersons were mailed questionnaires and 22 were returned.

Twenty-seven ENC1101 classes, which had 488 students enrolled, were surveyed. Four hundred and seventy-four questionnaires were returned.

Following are the distributions of responses to the question, "Do you support a three-day classroom spring break at Palm Beach Junior College, which would start during the Winter Term, 1985? The break would require that the winter term be extended by three classroom days."

Sabbatical Leave Requests

Requests for sabbatical leave must be submitted before December 1, 1983.

Sabbatical leave may be granted for the purpose of travel, professional academic advancement, or health restoration if one does not have accumulated sick leave in a sufficient amount to take care of the health problem.

To be eligible for sabbatical leave, one must be in or beyond the 7th continuous year of fulltime employment at the college. For further details regarding the guidelines for sabbatical leave, please see the Personnel Rules Manual, Board Rule 6HX-18-5.37 on pages 35 and 36.

Please send all requests directly to Sarah Pappas at the North Campus. Dr. Pappas is Chairman of the 1983-84 Sabbatical Leave Committee. She can be reached at 622-2440, ext. 256, if you have any questions.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 7 November 28, 1983

Our Audit Was Great

A Misleading Article Causes Concern

A wildly overstated article in the Palm Beach Times, false and misleading despite the correctness of some of its facts, has caused more questions to Dr. Eissey in his ongoing "Coffee With Ed" series than any other current issue.

A balanced version which appeared in the Sun Sentinel two days later seems not to have overcome the initial misleading impression made by the Times story, according to repeated questions to Dr. Eissey. Herewith, an attempt to set the record straight.

1. Our latest state audit was not bad, not poor, not average, not merely good--it was great. One of the cleanest audits in the state this year, according to the state auditor's office. The audit itself says our books are in order in every major revenue and expenditure category.

2. It is true that in one of the hundreds of reports the college fills out every year the financial aid office reported total enrollment that included non-credit enrollment as well as credit enrollment.

3. It is also true that the college did not receive one penny of additional revenue because of this error, and could not have done so.

4. Obviously, since we received no extra funds, we will not be required to repay anything.

A Big Winner In Second Place

Sometimes you do not have to come in first in order to be a winner, and that was the case with George Matsoukas in his attempt to become the second vice president of the Florida Association of Community Colleges.

"It was a great experience," George says. "I was proud to be a member of the PBJC delegation.

"Everybody worked very hard, and I believe we made a very positive impression on many of the 800 people at the state convention."

George's opponent, Cynthia Gould, of Lake Sumter, an FACC member and worker for many years, is the new second vice president, but many PBJC delegates said the race had been worthwhile.

"I think we did a lot with limited resources," said Alice Carlisle. "Some of those candidates for office were spending a lot of money."

"The esprit de corps was great," says Dr. Eissey. "It was definitely a positive experience."

Other highlights of the convention for our delegation included the election to regional offices of John Schmiederer and Ron Moses.

An emotionally satisfying event came with our President Emeritus, Dr. Harold C. Manor, who was one of two persons awarded an honorary Life Membership to FACC.

George, who is president of our local chapter, says we can look forward to much more local FACC activity this year.

United Way Expresses Appreciation

A letter of appreciation recently sent to Dr. Eissey from the general chairman of United Way is really intended for all who worked in the campaign, and is reproduced below.

Fred Holling, our local chairman, reports contributions increased from previous years, but have not yet reached the level we should be reaching. The letter follows:

Dear Ed:

It is evident by the support of your employees to our United Way, that they continue to care about our community's future. We want you to know that renewal of that support to United Way and its 47 agencies is an indication of true dedication to Palm Beach County and its need for human care services.

Your United Way is the most efficient and most responsive way of solving community problems through its diverse network of agencies, programs and services.

Available is emergency shelter for abused children, professional counseling that unites families torn apart by divorce, drugs, alcohol or financial problems. Your employee's gifts will also continue to provide day care services for working mothers, character building programs such as the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Y's; services that aid the handicapped and the retarded. Some offer direct help to families in need, for the aged, the helpless and people who are our friends and neighbors.

Your generosity is greatly appreciated and on behalf of the thousands of people helped everyday by our agencies, their programs and services, we thank all of you for helping us achieve our goal.

Sincerely,
Ivan Ward
1983 General Campaign Chairman

The facts are that in annual reports of 1978-81, the financial aid office inadvertently quoted enrollment figures that included non credit as well as credit courses.

Enrollment is not a factor in determining the amount of financial aid. That amount is based on numbers of students needing financial aid, and in numbers previously receiving financial aid, and our reports were correct in the figures that mattered.

From that tiny molehill of a mistake, the Times built a mountain of innuendo and false impression.

The Times headline looked like this:

Audit finds PBJC enrollment overstated by up to 47.9%

Two days later, a Sun Sentinel writer, who took time to call the director of financial aid and get the true story on the enrollment, wrote a story which got this headline:

Auditors give high marks to PBJC's cost control efforts

Beauty is not the only thing in the eye of the beholder. Truth is, too. ...Jonathan Koontz

Board Meets At PBJC South

The relocatable classroom on the brand new campus of PBJC South was completely filled for the November meeting of the college trustees Tuesday night.

Fortunately for the 10 or so persons standing near the doorway, the meeting was short, lasting just a bit more than one half hour.

Pat Dyer, South Provost, said the five relocatables used for classrooms, are fully occupied from 7:30 a.m. - 10 p.m., and house only 78 of the 229 sections offered by PBJC South this term.

The board approved:

A student calendar for 1984/85 which includes a three-day spring break on March 4, 5, and 6, 1985.

The updated college plan for 1983/84.

Thirteen pages of personnel items.

An articulation agreement with the school board relative to dual enrollment.

Waiver of tennis and racquetball court fees for senior citizens over 62.

Twenty nine other items on the consent agenda.

Dr. Eissey On Search Committee

Some very important changes are occurring in higher education in Florida at this time, and three friends from Palm Beach County are playing key roles: Marshall Criser, Phil Lewis, and Dr. Edward M. Eissey, PBJC president.

Criser has been named by the Florida Board of Regents as the new president of the University of Florida. He is a Palm Beach attorney who has been associated with education, both professionally and as a public service for nearly 30 years.

Former Senate President Phil Lewis has been named to the newly-created State Board of Community Colleges, and elected vice chairman of that powerful new board. This board will act as the board of regents of the community college system.

One of the most important early actions of the State Board of Community Colleges will be the selection of an executive director. Harold Kastner has been appointed interim executive director while the search is on.

Dr. Eissey has been named as a member of the selection committee which will conduct the search for an executive director. The director will have the duties and responsibilities formerly carried by the Director of the Division of Community Colleges, a position that does not exist under the new management system.

Have Program Will Travel

Are you looking for a 30 minute program which will interest, stimulate, and educate you, your students,or club members? We have the answer for you.

WOMAN: HER STORY is an original documentary written by Lois "Sunny" Meyer, assistant professor in the Communications Department, and performed by PBJC drama students. The production depicts the birth of the Women's Movement from Abigail Adams up to Dr. Alice Paul. In addition to the sentiments of Abigail Adams, who begged her husband to "remember the ladies," we also see Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who admonished men, "Let us take care of ourselves;" and Susan B. Anthony, who urged women to "Resist tyranny and fight for the equality under the law."

The production is fully rehearsed and ready to go on the road. For reservations and information about WOMAN: HER STORY, call 8139 or 8142. ...Sunny Meyer

Hire Ed

The compilation of requests to hire the president for a workday have started to come in to the office of Dr. Elisabeth Erling, and three appointments have been made. They are:

Computer Operator, Jan. 5, 8:30-11:30 a.m. This is during registration, so if anything goes wrong with the Winter Term registration, we can blame our new computer operator.

Political Science Instructor, Feb. 17, 7:30-8:30. Sounds like a natural.

Bookstore Clerk, May 1, during buy back. Will give the president a chance to explain why the student is getting only $2.60 for the same book he paid $19.60 for three months earlier.

These three are the only dates that will be set at this time. Dr. Erling is compiling a list of requests, and a selection will be made after the cutoff date of Dec. 23.

Both instructional dates and work of other types are being coordinated by Dr. Erling's office.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 8 December 5, 1983

-- Senator Lawton Chiles At PBJC

U.S. Has Proof Of Cuban Drug And Gun Trade

Cuba has an extensive hand in the drug trade to the United States and gun-running operations to South America which should be called to the attention of the United Nations, according to U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles (D-Fla).

Sen. Chiles was on the PBJC campus last Tuesday to "do some listening" before Congress re-convenes and to give his Florida constituents an update of his position on current issues.

"We've gotten definite proof that drug boats enroute to the U.S. are being allowed to stop and refuel, and even get aid, in Cuba. On the way back, they are being loaded with arms to take to guerillas in the Caribbean," he told the audience of students, faculty and staff in the Allied Health Lecture Hall.

"I think the U.S. should take this problem to the United Nations," he added.

Chiles is the ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee, as well as a member of the Appropriations and Governmental Affairs committees. Other points he covered included:

*The Caribbean area --he reported all combat troops should be out of Grenada by Christmas, and that the British will be supplying help with a peacekeeping force there. The provisional government is making progress toward re-establishing free elections.

Conversely, the situations in El Salvador and Nicaragua are "still explosive" but the U.S. is trying to find a middle group to support that will uphold human rights, yet be democratic.

*The budget--he called the $200 billion deficit "one of the greatest problems facing us today," and said partisanship between the House and the Senate/Presidency was causing a political standoff that was stalling any effort to rectify

An Important Announcement From Finance And Payroll

A major step in modernizing the financial software at the college is scheduled to begin next week, and both payroll and finance will be on unusual schedules.

"We are trying to have the baseline system installed by Jan. 2." says Barry Rogers. "It will take weeks to get the entire system operational, but we will need to be in business with the basics when the college opens after the holidays."

Here are dates to be remembered:

This Friday, Dec. 9: Travel reimbursements with proper receipts must be in to payroll. All checks and purchase orders should be processed by this date.

Monday, Dec. 12: All payroll reports for Dec. 9-15 must be returned to payroll by 9:30AM. Any time not reported by 9:30AM on Dec. 12 will be paid on Jan. 5, 1984.

Wednesday, Dec. 14: NO CHECKS AND PURCHASE ORDERS PROCESSED AFTER THIS DATE. Absolute last day open this year.

Thursday, Dec. 15: Cashier's office, accounting office will be closed on this date. They will open again on Jan. 2.

The software system now in use was installed in 1968 for use in an entirely different hardware than we now have. Fifteen years is a very long time for anything to stay in use in data processing.

The new system is state of the art, and will allow online retrieval of

PBJC Glades Holds Open House Saturday

Seniors and parents from six high schools around the Lake will be the guests of PBJC Glades at at Open House Saturday, Dec. 10 from 6-7:15 p.m.

"All the college departments will have exhibits, and instructors or staff will be on hand to answer any questions," said Mary Orsenigo, registrar. "Our Phi Theta Kappa students will act as guides."

The Open House will also include free tickets (on a first-come, first-served basis) to a Christmas Program in the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

The Coral Ridge Presbyterian Church Music Department, under the direction of Roger McMurrin, will perform Christmas melodies beginning at 7:30 p.m. The regular admission will be $7.

Invitations to the Open House, which is the only Golden Anniversary event scheduled for December, were sent to: Glades Central, Clewiston, Moore Haven, and Pahokee high schools, and Christian Day and Glades Day schools.

Music Department To Present Holiday Concert

A concert of classics and holiday music will be presented by the Music Department Sunday, December 11 at 2 p.m. in the Central Auditorium.

The PBJC Concert Choir, directed by Pat Johnson, and the PBJC Concert Band, directed by Sy Pryweller, will be featured in the performance.

The choir's selections include "Fanfare for Christmas Day," "A Song for Chanukah," and a section from Bach's "Magnificat."

The Band will play Holst's "Second Suite for Band," Alfred Reed's "Russian Christmas Music," and Leroy Anderson's "Christmas Festival."

In addition, the dual trumpets of Sy Pryweller and Jim Bonner (band director at Glades School) will perform Franceschini's "Sonata for Two Trumpets and Band," with the Concert Band conducted by Nick Patsis.

Admission is free, and the public is invited.

Satellite Center Opening

A press conference is scheduled tomorrow, Dec. 6, to announce the opening of a new satellite center on 15th Street in West Palm Beach in an affirmative action effort to obtain greater participation of the black community in the college. The Monday Report will carry news about the new center in future issues.

PBJC North Starts Thanksgiving One Day Early

. Ottis Smith looked surprised, pleased, but a bit puzzled as PBJC North faculty and staff, plus some friends from other campuses, broke into a chorus of "for he's a jolly good fellow" when he walked into the student information office Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 23, just before Thanksgiving.

The puzzled expression is understandable.

Ottis is not retiring. It was not his birthday. It was not even an anniversary.

What it was is much better than retiring, or birthdays, or anniversaries.

It was a warm and genuine expression of good will for the work Ottis has done for the college, and particularly for PBJC North.

The faculty and staff wanted to say, just before Thanksgiving, that their boss was what they were thankful for. A sample of statements:

Freddie Jefferson: "Dr. Smith taught me that the way you do an undoable job is to divide it into doable parts."

Al Meldon: "He gives us the great gift of self confidence. We can't let him down."

Betty Woolfe: "Thank you for touching our lives in a caring way."

Marilyn Wojciechowski: "I think he's super."

Robin Cannon,(student): "He seems always to be smiling, and saying you are doing well."

Susan Hamlin presented perhaps the most permanent gift--a notebook of thoughts from everybody in Susan's fine calligraphy.

Perhaps the most impermanent gift came from PTK--a bouquet of lighter than air balloons, with an explanation that "you give us a lift."

Teresa Woolfe presented another staff gift--a desk clock and pen set.

And finally,Ottis: "My prayers are answered daily by the friends I have working with me."

Then everybody ate the delicious food, visited with each other, shook hands, and went home for a Thanksgiving holiday they had already celebrated.

the budget. He stressed each faction would have to compromise in order to remove any structural budget deficits.

*Arms Race--he advocates a mutual reduction of nuclear arms in the U.S. and the Soviet Union, coupled with better communications. Yet any negotiations by the U.S. should come from a position of strength.

*Government contracts--he advocated more competition in the bidding for government contracts in order to cut waste. The Grace Commission recently appointed by President Reagan is currently studying government procurement practices.

A reception for Sen. and Mrs. Chiles in Conference Room C followed the assembly.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 9 December 12, 1983

Classes Begin In January

New Satellite Center Opened In West Palm Beach

A new Palm Beach Junior College center on 15th Street in West Palm Beach will open in January in the hope of serving the large minority community in which it is located, according to Dr. Eissey.

The college is "committed to raising the academic standards of the entire community," Dr. Eissey told a press conference Tuesday at the Adult Education Center, where some 16 courses will be offered in the Winter Term.

He pointed out that the Adult Education Center is equidistant between PBJC Central in Lake Worth and PBJC North on PGA Blvd., and that classes there will make entry into the college much easier for residents of the West Palm Beach-Riviera Beach area.

Dr. Mel Haynes said the idea had been under development for about six months. A number of religious, education and business leaders from the black community attended the conference to show support.

The center will be a satellite of PBJC North, and will be open for dual enrollment of high school students, according to Dr. Ottis Smith, PBJC North Provost, answering a query from a North Shore counselor.

Jesse Ferguson, evening registrar at the college until his retirement in 1982, has agreed to be the on-site administrator for the new center.

The center is already open for walk-in registration, and will remain open until

Meldon Is Speaker At Mid-Year Graduation

Palm Beach Junior College will hold its second mid-year commencement program Thursday, Dec. 22 at 8 p.m., in the college gymnasium.

Until this year, the college has held only one graduation ceremony per year, usually in May, at the end of the academic year. This year, for the first time, exercises have been scheduled for the end of the Summer Term,and the end of the Fall Term.

Some 225 sophomore students will graduate with Associate in Arts or Associate in Science degrees, according to Charles Graham, registrar. About 75 faculty members are expected to take part in the traditional ceremony.

The graduates will be from all four PBJC campuses.

The program was scheduled in the gym when it became obvious that there would not be enough seating in the college auditorium, Graham said.

"There should be adequate room in the gym for all who would like to come," Graham said. "Family members are encouraged to share this moment with the graduates."

The commencement speaker will be Alfred W. Meldon, Jr., a senior instructor in Social Science at PBJC North.

Meldon, a graduate of New York University with a Master's degree from Columbia, has been with PBJC since 1970.

Two Students Help Our Security Force

Two students at PBJC Central helped one of our security guards chase down a couple of suspects in a real life drama Tuesday in our own parking lot.

Security had been looking for two people who had been seen around a bike rack Sunday when a bike, (left chained to the rack over the weekend), had been stolen.

Tuesday morning, following up on a tip, guard Chris LaRoche observed two men leave one car in the parking lot, open up a second car, and get in. When he approached, the two started running.

Chris chased and caught one of the suspects.

Two students, Troy Chappell and Joel Heyman, observing what was going on, chased and caught the second suspect. Joel is a part-time security guard here on weekends, but was not on duty at the time.

The two were arrested by a sheriff's deputy, and an investigation is underway. The two suspects are apparently transients.

The Monday Report would like to congratulate the two students for their good citizenship and Chris for being fast enough on his feet to run his man down.

Senior Players Winning Roles

Our Senior Group Theatre organizer, Nancy Goodwin, is excited these days about the success our actors and actresses are having in competition for roles in other area theatrical productions, some professional equity theatres and some not.

"When you realize that some of these people have never been on stage before, and many may have had only limited experience decades ago, it is absolutely thrilling to see them winning roles in other community theater," Nancy says. She cited the following:

Roy Feinberg, who played the role of the District Attorney in our "The Night of January 16th" has won the role of "Roy" in "The Odd Couple" at the Stages Foundation Bravo Production House in Boca Raton.

Ina Sandoval, Kay Dienemann, and Anne Dahl, will appear as the Empress, the Baroness and the Charlady in the upcoming Lake Worth Playhouse production of "Anastasia."

Madeline Shaw, who played Billie Dawn in our "Born Yesterday," is appearing at the Delray Beach Playhouse in "The Bad Seed." Ted Schwab, who was in our "Arsenic and Old Lace" stopped the show with his comedic performance in the recent "Lost On the 4th of July."

If this keeps up, Nancy says, she's going to form her own Alumni Association.

His unusual eloquence in public speaking has been utilized on a number of occasions at PBJC North, but this will be his first appearance at an all-college event.

The graduation exercises include an academic procession, the commencement address, formal conferring of degrees and diplomas,and the presention of diplomas to individual graduates.

Dr. Eissey has scheduled a reception for the graduates at 11 a.m., Dec. 22, in the cafeteria.

Holiday Party Slated For Saturday

The PBJC Holiday in the Country Christmas Party is slated for Saturday, Dec. 17, and the last day for making reservations is tomorrow.

The gala event will be held at the home of Gary and Sandy Richmond, and will begin at 2 p.m., lasting until "whenever."

"We've planned a bonfire and hayride at sunset," said Jennifer McCormick, chairman of the Social, Cultural and Welfare Committee. There should be entertainment every hour and special games for children and for adults. "We suggest people bring things such as musical instruments, sports equipment, chairs and blankets," she added. "People can dress comfortably or up."

The Committee has planned a virtual feast: roast pig, barbecue chicken and hot dogs. Employees from the Glades campus will bring fresh vegetables. North Campus personnel will provide salads, Central Campus employees will provide appetizers, and South Campus people will bring desserts.

Kegs of beer and soft drinks will be available, and those who wish harder stuff may bring their own.

The cost for the party is $2 per adult, with children under 16 free. Families should also bring one covered dish.

"We'd like to know by Dec. 13 (tomorrow) how many are coming so we can order the pig," said Sandy Doyle. "We'll need the money by then also."

For reservations, please call Alice Carlisle at 8083.

Dec. 15, and re-open Jan. 3-5 for the regular registration period.

Classes meet from 5:20 to 10 p.m.

Most of the classes to be offered are in the core curriculum of general education, which can be applied to almost all of the Associate in Arts, and to some of the Associate in Science degree programs offered by the college.

There will also be developmental courses for those needing work prior to tackling college level courses.

Faculty will be assigned to the new center by Dr. Smith.

"I want to assure everyone that the quality of instruction at the 15th Street Center will be the equal of that at any PBJC campus," Dr. Smith said.

Dr. Haynes said the new center can be expanded to cover however many students wish to enroll through the cooperation of the county school system. Dr. James Stewart, principal of the Adult Education Center, was present for the news conference.

Dr. Eissey said the college would continue the center for a full year, hoping that response would be sufficient to justify additional years of operation.

Asked if the college had any guarantee that students would show up for classes, Dr. Eissey said there was none.

"Every time we open a center we do it with sheer courage and a desire to serve," Dr. Eissey said.

Last Wednesday the "Mean Green," PBJC's basketball Pacers, staged an exciting, double-overtime win to avenge an earlier defeat by Brevard, bringing the overall record to 10-5 in the pre-conference part of the season. Next home game is Saturday, 7:30 against Indian River. We have a competitive team--the only thing missing is a large, enthusiastic crowd.

Food-Tasting Extravaganza

The Restaurant Food-Tasting Extravaganza, held last Wednesday, appears to have been a smashing success. The event featured delicacies from about 20 area restaurants, and was sponsored by the PBJC Hospitality Unlimited Club and WNJY-Radio.

More than 500 people came to sample such delicious treats as broccoli parmesan, barbecued ribs, shrimp, hoagies, tacos, fudge pie and chocolate cherry cheesecake.

Proceeds will be used to help defray the cost of sending PBJC Hospitality Management students to the National Restaurant Association annual convention in Chicago this May.

PBJC Supports Start Of County-Wide Volunteer Center

Two PBJC administrators were honored last Tuesday for their "unwavering support" of voluntarism in Palm Beach County.

Drs. Edward M. Eissey and Elizabeth Woolfe were awarded plaques for their involvement with a new county-wide Volunteer Center, and for establishing a one-year certificate program in Volunteer Management at PBJC North (the only program of its kind in the state).

The awards were presented by the Directors of Volunteer Services of Palm Beach County (DOVS).

"Dr. Eissey has agreed to serve on the Advisory Board (of the Volunteer Center), and Dr. Woolfe is on the Board of Directors," said Cathy Coleman, public relations chairman for DOVS.

"The Volunteer Center will be a clearinghouse for information on social, governmental or nonprofit agencies in the county. It will also provide training to volunteers and volunteer managers, and operate a placement service between volunteers and agencies," she added.

The Volunteer Center is a joint effort of DOVS and the Junior League of the Palm Beaches.

Dr. Eissey also pledged his support for another of DOVS' goals: to obtain the necessary approval for an elective in "Volunteer Management" to be included in

Saturday At The College Offered By PBJC North

A special offering of courses on Saturdays during the Winter Term will provide more access to PBJC North, according to Dr. Ottis Smith, provost.

"We don't have any space to expand our offerings during the day and weekday evenings, so our next step is to offer classes on Saturday," Dr. Smith said. "This will take some of the immediate pressure off our expansion."

"We're also hoping to focus on the persons in the community whose needs would best be served by having Saturday classes," he added.

According to Dr. Sarah Pappas, dean of instruction, the credit courses consist of "some unique titles of special interest to adult learners." These include "Asian Studies," "Marriage and Family," and "Child Growth."

In addition, roughly half of the credit courses are additional sections of classes that are presently offered during the week.

"The 'Saturday at the College' program is a typical effort of a community college," Dr. Pappas said.

The non-credit classes are sure to stimulate response, if indeed they haven't already.

Courses for "Technology in the 80's" will be available through the Continuing Education Department.

These include classes in BASIC computer programming, word processing, data base management, computerized payroll systems, and secretarial skills.

Arts Council, County Commission, Media--And Gian Carlo Menotti

Performing Arts Center Plan Strongly Supported

A Performing Arts Center for Palm Beach County to be located on a beautiful site overlooking Lake Osborne adjacent to the PBJC Central Campus has received backing from many different sources in recent days.

The basic idea was put forward by Dr. Eissey more than five years ago, and in 1981 he sought and obtained permission from the board of trustees for the PBJC Foundation to promote a community performing arts center here.

When the new plan surfaced in newspaper articles three weeks ago, it was obvious that a great deal of patient spade work had been going on. The plan,itself, had undergone a considerable transformation, but more importantly, it now had the backing of the many different elements that make up the active support for arts in the county.

Since that time, the Palm Beach County Council of the Arts has officially endorsed the plan, the Palm Beach Post, the Evening Times and Channel 12 have supported it in editorials, and most importantly, the county commission has indicated in a workshop session that it is ready to take the first step.

A visitor to our campus, Gian Carlo Menotti, perhaps the best known living opera composer, spent much of his time in a news conference answering questions about performing arts centers, and speaking of the need for such a center in the county.

On Thursday, Dr. Eissey asked the county commission to donate 10.2 acres of land in John Prince Park to the college for the proposed center, and if the commission actually takes that first crucial step, the plan will be on its way.

This is an exciting new development, with many possibilities for the college, and the community, and the Monday Report will have more information as new developments occur.

Don't Forget The All College Meeting Wednesday

All personnel on duty at 10:30 a.m. Dec. 21 will be attending an all-college meeting at the PBJC Central auditorium. Personnel on other shifts are encouraged to attend, but they are not required to do so.

Dr. Eissey will review events of significance to the college. Students from the Music Department will entertain.

Dr. Erling has again arranged for a number of interesting door prizes.

Board Meets Wednesday

The first two reports of an extensive accountability study required by state law will be presented to the Palm Beach Junior College Board of Trustees at a regular meeting, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

The reports on Standard One, Needs Assessment, and Standard Two, Student Goals, are self-studies made by committees of faculty, administration and trustees.

The trustees will be asked to approve a proposal for use of funds from the Florida Academic Improvement Trust Fund in four areas: a center for personalized instruction at PBJC North, President's Scholars, the computer assisted drafting program, and job development, placement and follow-up.

LATE ANNOUNCEMENT...Due to technical problems associated with the installation of the new finance system, PBJC and SCT have mutually agreed to delay implementation. Therefore, checks and purchase orders may be processed normally. ...B. Rogers

Health Insurance Premiums Increase In January

We have recently received a communication from Gulf Life Insurance Company indicating that effective January 1, 1984 our health insurance premiums would be increased as follows.

	Present	New
Employee	$50.20	$62.65
Dependents	63.95	79.80

Employees with dependent coverage will have their deductions increased from $63.95 to $79.80 on January 5, 1984.

The last premium increase we had was effective September 1, 1982. At that time the School Board of Palm Beach County, which holds the policy which covers Palm Beach Junior College employees, decided it was necessary to initiate a number of cost containment measures to limit escalating insurance costs. As a result they reduced major medical coinsurance payments from 80 to 75 percent for most medical payments. They also reduced the coinsurance payments from 80 to 50 percent for chiropractic treatment and limited the number of covered visits for either chiropractic or mental health treatments to a maximum of 15 per year.

At that time we contacted Gulf Life Insurance Company and noted that we were unwilling to accept those changes. They agreed to continue to make major medical coinsurance payments at the rate of 80 percent for PBJC employees, but the 15-visit per year maximum was placed on chiropractic and mental health treatments.

In the Spring of 1983 Gulf Life issued booklets which to my knowledge are accurate in all respects except that they indicate that chiropractic services are payable at a 50 percent rather than an 80 percent rate. Since those booklets were not distributed to all personnel the Personnel Office is sending the revised booklet to personnel who did not previously receive them.

Please feel free to contact the Personnel Office if you have any questions or wish to make any changes in your insurance coverage. ...J.M. Schneider

PBJC Drama Showcase Presented At Library

Students from Sunny Meyer's Oral Interpretation Class and Pamela Hope-Levin's Acting Class presented dramatic selections for over 50 people at the Palm Beach County Public Library Dec. 8. Included in the program was an original script titled WOMAN: HER STORY by Sunny Meyer. Eight students from Meyer's class appeared in the premiere performance of the original documentary presenting the birth and subsequent progress of the Women's Movement.

The 13 students who participated in the program and the two directors were very pleased with the response from the audience and were especially happy that several of our PBJC faculty members appeared to show their support of the fine dramatic work being done by these students. Meyer and Levin hope to repeat the one and one-half hour program at a future date in the PBJC auditorium and/or another library. Your continued encouragement is always appreciated. ...Sunny Meyer

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

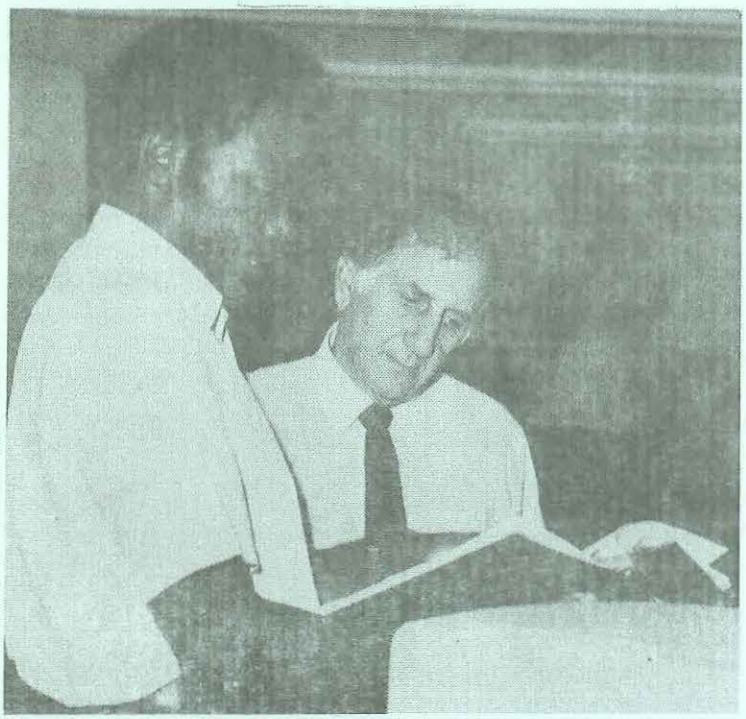
Dr. Eissey Begins Work Days At Data Processing

The first of the one per month work days for Dr. Eissey took place Wednesday morning in the main computer hardware room at PBJC Central, Solomon Jackson's territory.



Everything hummed and whirred and swished along peacefully as the giant computer took care of the busy registration scene next door and slipped in everything Sol and Dr. Eissey asked without any noticeable difference in response time.

Dr. Eissey was in his best receiving mode, and he and Sol were so intent on what they were doing that when Jack Kelly and Dr. Erling showed up they soon saw they were not needed and went back to their own busy schedules.

Solomon, even more solemn than usual, carefully explained, and soon Dr. Eissey was typing on the keyboard while a machine some distance away turned on and off in compliance to the keyboard command.

While Dr. Eissey was there, your Jan. 5 paycheck was run, but before you start looking for a mistake, you want to know that Dr. E. did not touch the paycheck run. No matter how apt he is, a newcomer is not likely to be entrusted with a paycheck run.

And Dr. Eissey was a good student.

"He catches on quick," Solomon says. "I think I could train him to be a pretty good operator."

What Dr. Eissey did was to run a daily financial report--a time consuming task that will become unnecessary sometime in February when a new on-line system is installed.

In the meantime, however, it is an important run, and the big smile on Ed Eissey's face when the printer started zipping out the pages was worth waiting to see.

A schedule of additional work days will be announced in the near future.

All members of the PBJC family are invited to a reception tomorrow evening to mark the opening of JUBILEE: A National Photographic Competition and Exhibition at PBJC South.

The black and white photo contest is part of the Golden Anniversary celebration. The opening will be held from 7-9 p.m. in the Ritter Art Gallery at FAU, and the exhibition will then be open to the public from Wednesday, Jan. 11 to Saturday, Feb. 19.

According to Linda Summers, JUBILEE director, the college received entries from 33 states, from which 62 prints were selected for the competition. Out of those 62, eight of the most outstanding

Trustees Approve Auditorium Renovation

Palm Beach Junior College trustees approved Phase I drawings and specifications for the renovation of the existing auditorium at PBJC Central at the December meeting of the board (Wed., Dec. 21).

The plans enlarge the existing stage, add a five-story fly area, and face it toward the east, where a new 750-seat auditorium will be constructed.

The current auditorium will be converted into much needed backstage areas, office, and a small 150-seat hall.

The board approved the plans, and authorized continued steps in obtaining final plans in preparation for construction bids.

The trustees accepted studies on needs assessment and student goals. The two reports are part of a thorough self-study of accountability required by state law.

The college request for funds from the Florida Academic Improvement Trust Fund was also approved by the board.

The request seeks assistance in developing a personalized instruction center at PBJC North, in funding for president's scholars, in additional equipment for computer-assisted drafting, and funds for job development, placement and follow-up.

were chosen to receive equal awards of $200 cash.

These photographic works will be worth seeing, because the juror (judge) was Todd Walker, an internationally-known photographer.

"We're very pleased to have had someone as prominent as Todd Walker act as juror," Summers said. "Todd said he was very pleased with the selection of photos we received, and felt it was representative of what was currently being done in photography academically across the nation."

Walker is professor of photography at the University of Arizona, and is a former assistant professor of photography at the University of Florida. He was also a self-employed photographer in Beverly Hills, Calif. for 24 years.

He is shown in 29 permanent collections, including the Museum of Modern Art in New York, Philadelphia Museum of Art, National Gallery of Canada, Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris, and the George Eastman House in Rochester, N.Y.

He also has (as of May, 1983) 45 one-man and over 100 group exhibits to his credit.

The Ritter Art Gallery will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. Admission is free.

Bilingual Approach

A course for businesspersons in establishing good customer relations with Hispanic clientele will be offered beginning Tuesday, Jan. 17.

"Bilingual Approach to Business" will be held Tuesdays, from 7-9 p.m. in Room SC 121 at PBJC Central. The class will conclude April 24.

According to coordinator John Townsend, the course was developed to meet the needs of area business establishments and service providers in conducting business with patrons with limited English-speaking abilities.

The fee is $30. For further information, call the Continuing Education Office at 8006.

Physical Plant Adopts A Family For Christmas

The Christmas spirit was indeed alive and well this year at PBJC, as physical plant employees joined together to adopt a needy West Palm Beach family.

The idea was originated by Don Pearsall, and a total of $325 was collected to buy gifts of clothing, toys, and food for the family whose five children range in age from 1½ to 8 years.

The spirit of giving poured over into other departments, as well. Dental Health offered tooth brushes and tooth paste. Physical Education donated used sports equipment, and the Bookstore offered reduced rates on T-shirts.

Anna Kiger, Humanities secretary, donated a bushel of grapefruits, and cafeteria manager Dave Gruender supplied a 10 pound hen. Frank Bollon topped it all off with his donation of a humongous stuffed animal.

All divisions of physical plant were involved, including groundskeepers, maintenance, security, custodial, and inventory. Mary Ann Reasner and Marla Tatman spent many hours shopping and wrapping the gifts.

According to Marla, there are already plans to do this again next year, only on a much larger scale, and involving the entire college.

Jan. 27 "Anastasia: The Riddle of Anna Anderson" by Peter Kurth. Did Anastasia, the beautiful young daughter of Tsar Nicholas II, really escape the fate of the imperial family that bloody night of July 16, 1918?

Reviews are held in the Woman's Club in West Palm Beach, and begin at 3 p.m. There is a $3 donation.

A National Forum On Excellence In Education

Dr. Barbara Matthews of our Social Science faculty was invited by the U.S. Department of Education to participate in the National Forum on Excellence in Education held in Indianapolis in mid-December. The Secretary of Education called the meeting in response to the National Commission's "A Nation at Risk" Report released earlier this year.

The commission had been created because of "the widespread public perception that something is seriously remiss in our educational system," and had concluded that "the educational foundations of our society are presently being eroded by a rising tide of mediocrity that threatens our very future."

The National Forum, called to address the "imperative for educational reform," considered three major areas:

a. The Teaching Profession
b. Standards and Expectations
c. Roles and Responsibilities

Dr. Matthews' contribution was in the specific areas of teacher recruitment and educational equity.

Secretary Bell indicated that never had there been a meeting like this, and Matthews commented that "the energy level is too high for this to fall flat...not since the late fifties has there been such an intense interest in educational reform."

"There is a danger, however, in going off in too many directions at once. Merit pay plans, entrance and exit exams, teaching-the-test issues,more credits for this or that, and extending the school day may be obscuring the central point. The most critical concern of all is attracting and developing highly competent persons in this profession." Matthews noted that "the American public has been contented with educational decline, but so has educational leadership."

The Commission report concluded that "if an unfriendly foreign power had attempted to impose on America the mediocre educational performance that exists today, we might have viewed it as an act of war. As it stands, we have allowed this to happen to ourselves... we have, in effect, been committing an act of unthinking, unilateral educational disarmament."

President Ronald Reagan closed the meeting and expressed his appreciation to the participants for their contributions.

Conference materials will be placed on reserve in the library.

Blood Bank Honors Circle K

The Circle K Club at PBJC has been selected by the Palm Beach Blood Bank, Inc., to receive the bank's highest tribute--a Public Service Award in the Special Category.

John H. Flynn, president of the Blood Bank, told Dr. Eissey in a recent letter that the award will be granted "in recognition of the outstanding calibre of the Club's sustained support for the blood bank and the human needs of the community."

The award will be presented during the Annual Donor Awards Banquet Jan. 28th at the PGA Sheraton.

A New Grant For Programs Of Excellence

Palm Beach Junior College has been notified of a state grant of $53,671 from the 1983-84 Postsecondary Education Programs of Excellence project, according to Dr. Eissey.

"The funds will allow us to move ahead more rapidly in the math and computer education areas," Dr. Eissey said.

The PBJC grant will be used for three projects developed by Dr. Pat Dyer, vice president-elect of academic affairs.

The first is a project in computer literacy for faculty and students, with an introductory and an advanced level. The classes, planned for late February or early March, will be held in the late afternoon, and will also be open to high school faculty members.

The second is a pilot project in concentrated individualized training for students who have applied for admission to the college and who have not met minimum standards for college level work in math.

"We want to see if we can increase the mathematical competence of these students quickly through the use of personalized instruction," Dr. Dyer said.

The third PBJC project will aid students who wish to review math skills in preparation for the College Level Academic Skills Test they must pass before entering the junior year at a state university.

Golf Privilege Card

The American Lung Association's 1984 Golf Privilege Card is now available. For a $20 donation, golfers can obtain a card that waives the green fees for 18 holes of golf at 59 different southeast Florida golf courses.

Courses on the card include: PGA National, Boca West, Indian Trail, North Palm Beach, West Palm Beach, Sandpiper Bay, Inverrary and Dorral.

In most cases, cardholders are entitled to play weekdays all day and weekends after 1 p.m. from May through October. Contact the American Lung Association, 2701 N. Australian Ave., WPB 33407 or phone 659-7644.

In addition, cards can be obtained at the Chambers of Commerce in Northern Palm Beach, Lake Worth, Boca Raton and Jupiter/Tequesta.

Lower Division Is Approved

The following article recently appeared in the "Update" from Florida Atlantic University:

Beginning with the fall 1984 semester, FAU expects to add 200 freshmen to its student body as the result of the Board of Regents' approval on Nov. 4 of the new lower division program.

Last spring the Board of Regents gave its approval to offer freshman and sophomore classes, and only the acceptance by the Board of Regents of the University's proposed academic program was required before opening the doors to applicants.

The limited access program will be open only to those who score 1000 or higher on the SAT (23 on the ACT) and have a B average (3.0 or higher) in high school academic courses.

According to Dr. Robert Stetson, director of Lower Division Planning, scholarships will be available for freshmen in addition to other forms of financial aid such as grants, loans and work-study. Martin Luther King scholarships will be available to qualified black applicants.

It is our sad duty to report that Frank Guerrera, math and physics teacher at PBJC South, died on Dec. 21 in Maine. Frank, who has been a full-time teacher for about three years and was adjunct before that, was on leave this year for treatment for cancer in Boston.

Jim Houser fans will be happy to know that he is opening a new show at Camino Real in Boca Raton on Feb. 14. Jim's paintings are usually being shown either in New York or Boca Raton.

Thank you all for the many cards and telephone calls while I was at Good Samaritan Hospital. It is so nice to be remembered by so many. I hope I will be back at my desk early in the New Year.

Kateri Brunell completed the Toastmasters International Basic Communication and Leadership course (15 speech projects) in December, and earned the designation of "Competent Toastmaster."

Near the end of the December trustees meeting, Dr. Eissey said that Tony Tate had a surprise announcement. Dr. Tate said he was, indeed surprised that he was going to make the announcement, but then disclosed the worst-kept secret on campus--he and Jennifer McCormick are engaged. The blushing bride-to-be was urged to stand for recognition, and a chorus of best wishes ensued. The Monday Report joins that chorus.

Jobs As Well As Counseling

Project Crossroads Gets Underway AT PBJC

A new program to help displaced homemakers adjust to living alone will go into operation today at PBJC Central. It will help with jobs as well as counseling.

The Crossroads project, funded by a $49,854.94 grant from the State Health and Rehabilitative Services Department, is under the aegis of the Continuing Education Division.

"This program is geared primarily for divorced women over the age of 35 years who are trying to re-enter the job market," said Roger Nielsen, project director.

"We expect the majority of our clients to be widowed or divorced, however, anyone who was dependent on another family member for income is eligible," he said.

"The program will have a two-pronged approach," said Jennifer McCormick, program specialist. "It will concentrate on emotional and financial aspects, trying to help the displaced homemaker go from dependence to independence."

Goals are an important part of the program. One of the short-term goals will be to help each person get a job, and a long-term goal is to help the client change her self-perception and see herself as a career person.

Two Anniversary Events Give 1984 A Good Start

The new year was off to a good start with the successful completion of the first two Golden Anniversary events for 1984.

A special production of "Bye Bye Birdie" was performed Jan. 6 at the Burt Reynolds' Dinner Theatre, with proceeds going to the PBJC Foundation.

"The production was a super success," said Dr. Ottis Smith, PBJC North Provost. "There was great community participation, both from the outside and from the college family."

According to Pat Wilson, the Foundation raised "a little more than $3,000" after all expenses were paid.

The second event was a reception at FAU's Ritter Art Gallery to mark the opening of JUBILEE: A National Photographic Competition and Exhibition. The event was sponsored by PBJC South.

About 100-125 people attended the opening last Tuesday, and viewed 62 photographs from 33 states. Since the reception was private, most of the guests were PBJC family members, representatives from the FAU College of Humanities, members of the PBJC Foundation, and other patrons of the arts.

"I would like to encourage everyone who has not done so to stop by the Ritter Art Gallery and see the exhibition," said Linda Summers, JUBILEE director. "It includes a broad spectrum of ideas and techniques."

The exhibition continues through Feb. 18. Hours are 10AM-4PM, Tuesday through Saturday.

NOTICE-REKEYING THE BIOLOGY, CHEMISTRY, HOME EC, EARLY LEARNING CTR, AND FOOD SERVICE AREAS next Friday, Jan. 20. New keys will be issued from the Inventory Office starting Thursday, Jan. 19. Those instructors teaching part time-evening, pick up your keys at your message center. Those instructors teaching Cont. Ed. classes, pick up your keys at that office. Please return obsolete keys after Jan.20. Thanks for your cooperation.

Trustees To Hear Business Affairs Report

The first in a new series of reports on Palm Beach Junior College will be presented to the trustees and the public at the January board meeting Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

The series will be presented by means of graphs and other illustrations which give a clear understanding of one segment of the college.

The reports were suggested by Dr. Eissey, and developed under his direction in November and December. Taken together, the six reports in the series will constitute an overall view of the college not available before.

The first report will be given by Dr. Tony Tate, Vice President for Business Affairs, and will show operating revenues and expenditures.

The board will also receive accountability studies on Personnel Decisions and Equal Opportunity--continuing the reports started in the December meeting.

The agenda of regular business items is shorter than usual, with 20 items.

The staff will register 15 "unduplicated" people per month until the project ends in June.

Each month-long cycle will include counseling and assessment during the first week, two weeks of classroom training, and a week of job-seeking.

During the last week, each client will attend four pre-arranged job interviews and evaluate the results in a support group. The women will also finish setting personal and career goals so that they are ready for "graduation" on the last day.

Nielsen, who was most recently with the Co-op program at PBJC North, was chosen to head the project because of his contacts with HRS (where he worked for six years).

In addition to Nielsen, four other professionals will staff the Crossroads project.

Dr. Marie Sheffey, a part-time instructor/personal counselor, will provide counseling and teach personal management, listening and other communication skills. She has a Ph.D. in counselor education from the University of Florida, and was previously on the faculty at the University of Kansas.

Sally Gottlieb, a part-time vocational counselor/instructor, will teach career and job-seeking skills. She holds a master's degree in social work, and has 15 years of experience as a psychiatric social worker and job counselor.

Mary Jane DeBay, a full-time outreach/job developer, will be responsible for establishing contacts with the community and with professional organizations whose members would be apt to hire displaced homemakers. She has extensive experience as a community activist.

Marge Coley, full-time clerk/typist, came to the program from the Continuing Education Office, where she has worked for the last three months.

The staff had registered five people as of Thursday, so there should still be some openings in the first class.

If you or anyone you know needs the services of Crossroads, please call Roger Nielsen at 433-5995.

PBJC Day At The Fronton

If you missed last week's charity day for PBJC at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton, you can still make the second day--the matinee on Wednesday, Jan. 18--according to Pat Wilson.

"We are grateful to the Fronton for allowing us two charity days this year," Pat says. Proceeds from the PBJC days at the Fronton go to student financial aid.

Last year the college received $10,658.46 from a PBJC day at the Fronton.

Anyone For A Summer Seminar?

Teachers at Palm Beach Junior College are eligible to apply for a place in one of 80 different Summer Seminars for College Teachers funded through a federal program, the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Those selected to participate will receive a stipend of $3,000 to cover travel expenses to and from the seminar location, books and other research expenses, and living expenses for two full months.

All 80 seminars are open to community college teachers, but three of them are exclusively for CC teachers--English Literature at Brown University, History at the University of Texas, and Political Science at the University of Wisconsin.

Preference will be given to those who have been teaching for at least three years and who have not recently had the opportunity to work at a major library.

The seminars cover a very wide range of subject matter, and will be held in all areas of the country. The postmark deadline for applications is March 1, 1984.

Dr. Pat Dyer, who called all this to the attention of the Monday Report, has full information in her office, on the second floor of the administration building at PBJC Central, telephone 8211.

Three Grants Total $118,825.94

Three grant awards have recently been received by the college, according to George Matsoukas, Assistant Director of Development. The three total $118,825.94.

A grant of $15,300 has been awarded to allow the college to become part of the Florida Information Resource Network. Terry Shoultes is project director. The grant will allow us to become part of a statewide interactive information network, which will reduce the data burden on teachers and other college personnel.

The grant for project Crossroads is for $49,854.94, and is discussed in the lead article in today's Monday Report. A Postsecondary Education Program of Excellence grant of $53,671 was announced in last week's Monday Report.

To my colleagues at Palm Beach Junior College. My hearty thanks to all of you for your thoughtful kindness during my recent incapacity. ... Ben Roberts

May I use this means to express my thanks to all those who sent cards and other expressions of concern during my recent hospitalization and convalescence. It's good to be back on campus again! ... Jean Coffin

Phil Jackson, PBJC North Social Science instructor, suffered a fractured hip in a recent auto accident. According to Dr. Ottis Smith, Phil has been released from the hospital, and hopes to be mobile and back at work next week.

We are happy to report that Anita Furst, administrator for the Institute of New Dimensions, is planning to be married. Though no definite wedding date has been set, Anita said it will be soon. Our best wishes and congratulations, Anita.

Friends of Fred Holling are glad to see him back at work after a bout with some of his physical problems and a trip to the hospital that, happily, lasted only a few days.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 13 January 23, 1984

Despite Loss Of GCI Students

Winter Term Enrollment Shows Slight Increase

Palm Beach Junior College enrollment went up slightly this term despite the loss of nearly 100 students when state funding for Glades Correctional Institute students was discontinued.

More students at Lake Worth, Boca Raton and Palm Beach Gardens offset losses in the Glades.

Total enrollment at all four campuses was exactly even with a year ago at 12,713--but credit enrollment was up by 91 to 11,490 from 11,399 a year ago.

A year ago there were 95 students enrolled at PBJC Glades from GCI before funding for state prisoners was eliminated by the legislature. There are none enrolled today.

But gains of 3.3 percent at PBJC Central, 3.8 percent at PBJC North and 4.5 percent at PBJC South offset the drop in the Glades.

In a continuation of existing patterns, day students outnumbered evening students at PBJC Central and PBJC South while the reverse was true at PBJC North and PBJC Glades. Overall there were 7,643 day students and 5,070 evening students.

Also, part-time credit students greatly outnumbered full-time students, 8,284 to 3,204.

"We are pleased that the student enrollment continues at a high level," said Dr. Eissey. "It is encouraging that we continued to grow in spite of the loss of the GCI students."

Get Ready For Better Students

After a series of visits to six local high schools last week, Dr. Eissey told college administrators to plan for better educated students "in the very near future."

High school leaders are "serious about improving educational performance," Dr. Eissey told an administrative/managerial group at the college, "and their efforts are going to make a difference. We need to be ready for a better educated student."

Dr. Eissey visited Suncoast and Santaluces Jan. 9, Atlantic Jan. 10, John I. Leonard Jan. 12, and Palm Beach Gardens and North Shore Jan. 13.

The visits were part of a statewide effort to increase communication between educational leaders about Florida's efforts to improve educational achievement.

Handicapped Workshop

The PBJC Student Affairs Department will sponsor a workshop on the hiring of handicapped persons that will provide a view from both sides of the employer's desk.

The workshop for handicapped students, employers, rehabilitation personnel and others interested in the disabled will be held Thursday, Jan. 26 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

"The first part of the program will be talks by successfully-employed handicapped people," said Gail Tomei, co-coordinator. "They will discuss employment, and answer any questions

On The Way To Publix

To hear John Townsend tell it, he really did very little to help the two police offiers who were struggling to try to subdue a very large man in the Sunshine Square Shopping Center on Dec. 15.

"He was big, and he was strong," John says. "I've always believed in citizen involvement, so I went over and gave them a hand. I didn't find out until later that he is suspected of being a bank robber."

Whatever John did, however, was apparently much appreciated by the police. A letter from the Boynton Beach Police Department thanks him for "courageous assistance" and says a "very dangerous individual was apprehended."

John's actions "prevented our officers and other citizens from possibly being fatally injured," the letter from Capt. Carl Dixon, chief of detectives, said. "Your concern and quick action to assist shows a willingness to get involved which so many of us nowadays have forgotten."

No telling what kind of adventure you can have on the way to Publix these days--if you are a good citizen.

Financial Aid Awareness

Financial Aid Awareness Week will be observed at PBJC with two activities--both scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 26, according to Ron Moses.

"We are scheduling a workshop in the south part of the cafeteria from 9 a.m. to noon," Ron says. "PBJC students, and students from high schools will be counseled on financial aid, and tables will be set up to assist them in filling out forms needed for Spring, Summer or Fall Terms."

If high schools have as many as 10 persons wishing to come to the workshop, PBJC will provide transportation. At 12:15 p.m. on the same day, a film will be shown in the Allied Health Lecture Hall dealing with student financial aid.

specifically from job-seeking handicapped persons."

The disabled guest speakers include a specialist in vocational education for the Palm Beach County School Board, an engineer/manager at IBM, an engineering aide at Pratt and Whitney, and a counselor for the Office of Blind Services.

"We will also have a panel of employers who have hired disabled people," Tomei said.

Personnel representatives from IBM, Barnett Banks, the County School Board and the County Board of Commissioners will discuss affirmative action, kinds of jobs in demand, accommodations for the handicapped, who gets employed, and other topics.

Trustee Willard Findling said any of the three finalists recommended to the board would have been an excellent choice and commended the administration for the selection process.

The board heard a report from Dr. Tate covering revenue and expenditures over the past five years, and received reports on accountability standards three and four.

The February meeting of the board will be at PBJC Glades, Feb. 15.

LATE ANNOUNCEMENT... The following position vacancy is announced: Guidance Counselor, Part time (15th St.Center): Masters degree in guidance and counseling is required. Work schedule is 5PM-9:30PM, Monday-Thursday. Interested applicants should contact the Director of Personnel.

Prepare For Proposition One

The danger to Florida education, to Florida government, to Florida citizens from Proposition One, a constitutional amendment which will be on the ballot in November, is so great it is hard to envision and impossible to exaggerate.

Try this on as a starter: One fourth of those who read this will no longer be employed at Palm Beach Junior College in 1984-85 if Proposition One passes.

Or, maybe we could avoid that by having everybody take a 26 percent cut in salary and reducing all other expenditures by 26 percent.

Every other state, county, and city organization and service would be faced with the same kind of agonizing decision facing PBJC if Proposition One passes.

The ripple effect of that many people being fired would devastate the whole economy.

And that is just for starters.

How about no more garbage collection or trash collection unless you pay your monthly bill for it?

And fewer police with slower response time. Firemen, also.

Ditto for emergency medical service.

Add knee-deep potholes, unrepaired bridges, cutbacks in libraries, parks and recreation. All these are first-year effects.

Every year after 1985 and on into eternity if this devastating amendment gets in the constitution and stays there, all of the above will get worse. Much worse. Twice as bad in ten years.

What Can We Do?

We can get the facts. We can listen to programs like the one on Channel 42 at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 5, when Commissioner Turlington will debate Ed Havill, Lake County Tax Assessor and chairman of Floridians for Tax Relief--so we will know the arguments on both sides.

You can talk to friends and neighbors. You can help us arrange places to give the slide and talk show we are preparing.

Better yet, you can help us prepare it.

Third Try

For the third time, and probably the last, an invitation is being given in the Monday Report for teachers who are interested enough in their own future and the future of Florida to join the steering committee being chaired by Dr. Ottis Smith of PBJC North which will plan the PBJC effort to inform local citizens about Proposition One.

The first two invitations got no response. Please call.

We have representatives of other segments of PBJC active on the committee. We would like to have faculty input.

See You At The Fair

The South Florida Fair opens this week--on Friday, and will continue through Sunday, Feb. 5. Palm Beach Junior College will be well represented.

In addition to a double booth in Building Nine, from which some 500 T-shirts and 10,000 cookies will be given away--plus lots of literature about PBJC--there will be a number of appearances by PBJC groups.

The Golden Anniversary birthday cake will be in the center of our display, and the committee for our Golden Anniversary fair appearance, chaired by Dr. Sarah Pappas, wants to thank everyone for their cooperation in getting together what we hope will be an effective presence at the fair. Note: Two volunteers still needed. Call Dr. Pappas' office at 622-2440.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 14 January 30, 1984

10.29 Acres Valued At $1.3 Million

County Commission Deeds Performing Arts Center Site

The first step toward a world-class Performing Arts Center for Palm Beach County to be located at PBJC Central was firmly taken by unanimous vote of the county commission last Tuesday morning. The commission deeded 10.29 acres of John Prince Park, valued at $1.3 million, to the college for development of the center.

The site extends from the canal which marks the eastern border of the college campus to the park road at the edge of the lake. The center will have a magnificent view across the widest portion of Lake Osborne.

The plan for the performing arts center here has undergone many changes since it was first proposed by Dr. Eissey five years ago, with serious input from many people connected with the previous attempts to build a center in the county.

The current plan has the enthusiastic backing of all of the groups which make up the Palm Beach County Council of the Arts, and has also been endorsed by many local governmental organizations.

There are many other steps, and much work to be done, before the center can become a reality, but the county commission has now taken the first decisive part of the journey. If everything goes according to plan, these are the next steps:

1. State matching funds for the $1.3 million value of the land. Complete backing of our legislative delegation, a lot of work, and some luck will be necessary.

2. Feasibility study, preliminary architectural and engineering studies, plot plans, and everything else needed to have a complete package to offer will be developed with the first state funds.

3. If all is favorable, funding will be sought--preliminary estimates talk about $10 million local governmental

PBJC South Holds Open House Sunday

The community is invited to celebrate Palm Beach Junior College's Golden Anniversary at an Open House on the South Campus on Sunday, Feb. 5 from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

In keeping with the afternoon's theme of "A Golden Past: A Magic Future," the festivities will include live music from each of the past decades, students dressed as collegians of each period and a strolling magician performing sleight-of-hand tricks and creating balloon animals.

Exhibits and displays will describe the college's varied educational offerings, recent innovations and planned expansion. The afternoon is planned to mark 50 years of dynamic growth for the college and seven years of successful operation of the South Campus.

Refreshments will be served, and residents of the area are encouraged to visit the campus, to meet students, faculty and administrators, and to share in the celebration.

The campus of PBJC South is located on the Florida Atlantic University Campus in Boca Raton, west of Henderson School.

A special invitation to all PBJC personnel from North, Glades and Central has been extended by Dr. Patricia Dyer, PBJC South Provost.

If you have been curious about South's new relocatable buildings, this would be a good time to see them.

Hospitality Management Offers Gourmet Dining

The Hospitality Management Department is offering gourmet luncheons again this semester, with the first one to be served tomorrow. The meals will be served each Tuesday between 11 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. in the Food Service Dining Room until April 17.

Tomorrow's fare includes vegetable soup brunoise,broiled chopped beef steak with bordelaise sauce, or breaded pork cutlet, saute gruyere, rotelle macaroni, Milanaise zucchini au beurre, hearts of lettuce, with Thousand Island dressing, French bread and assorted rolls, and torte de riccotta or angel food cake.

The prices for the luncheons are between $3 and $4.50, and reservations are required.

The Feb. 14 luncheon is sold out, so the Monday Report will carry the Feb. 21 menu next week.

The Hospitality Management Dept., in cooperation with the Palm Beach County Chef's Association, is also offering full-course dinners every Monday night from Feb. 6 through Apr. 9.

"For $10 each, a person will be served an appetizer, soup, fish entree, sorbet, choice of meat entree, salad, wine and choice of dessert," said Charles Nachman, instructor.

Tonight's meal includes quiche Lorraine, oxtail consomme or New England clam chowder, Seafood Newberg/pate shell, Tournedos Henri IV, Chicken Pojarsky, salad with French dressing, French bread and assorted rolls, and caramel custard or carrot cake.

The Feb. 13 menu includes: Coquille St. Jacques, French onion Grattine or gazpacho, Quenelle of Salmon, Beef Bourguignonne, Turkey En Croute, assorted soft and hard rolls, Brioche, cheese cake or apple strudel.

Reservations are required. Tickets for either the luncheons or the dinners may be purchased in advance by calling Charles Nachman at 439-8125.

Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center Announces Spring Schedule

The Fall Program at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center at PBJC Glades was a resounding success, according to Director Judy Schiele, and prospects for a great Spring are excellent, due in part to some financial help.

"Next weekend, we have a unique event," Judy says. "We are combining a state-wide fishing tournament and a cultural event--Mark and Clark, a piano duo who received Night Club Entertainers of the Year awards last year."

Participants in the Bass'n Classic II at Slim's Fishing Camp on Feb. 5 are being encouraged to come to Belle Glade one day early and attend the Mark and Clark performance at the Dolly Hand at 8 p.m. on Feb. 4. They get in for half price, but you can attend the up beat show with lots of special effects for $8.

This event and others on the Spring Schedule will be possible because of a $4,500 grant from the cultural activities program provided by the Tourist Development Tax.

A number of other Glades events this Spring will benefit from grants, according to George Matsoukas, Assistant Director of Development, who listed the following:

Asolo Theater, March 15, $1,530.

Florida Ballet, April 7, $667.

Two of the six Children's Programs: Sheffield Theatre, Feb. 21, $375 and Louisville Children's Theatre, March 30, $550.

Judy is always happy to see PBJC people at Dolly Hand events, and she says you should start planning immediately for Count Basie on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14.

The Relaxation Response

The "Relaxation Response" has come to the PBJC baseball team as a result of a cooperative effort among several departments of the college.

A cassette on stress management, the first segment in what Head Coach Frank Cacciatore hopes will be a whole series of self-improvement tapes, was produced to help the players do better on the field and in the classroom.

"I initiated the idea, and wrote the script for the tape," Coach Cacciatore said. "But I wouldn't have known what to do without the input and guidance of Dr. Franklin Saunders."

"Nancy Goodwin got me in touch with one of her Senior Players, Tillie Parker, who did the announcing," he continued. "Barbara (Braeunig) and Bill (Buntin) in the Audiovisual Department recorded the tape, and Vanda Williamson from the County School Board provided background music geared for accelerated learning."

The program is voluntary. Any player may check out a cassette, take it home, and listen at his leisure.

The first side explains the lessons and defines terms, while the second side contains exercises in "deep muscle relaxation."

"The object is to help them learn to differentiate between when their muscles are tensed and when they're relaxed," Coach Cacciatore said. "When they incur a stressful situation, they will recognize it and know how to relax."

He said many universities (including Florida State) have programs of this type, and professional baseball teams use hypnosis and personal counselors for improved performance.

"Ours is just a generalized program to help the kids get along better," he said.

funds, $10 million in state matching grants, and $10 million in donations.

Once the center is built, it will be managed by the Council of the Arts. There will be many educational advantages for our students in having the community performing arts center here, and the purely educational activities of the center will be carried on by the college.

Current thinking calls for two completely equipped auditoriums, one fairly large for full scale performances, and one more intimate for smaller works. Other facilities and the necessary technical support will be determined as the project progresses.

It takes very little imagination to forsee marvelous opportunities in student involvment, community/college relationships, and general improvement in the quality of life here that would stem from such a facility.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 15 February 6, 1984

Paul J. Glynn Student Services Center

Dedication Ceremonies Set Feb. 9 At 10 A.M.

A dedication ceremony at Palm Beach Junior College Central Thursday, February 9 at 10 a.m. will mark the opening of the college's new Paul J. Glynn Student Services Building.

Four Unusual Gifts Offered To College

Four unusual gifts have recently been donated to the PBJC Foundation, a non-profit organization which administers charitable bequests to the community college.

Music students will benefit from two of the gifts, blind students from the third, and the college computer center from the fourth, according to Pat Wilson, Director of Development for the college.

Mrs. Robert Montgomery, president of the Foundation, recently purchased tickets to the opera for voice students at the college. The students have already attended the Palm Beach Opera presentation of Il Trovatore on Jan. 27, and are planning to be able to attend Tosca on March 9.

"Mrs. Montgomery is well known in this area for her interest in performing arts," says Reuben Hale, chairman of the Division of Humanities at the college. "This generous gift will allow our students to develop their interest in opera, and will benefit both the college and the community."

An even more unusual gift will come from Mrs. George Irvin, of West Palm Beach, whose son, David Cook, was a well known classical harpist in California before his death at 41 from a heart attack.

Mrs. Irvin will donate her son's Lyons and Healey Concert Harp, plus an extensive collection of music, including some music transposed for the harp by Cook. The gift is a living memorial for her son, who would have wanted the instrument used by someone who loves music as he did.

Special guests will include Dr. Eissey, Dr. Philip O. Lichtblau, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Rev. Peter Grabauskas of St. Luke's Catholic Church and Rev. James E. Adams of Mt. Zion Baptist Church.

The guest of honor will be Dean Paul J. Glynn, the former PBJC vice president and dean of student services (1949-78).

Dean Glynn was hired by John I. Leonard, the college's first full-time president, when PBJC was located at Morrison Field. During his tenure, he served not only as an administrator, but also as an instructor in education, anatomy, physiology, health education, and physical education, basketball, baseball, golf and tennis coach, intramurals director, counselor, and other duties.

He founded the PBJC Palm Beach Blood Bank Account, and coordinated numerous blood drives with student leaders for many years.

Since 1963, he has been one of the administrators of the Palm Beach County Scholarship Foundation, which has distributed over $54,000 to 88 recipients.

Even though he retired from the college in 1978, he still remains active in Alumni Affairs and helping out with evening registration and Golden Anniversary functions.

The new one story-facility, which is located just north of the cafeteria on the Central campus, will house registration and admission functions, counseling services, testing, student health services, student government, and the dean of student activities.

Haynes said the new center would not

Jimmy Voight Steps In For Hospitalized Father

The Monday Report is unhappy to report that PBJC Basketball Coach Jim Voight was hospitalized last Tuesday evening because of chest pains.

At this writing, he was resting comfortably at Palm Beach Gardens Hospital, though doctors had not yet determined the cause of the pain.

The basketball team was understandably upset, but went on to play Miami-Dade North (the team that is ranked second in the nation) on the Falcon turf.

Coach Voight's son, Jimmy, assumed the head coach responsibilities for the evening.

"He did a good job, there's no question," Falcon Coach Bill Alheim told the Miami Herald.

Though the Pacers lost 86-76, they were able to whittle Dade-North's 19-point lead to six in the final two minutes. Guard Cedric Gray contributed 31 points.

The Monday Report wishes a speedy recovery to Coach Voight.

FACC Sponsors Membership Drive

The PBJC Chapter of FACC is sponsoring a membership and fundraising drive that will put everyone to sleep.

The club is raffling a brand-new waterbed, and each person who joins for the first time will receive five chances for the prize. Present members who sponsor a new member or who renew membership will be awarded one chance, while anyone may purchase additional raffle tickets at $1 apiece.

Donated by Dick Jones, the sleeper comes complete with a headboard and frame of a hand-rubbed, high lacquer walnut finish and includes a plywood deck and pedestal.

The mattress is waveless hydraulic style, 99 percent motion-free, and includes a safety liner and conditioner. It is thermostat-controlled at 70-100 degrees by a deluxe heater. Retail value is $599.

"The drawing will be held at noon on March 15 in the Central cafeteria," said George Matsoukas, FACC president.

Membership forms may be obtained from Alice Carlisle at Central, Gordon Kramer at South, Mary Orsenigo at Glades, or Alice Zacherl at North.

"Alice (Carlisle) will send tickets to the members when she receives the check or verification of payroll deduction," Matsoukas said. "New members should indicate through a note or on the membership slip who sponsored them, if anyone did, and send it to Mail Station #19.

"Those who want to buy tickets can get them from me or Alice," he said. For more information, call George at 8074 or Alice Carlisle at 8083.

offices for the Beachcomber, Job Placement, Financial Aid and Athletics.

"As part of the student services complex, we are also renovating our present SAC Lounge so that it will contain some of the other student activities," said Dr. Mel Haynes, vice president of student affairs. "It will have a multi-use office for clubs, indoor games, a lounge area for TV, and an area for reading."

"We don't expect it to be completed until probably the latter part of March or early April," he said.

Haynes said there would be extra parking spaces available just south of the cafeteria to accommodate any visitors. The dedication ceremony is open to the public.

Dr. Haynes announced that all student affairs offices will be closed from 10-11 a.m. for the dedication except for the registrar's office.

Moving days into the new building have been tentatively set for the week of Feb. 20.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Dr. Joan C. Young

FROM: Joseph M. Schneider JMS

SUBJECT: Changes in Health Insurance

Unfortunately your letter to me dated January 27, 1984 is either misleading or inaccurate in several areas. Since you have distributed copies of this letter to all full time faculty I feel obligated to set the record straight.

For many years Palm Beach Junior College has had the same health insurance benefits as the School Board of Palm Beach County, exclusive of dental coverage which was an additional rider to that policy. The policyholder has been and continues to be the School Board of Palm Beach County. We have been a subgroup of that policy and retirees of both the School Board and Palm Beach Junior College are another subgroup. This arrangement has generally been desirable for us since there are advantages in being a part of a multi-million dollar group which can spread its risk sufficiently to be able to apply self-insurance or self funding principles.

I had heard conversations that the School Board intended to reduce health insurance benefits during the summer of 1982 and I was generally aware of the dispute they were having with their teacher's union. I was completely unaware, however, that any health insurance benefits had been reduced until a member of my staff received a call from an employee stating benefit payments under major medical had been reduced from 80 to 75 percent.

At that time I called Gulf Life Insurance Company and was told that the School Board had decided to reduce their benefits in several areas.

1. Major medical payments were being reduced from 80 percent to 75 percent and dental benefits were being decreased.

Dr. Joan C. Young
Changes in Health Insurance

2. Payment for chiropractic services was being reduced from 80 to 50 percent and a maximum number of 15 visits per year was being set.

3. Payment for mental disorders was being limited to 15 visits per year.

I was informed that health costs were escalating and that all of these actions were important cost containment measures. I also was informed, as I already knew, that the School Board was the policyholder.

As a result of our conversation it was agreed that our subgroup would be allowed to continue to retain the 80 percent coinsurance payment and that chiropractic services would not be reduced from 80 percent to 50 percent. I did concede that it was possible that a 15 visit maximum on chiropractic services and mental health treatment may not affect any of our employees (although I later found out that several college personnel had been affected by the maximum).

Incidentally your reference to the President's $50,000 life insurance and accidental death and dismemberment benefit had nothing to do with these health insurance details. The Board of Trustees agreed to increase his life insurance months earlier when his contract was renewed prior to July 1, 1982.

While I would not expect you to give me credit for avoiding a reduction in major medical coinsurance payments--which affects virtually all hospitalizations--or for maintaining the 80 percent coinsurance payment for chiropractic services, these actions were taken by me in behalf of the Administration. Note that neither the Board nor the Administration initiated any reduction in benefits.

It was interesting to hear a news report on February 1, 1984 stating that the School Board and the teacher's union had just reached an agreement on their health insurance. In mid-summer of 1982 I understand that their union had stated they intended to take legal action. However, after about a year and a half they have come to an agreement even though those benefit reductions took place for School Board personnel in 1982. All School Board personnel were also required to pay a much larger health insurance permium.

I had thought that we were fortunate not to feel obligated to bargain reductions in health insurance coverage last year. We will certainly meet with you to engage in what you refer to as "long overdue negotiation," and we will allow you to determine whatever course of action you regard as being appropriate in this area.

Ninth Annual Drama Festival Feb. 9-11

Seven high schools from Palm Beach County will take part in the ninth annual Drama Festival at Palm Beach Junior College Central Feb. 9-11, according to Frank Leahy, festival director.

Leahy, of the PBJC drama faculty, listed Glades Central, Suncoast, Twin Lakes, Forest Hill, Atlantic, Jupiter and Cardinal Newman as participants in the competition to select the best one-act play.

Dr. Bernard Rosenblatt, assistant director of the Burt Reynolds Institute for Theatre Training and the national president of the American Theatre Association, will be the judge for the event, and will give an oral critique of each play after its first presentation.

After a brief welcoming ceremony at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, all the plays will be presented and critiqued, including a play by the PBJC Players, which will not be a part of the competition.

The award winning plays and the PBJC play will be presented in public performance on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. at the PBJC Central auditorium.

In addition to the awards for best plays, an award will also go to the best actor and actress.

There is no charge for the public performances. Reservations are not required.

Memorial Scholarship

Friends of Denise Shepherd, (notably Mary Tingler), have organized a memorial scholarship in the name of Denise's mother, Aline H. Driver, 82, who passed away Jan. 30.

"Several of us thought a donation to a scholarship fund would be much more appropriate than flowers," Mary says. "I checked with Dr. Eissey and he agreed."

"Denise is such a dedicated worker, that many of us would like to remember her at this time." Denise is a data base coordinator at PBJC Central.

Checks should be made payable to Palm Beach Junior College, with the notation Aline H. Driver Memorial Scholarship on the face, and sent to Financial Aid.

Citizens Minority Advisory Board

Palm Beach Junior College South will host its second organizational meeting of the Citizens Minority Advisory Board Committee Wednesday, Feb. 8, 7 p.m. at the South Campus. The college has extended 18 invitations to area minority community leaders, according to Dr. Harris McGirt. Dr. Patricia Dyer, PBJC South Provost and VP Elect of Academic Affairs, will deliver the welcoming speech.

Tentative agenda items include a review of purpose by Dr. Mel Haynes; committee organization by Dr. McGirt, and issues, concerns and views by Leonard Bruton. Also assisting will be Priscilla Wright, PBJC South admissions clerk, and Ron Moses, minority recruiter from Central Campus. In addition, several PBJC South minority students have been invited to attend.

The West Palm Beach Southside Lions Club has offered a voice module for use with the PBJC Commodore computers which will allow blind students to communicate with the computer and to learn basic computer skills. Lions Clubs have a permanent commitment to work for the blind.

The fourth gift is a fairly late model personal computer, a DEC 325, donated by the First American Bank. It will probably be used in the Center for Personalized Instruction, according to Terrell Shoultes, coordinator of instructional computer programs.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Offices To Move Feb. 20

Paul J. Glynn Student Center Opens

The new Paul J. Glynn Student Services Building is now officially open, although the offices won't be moved in probably until February 20.

A ribbon-cutting and dedication ceremony was held last Thursday, and was attended by many community, government, business and education leaders,plus many of Dean Glynn's former students.

"This dedication is just a token of our appreciation of your many years of service," said Dr. Philip O. Lichtblau, PBJC Board of Trustees chairman.

"(Paul) did a great job in keeping the college's continuity on a forward-moving level," said Dr. Eissey. "It is with great personal pleasure and professional pride that we dedicate this building to him."

After the ceremony, a reception was held inside the facility. Many of the student services personnel were on hand to explain the layouts of their areas.

Basically, all registration and admission functions are located on the west (left of the front door), and counseling, testing, the health clinic and student activities are to the east. Just inside the front door is the information desk.

The beautiful building includes 11,880 square feet, much of which is carpeted, and cost a total contract amount of $610,167.77, not including furnishings.

Probably the most lavish of the new quarters is Mary Cannon's Health Clinic. It includes among other things a room partitioned into several examination cubicles, and another room for storing medical supplies.

If you were unable to attend the opening ceremony, stop by and take a look at the new facility.

Reports To Board Continued In Glades

Five reports to the Palm Beach Junior College Board of Trustees are expected to fill most of the time at the February meeting of the board, Wednesday, at PBJC Glades, Belle Glade.

A series of presentations to the trustees from the college administrative staff will be continued by Joseph Schneider, who will show charts giving some newly compiled data on personnel.

A report on Accountability Standard 6,Fiscal Management, will be presented by Dr. Tony Tate.

We Really Want To Know

Have you made a speech in the community lately? Have you won an award? Gotten engaged -- or married? Had a baby? Gone to the hospital? Got out of the hospital? Attended your daughter's wedding in New York? Come back from a vacation in China? Broken a leg? Been appointed to a statewide committee? Discovered oil on that property your uncle left you in Oklahoma? Decided to go gold prospecting this summer?

We at the Monday Report want to know. We REALLY want to know, so we can pass the information on to others here at the college. Our telephone number is 439-8076, and we are here from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. and frequently later. Call us. Talk to Joan, or Kateri, or Sharon, or Jonathan.

Also,* call Dr. Eissey's office. He wants to know, too. If he isn't in, tell one of his secretaries. You don't have to call both places, but for goodness sake call one of us. His number is 439-8080.

Let's get to know each other a little better.

TWO Political Ringside Seats Available Tuesday

If political science students want a real ringside seat in the practice of their area of study Feb. 14, they won't have to leave the PBJC Central campus to find it. As a matter of fact, they will have a choice of ringside seats, one in the Foodservice Center and another in the Allied Health Lecture Hall.

A slice of national politics will be on hand at 10 a.m. in the Lecture Hall with the appearance of John Anderson, former senator who ran for president in 1980 and will be the candidate of the Unity Party in 1984.

A generous helping of the local and state political process will be served up in the Foodservice Center when the county legislative delegation will be hearing from citizens representing many different county organizations in preparation for the 1984 meeting of the legislature.

Education will lead off, with FAU, PBJC, and the county schools beginning the morning session, which gets underway at 9 a.m. At least 10 more appearances are scheduled before a break for lunch, and there are 19 appearances scheduled in the afternoon, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The open, public, legislative hearings scheduled by our county delegation are a real step forward in government in the sunshine. If you have not observed this part of our government in action, you might stop in for a few minutes during the day. It is an interesting part of our political process.

A Fellowship Opportunity

If you are black, the holder of a bachelor's or master's degree and are not currently enrolled in a doctoral program, but would like to be, you should become acquainted with the McKnight Black Doctoral Fellowships Program.

The McKnight Foundation, in collaboration with almost all the universities awarding Doctoral Degrees in Florida, will award 25 fellowships this year. Each provided full tuition and a $10,000 per year stipend, and they may be granted for as many as four years.

The application deadline is March 15. The News Bureau has a flyer, and we will be happy to show it to anyone who is interested.

Award Winners In Drama Festival

Drama groups from four high schools were named award winners at the ninth annual Drama Festival at Palm Beach Junior College last week.

Winning one of the four awards, and also winning best overall actor and actress awards was Twin Lakes High School with "The Lady Who Was Believed Dead," an improvisation. Virgil McWilliams and Susan Campanaro won awards for being best overall.

Cardinal Newman with "That Day," Forest Hill with "The Investigation," and Glades Central with "Tales of Trickery" were also named as award winners.

Laura Cosco was named best in play for Cardinal Newman, the entire cast was named for Forest Hill, Jim Murray for Twin Lakes and Margarette McBrian for Glades.

Also named as best in show were Kathleen Daniel for Atlantic, Dorothy Jacks for Palm Beach Gardens, Boris Keenan for Suncoast, and Brent Dupuis for Jupiter.

The award winning plays and "Museum," presented by the Palm Beach Junior College Players, were given a public performance on Friday and Saturday nights at the PBJC Central Auditorium.

Peace Education Center Schedules Events

Three events have been scheduled in the near future by the Peace Education Center and some materials have been purchased and are in place in the library.

The Peace Education Center was initiated by Flora B. Hallock, a 96-year old Palm Beach Countian. She donated funds to PBJC in 1982 to establish a body that would teach about peace.

Part of those funds have been used to purchase a collection of books, films and other materials on peace education to be included in the PBJC Library.

"These materials are on reserve on the third floor of the library. They cannot be checked out, but anyone may go and read them," said Dr. Richard Yinger, center coordinator.

Other monies pay for special programming. The Center has set up a calendar of at least five events, three of which are in February.

"Johnny Got His Gun," a play by Colin Trumble, will be performed by the Actor's Reportory Workshop Wednesday, Feb. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Auditorium.

The drama questions the terms of the contract a soldier makes when he enters a war to fight for his country.

On February 16, a movie entitled "In the Nuclear Shadow" will be shown at 1:30 p.m. at the Greenacres branch of the County Library. The film deals with children's reactions to nuclear weapons.

The Peace Education Center and the Committee for Social Responsibility will co-sponsor a lecture, "What About the Russians" on Wednesday, Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. in the Lake Worth High School Auditorium.

Speakers will be Dr. Sanford Gottlieb, executive director of the United Campus to Prevent Nuclear War (UCAM) and author of "What About the Russians?" and Robert Buckheim, U.S. envoy to the Standing Consultive Committee in Geneva (to which complaints are made regarding treaty violations).

Admission is free for all programs. For more information, call Dr. Yinger at 8045.

Yucatan Adventure

Brighten your Easter! Discover the wonders of the ancient Mayas in Yucatán and enjoy the Holy Week (Semana Santa) festivities in colonial Mérida. For adventure, education, and a unique cultural experience join PBJC's YUCATÁN ADVENTURE, a five-day field trip-study program to Mexico's Yucatán Peninsula, April 18-22.

The travel agenda includes Yucatán's most fascintating area--Chichén-Itzá, Uxmal, Sayil, Labna, Progreso, and Mérida.

On-campus lectures will describe the history and culture of the Yucatán. Two hours credit may be earned, or the program may be audited. The tour price will include round-trip air Miami-Mérida, transfers, hotel, all breakfasts and lunches, extensive sightseeing by motor coach, and all admissions to historical and archeological sites.

Tour price is $285 double. For further information, call International/Intercultural Education, 8137.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 17 February 20, 1984

Sam Bottosto, Buck Rader, Fred Holling

Three Of Our Best Are Leaving In June

Sam Bottosto, Buck Rader, and Fred Holling all came to PBJC within a year of each other nearly a quarter century ago, and the college trustees learned Wednesday that they will be leaving together in June of this year.

Dr. Bottosto, who arrived first, in 1960, has been chairman of the Social Science Department for all of his 24 years here. He reached the age of 68 in January of this year, and told his faculty in a retirement letter that "there are a lot of things I would like to do with the time still allotted to me by Divine Providence."

Among other accomplishments in his years as chairperson, the Social Science Department served as the genisis of the Criminal Justice program, the Mental Health program, and the Center for Early Learning. It led the way in desegregation, and its faculty has been very active in community and civic affairs, while at the same time developing an exemplary social science curriculum.

Jennings Buckley Rader arrived at PBJC in 1961, and taught many of the technical courses in the engineering department for 11 years before becoming chairman of the department.

In an interview with the Beachcomber when he became department chairman, Buck, who is from Bristol, Tenn., called himself "a Blue Ridge mountain hill billy."

During his years as chairman, the department took over instruction in data processing. One of the later accomplishments was the addition of one of the first programs at a community college in the southeast in computer assisted design.

Fred J. Holling, Jr., did not arrive on the scene in 1961, he arrived back on the scene. Fred is a PBJC graduate, and the story of how he was influenced as a student by Mary Sue Albertson, one of our founding teachers, and how he cared for

Conference Tournament Begins

Our Pacers are seeded second in the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament that will decide which of four teams will compete for the state championship.

Luckily for the Pacers, (19-10) the Conference tournament will be held on their home turf--lucky because their first opponent is third-seeded Indian River CC, Wednesday, 8PM.

"We've played Indian River twice at their gym. The first game, we lost by four points, and the second, we lost by two points in overtime," said Head Coach Jim Voight. "The last time we played them here, and we won by one point."

Voight says he plans to stick with his regular starting lineup: forwards Edward Woodbury and Willie Stevenson, guards Cedrick Gray and Brett Andews, and center Jeff Boyd.

The tournament gets underway on Feb. 21 with a match between fourth-seeded Miami Dade South and fifth-seeded Broward CC at Miami Dade. The winner of that game will play Edison CC (seeded first) at 6 p.m. before the PBJC/Indian River match.

Then, the winner of PBJC/Indian River and the victor among Edison, Broward and Miami Dade South will play a championship game at 8 p.m. on Feb. 24. That overall winner will accompany Miami Dade North, (the season Conference winner) to the state tournament March 1-3 in Deland.

"I would like to encourage all the PBJC faculty, staff and administration to come her in her declining years is already known to Monday Report readers.

Fred was a teacher in biology, botany and horticulture until he became assistant evening director in 1971, and then served in Continuing Education, becoming Director of Continuing Education at PBJC Central in 1978.

Those who know of Fred's work as an essential part of the team Dr. Eissey got together for campus beautification think kind thoughts about him every time they come on campus. Trees are a great thing to leave to people.

THREE SABBATICAL LEAVES

The trustees also approved three sabbatical leaves at the Wednesday meeting, which was the annual meeting held at the Glades campus.

Lois Meyer, Sunny to you, assistant professor in communications, was granted a sabbatical from Jan. 2 through May 10, 1985.

Sandra Richmond, better known as Sandy, senior instructor in Social Science, was given a full year's sabbatical, August 17, 1984 through May 6, 1985.

Julio Rive, senior instructor in the Health and Home Ec Department, was granted a sabbatical from Aug. 17 through Dec. 17, 1984.

OTHER ACTIONS

In another personnel action, the board approved retirement of Jean Coffin, a senior instructor in Nursing for the past 10 years.

The board approved legal action in Tallahassee to attempt to recover $8,965 from the retirement account of James Brannigan. The Department of Energy has held that there was no authorization for a payment from grant funds into Brannigan's retirement account.

After a report from James Adams, board attorney, the board agreed to a suit, with a limitation on expenditure.

Dr. Eissey announced a special board meeting for Feb. 29, at noon in Conference B in the Administration Building at PBJC Central to consider bids for the Student Center Building at PBJC North.

The meeting at the Glades was preceded by a fish fry at the Glades Marina arranged with the cooperation and expert assistance of the Glades Technical Center.

Dr. Joe Orsenigo, an expert on the geological history of the Everglades, and husband of PBJC's own Mary Orsenigo, gave a short talk at the marina. Dr. Gary Sims, Glades provost, was host for the annual Glades meeting.

An unusually interesting report to the trustees on personnel matters was presented by Joe Schneider. The Monday Report will carry some of that information in a future issue.

Substitute Trustees

Legal ground was broken Thursday night as a substitute board of trustees held an organizational meeting at PBJC Central. It is the first such board in the history of the state, according to James Adams, PBJC trustees' attorney, who will act as counsel for the substitute board.

The two attorneys on the board, appointed by Gov. Bob Graham for the purpose of conducting a hearing on the suspension of Frank Leahy and Dr. Joan Young, were named chairman and vice chairman.

The hearing was set for March 14 and 15, 7 to 11 p.m.

Richard Marens was named chairman and Margaret Cooper vice chairman. Other board members are George Hudspeth, Jr., a union official, William Storm, contractor, and William James, a businessman and former legislator.

Dr. Eissey Addresses Legislators

Speaking to the county delegation to the legislature Tuesday morning, Dr. Eissey asked for the delegation's help in trying to find a constructive balance between access and quality in education.

He said it would be easy to raise the educational standards of all colleges by eliminating problem learners, but society would be the worse for it.

Not only are uneducated people a drag on society in their own generation, but "an illiterate parent may create three or four more problem learners in the next generation," he said.

Dr. Eissey mentioned four specific college goals in this year's legislature:

1. The vocational/technical building at PBJC North.
2. Planning for a classroom/administration building at PBJC South.
3. Funding for that building.
4. Matching funds for a performing arts center for the community at PBJC Central.

Prior to speaking, Dr. Eissey introduced four students from PBJC South and one from PBJC Central who spoke of the importance of the college to them, and urged continued support from the legislators.

Charles Hill, from PBJC Central, is a blind student who is graduating after this term, and plans to attend FSU.

Linda Stoker, a single parent, started with only a few classes, but is not a full-time student with a major in elementary education.

Marian Davis, is a mother who is "having the time of my life" as a student. She must care for her 80-year old mother, and would have found it extremely difficult to travel to the central campus.

Roger Rhaesa, a victim of multiple sclerosis, said PBJC gave him a direction in life and taught him that there is no such word as "can't."

Karen Schauer, in a wheelchair after a diving accident, started back slowly, but is now carrying 15 hours at PBJC South and is active in both the SGA and PTK.

The meeting of the legislative delegation Tuesday was the second and final public hearing before the beginning of the session. The meeting went on all day, and there were 35 appearances on the agenda.

Travel Time

It has recently been called to our attention that some personnel are refusing to travel at the most economical rates provided by the travel agency. State law requires that travel be accomplished by the most economical means, even if in some instances it may inconvenience the traveler. In addition, the travel agency responsible for making the college travel arrangements has the responsibility for obtaining the most economical flight arrangements.

ALL future air travel must be by the most economical means, otherwise travel ticket requests will not be approved,or in the event the traveler desires to take the more expensive flight, they personally may pay the difference between the most economical means provided by the travel agency and the cost of the flight they choose. ...T. John Anderson Visits Central Campus

Presidential candidate John Anderson told students, faculty and staff at Palm Beach Junior College that "there is no single greater challenge than the elimination of the use of threats and violence in foreign relations."

The one-time Independent, who ran against Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter in 1980, has been named the 1984 candidate for the National Unity Party, a new political party formed last year. Anderson visited PBJC on Feb. 14 to outline his party's policies.

Personals, Personals, Personals

The News Bureau wants to thank people who called 8076 with personal items as a result of last week's article. Keep it up. We really do want to know.

Dr. Kathy Bowser worked on a series of lectures for a parent/child study group at Delray Library, opening the series herself with "Creating A Learning Environment for Young Children." Dr. Barbara Matthews is speaking in the same series on "The Sex Role Development in Young Children."

Dr. Richard Yinger has enlisted the aid of Bill Buntin in videotaping presentations by speakers for the Peace Education Center. Two new titles will be: Russians Are People, Too and United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War. They also taped Life After Life for one of Dr. Yinger's courses.

Also, in case you do not have a regular Sunday morning service, Dr. Yinger and his wife are teaching a class in Christian Family Living at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church on Military Trail in West Palm Beach at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday.

Fred Holling would like everyone to know that his son has passed all examinations for the first semester of medical school at the University of South Florida.

Dr. Sarah Pappas appeared on the Mike Levine WJNO radio program last Thursday, and reviewed the book "Femininity" by Susan Brownmiller. She will also be a judge in a teenage scholarship competition to be held March 10 at Rosarian Academy.

Take a look at Pat Wilson's fourth finger left hand, but, unless you have a few minutes to spare, don't ask her about her engagement ring and the man who slipped it on her finger. On second thought, ask her. It's nice to see somebody that happy!

Pat Adams-Johnson is presenting a lecture demonstration for the Opera Study Club tonight (Feb. 20), 8PM at the Hyatt of the Palm Beaches. Her subject: The Operatic Voice.

Dr. Arnold Freedman spoke recently on station WPBR concerning Problems in Latin America and The Military Situation in Lebanon. He is tentatively scheduled to speak before the Masonic Lodge in March on the subject of Central America.

Norma Walter was recently nominated and accepted to the Board of Directors of the Hispanic Human Resources Council in West Palm Beach.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for all your prayers, cards, flowers, and thoughtfulness during my mother's extended illness and death. The memorial scholarship established in her name was a wonderful idea and I wish to thank all contributing.

Gourmet Luncheons

The Hospitality Management Department at PBJC is serving a series of weekly luncheons guaranteed to tempt the taste buds.

The gourmet lunches, held each Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the Foodservice Center, cost between $3 and $4.50, depending on the entree chosen (beverage and dessert are extra).

The menus for February are as follows:

--Feb. 21: Duchess Soup, Roast Rib of Beef au Jus, Yorkshire Pudding, Rissole Potatoes, Scallopine of Veal Marsala, Spaghetti al Burro, Assorted Saute Vegetables, Salad Jeanette, Rye Bread/French Bread, Napoleons/Creme Horns.

--Feb. 28: Philadelphia Pepper Pot Soup, Chicken ala King, Pattie Shells, Baked Rice, Braised Beef ala Mode, Parisienne Broccoli Polonaise, Knickerbocker Salad, Brioche/White Pan Bread, Rice Imperatrice, and Chocolate Mousse.

Reservations are required. For more information, call Charles Nachman at 439-8125.

North Open House Sunday 2-4 P.M.

Palm Beach Junior College North, 3160 PGA Blvd., Palm Beach Gardens, has scheduled an Open House Sunday, Feb. 26, 2-4 p.m., as part of its observance of the Golden Anniversary of PBJC

Although the college is 50 years old, the campus of PBJC North is still very new, and many people of the community have not yet had a chance to visit.

"We are proud of our new campus, and hope to have a good attendance at our Open House," said Dr. Ottis Smith, PBJC North Provost.

In order to have something old on hand for the 50th Anniversary, the Open House Committee invited the Palm Beach County Antique Car Association to display their cars in the circle near the administration building. Visitors will vote for their favorite car and a "People's Choice" trophy will be awarded.

A brief ceremony will start the occasion, but student guides will be available throughout the two hour period, and visitors are invited to come at any time.

There will be exhibits of many kinds, dramatic readings, music, and other entertainment throughout the afternoon. Light refreshments will be provided. There is no charge for the occasion.

Black Student Union Holds Luncheon

A luncheon at Palm Beach Junior College last week was held to commemorate the contributions of blacks in the past, and to focus on the future of PBJC's black students.

Sponsored by the Black Student Union, the program featured guest speakers Bobbie Brooks, mayor of Riviera Beach, Robbie Littles, executive director of CAPA, a drug-rehabilitation program, and Herman McCray, owner of McCray's Ribs and superintendent of sanitation for Riviera Beach.

Participants from PBJC included Dr. Melvin Haynes, Ron Moses, Henry Saulter, Gwen Ferguson, and Robert Lowery, president of the BSU.

All of the guest speakers seemed to respond strongly to the program theme: "Rise Above the Ordinary,"

"Black people need to be in the business arena....we have to deal with the system the way it is," said Mayor Brooks. 'We can't just sit by, but must seize any opportunity that comes along."

"You here survived, not because you were the smartest in the class or you had the most... you survived because you were blessed," Littles said. "You have a responsibility while you are here (at PBJC) to do the best you can, and then to go back to the black community and work with the kids who are less fortunate."

"You as students need to realize that you are somebody, and that education is a tool to reaching your goals," McCray said. "If you are to be somebody, you have to know who you are and where you came from."

All three speakers stressed that "knowing who you are" stemmed from having an awareness of black heritage. They mentioned black historical figures and urged the students to "keep in touch with the past."

The BSU will sponsor a second luncheon Monday, Feb. 20 at 11 a.m. in the Foodservice Center. Scheduled guests include Eva Mack, mayor of West Palm Beach, and C. Spencer Pompey, a retired County teacher and administrator who served as the first president of the Palm Beach County Teachers' Association.

Special recognition by the BSU will be presented to Paul Butler, counselor, who has served the community faithfully as an outstanding educator.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Varsity Basketball Season Has Ended

The Pacer basketball season ended Wednesday night on a bizarre note, with coach Jim Voight ejected from the game, and Indian River three points ahead, but the team was in there scrapping all the way. We had a good season at 19-11, and we have a much better start on next year than we had at this time a year ago. Anyhow, it's about time we started paying attention to other sports.

Wednesday's game started with the Pacers playing hustling, scrappy defense, and working the ball well on offense to get the good shots--but points were hard to come by. Very little was going through the hoop.

Indian River led, 9-4, but the Pacers tied at 11, and even went ahead at 13-11, before slowly falling back to 17-27 with 3:12 to go in the half. They battled back, but were still six points behind at 21-27 when Coach Voight got hit with a second technical, which the official declared was flagrant enough to eject him from the game.

Coach Voight says he had been instructed by his doctor, following the mild heart attack he had a few weeks ago, to turn his back and walk away from a confrontation rather than get too excited. When he did this, the official apparently misinterpreted the action, and the coach was gone for the night.

With Jimmy Voight, the coach's son calling the shots, the Pacers again made a run at Indian River in the middle of the second half, pulling ahead at 45-43 with 8:15 left in the game. But four straight missed foul shots with two minutes to go, and an Indian River team that played well when it counted, led to the 69-66 defeat and the end of the season.

It was a good basketball year, with a team that played up to the level

PBJC South Hosts Elected Officials

In conjunction with the Florida presidential preference primary to be held in March, Palm Beach Junior College South will sponsor a "Salute to Good Government Day" Sunday, March 4 from 1-4 p.m. at the campus in Boca Raton.

"The day will be centered around an old-fashioned political rally," said Mitch Mannin, PBJC South technical clerk. "Candidates for local offices who will be running in the election that month will participate."

"We've invited government officials from Delray Beach, Highland Beach and Boca Raton, as well as county government officials," he said.

Mannin mentioned that he had also corresponded with the campaign managers for presidential candidates George McGovern and Jesse Jackson, but as of last Friday, had not gotten confirmations from them.

"The day will be informal, much like an open house, and refreshments will be served," Mannin said. "Come out and meet your elected officials."

The event is part of the college's 50-year anniversary celebration.

All That Jazz

Seven local high school jazz bands will appear in a Jazz Festival Wednesday, March 7 at 7 p.m. at the PBJC Central Auditorium.

The bands to be featured are: Lake Worth, directed by Louis St. Laurent; Forest Hill, directed by Casey Lunceford; Twin Lakes, directed by Dwane Earnhardt; Glades Central, directed by Willie Pyfrom; Atlantic, directed by Andy Kidd; John I. Leonard directed by Ubaldo Montesino; and Palm Beach Gardens, directed by Wayne Miller.

In addition, the PBJC Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Sy Pryweller, will perform.

Admission is free and the public is invited. Call Sy at 8142 for more information.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the board of trustees of Palm Beach Junior College has been scheduled for Wednesday, Feb.29,noon, in Conference Room B of the Administration Bldg. at PBJC Central.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering bids for the Student Center Building at PBJC North.

of its talent, and possibly a bit beyond. Dade North deserved its second-in-the nation ranking. We were even, or better, with everyone else. Indian River and Edison were to play for the second state tournament slot on Friday night.

With tournament play at the end of the season, the last game for almost every team playing basketball is a loss. Only the national champ, and a few teams playing consolation rounds in the big tournaments, can end with a victory.

Our almost inevitable season-ending loss came a little earlier than we had hoped, but the Voights accomplishments this year gives us reason to look forward to another year.

DON'T WAIT TILL NEXT YEAR

But don't wait till next year. Just transfer to another sport.

Coach Frank Cacciatore has put together an exciting baseball team, with a current record of 11-5 against mostly four-year college teams, and conference play getting underway against Edison here on March 2 at 3 p.m.

The team is solid at every position, and is well balanced. Pitching is not overwhelming, and in the early season a few mistakes on defense have hurt. But batting has been surprisingly good, and run production high enough so that you can never figure them out of the game until it's over.

Best of all, it's the kind of team where there is somebody ready to take up the slack when one of the leading hitters has an off day. A team that will find a way to win even when the opposition is supposed to be better than they are.

TAKE YOUR PICK

If for some reason or other, you don't like watching baseball, there are other sports that could use some fans--softball, tennis and golf--take your pick. You'll be welcomed.

The Past Five Years In Personnel

The latest in a series of reports to the trustees of different aspects of college life was given at the recent meeting of the board at PBJC Glades by Joseph Schneider. There were a number of interesting points made by a series of charts illustrating different aspects of the personnel picture over a five-year period, 78/79 to 82/83. One of the charts is reproduced on page four.

Four of the charts compared salaries for Clerk Typist I, Custodian I, Electrician, and Computer Operator I with comparable salaries in the local area. All four charts followed very similar patterns. The first year, 78/79, minimum salaries were below comparable salaries in the local area, and thereafter they were higher each year. Schneider said other job classifications would follow a similar pattern.

TURNOVER RATES

That salary advantage may have helped account for a significant drop in personnel turnover through the five year period for classified personnel. The chart showed a lower classified turnover in every year covered.

On the same chart, faculty turnover was shown--and was considerably smaller in all years than classified turnover. It showed an up and down pattern, with no significant advance or decline through the five year period.

A chart showing full-time faculty degrees showed relative stability, with a slight upturn in the higher degrees, doctorates and specialists, and a slight decline in the number of bachelors.

A double chart showing race and sex of faculty at the beginning of the five year period and at the end also showed no dramatic changes. Overall minority representation remained close to 10 percent and men slightly outnumbered women both at the beginning and the end of the period.

INSTRUCTIONAL SALARIES

A chart showing instructional faculty ranking of average daily pay rates compared to the state average clearly showed the effect of collective bargaining on faculty salaries during the early part of each fiscal year.

The chart was based on data compiled on October 1 of each year, and in only one of those years, 79/80, was a collective bargaining contract signed at PBJC by that date. The state average data, for the most part, were compiled from colleges where the faculty had already received whatever raise they were going to have that year.

Most community colleges in the state are not unionized, and the general practice in a non-union situation is for raises to be granted at the beginning of the fiscal year. In our case, of course, the fiscal year begins July 1. Even where unions exist, most contracts are in place before October 1 so that these raises, too, would be reflected in the data used to get the state rate.

Using the actual data as of October 1 in each year, the chart shows PBJC Instructional rates to be considerably below the state average in 78/79, very slightly below in 79/80, and decidedly below thereafter--a very different picture than the one which emerged for classified staff.

BOARD OFFERS

But what if this picture were altered by the salaries which had been offered to the union, and were unaccepted on October 1? Now the picture closely resembles that of the classified staff.

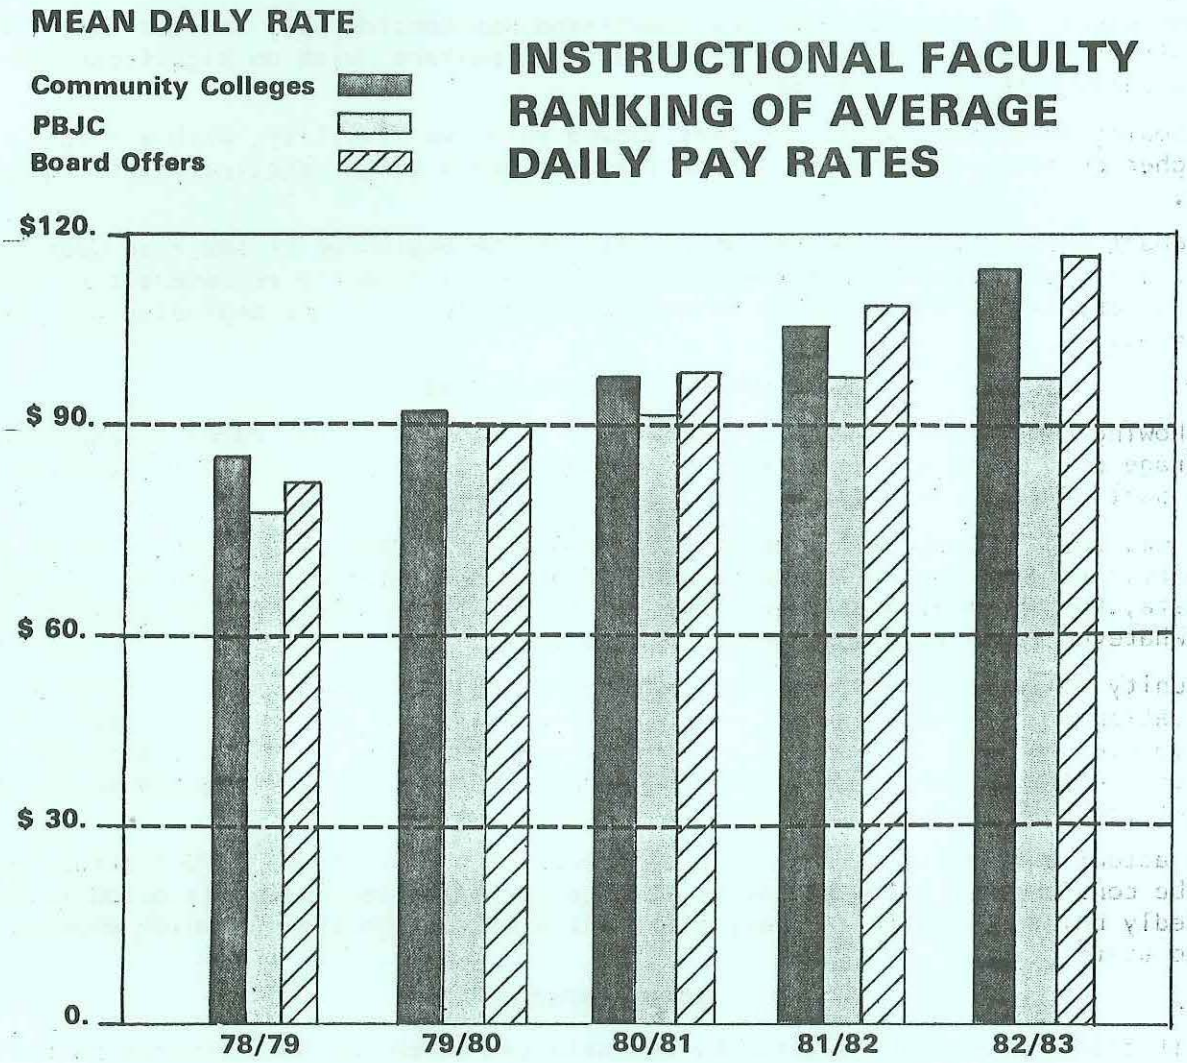
The first year, 78/79 would still be below the state average, but not by so much. The second remains very slightly below, but every year thereafter the rate would have been higher than the state average.

TENTH IN STATE

Although the data for the current year were not included in the chart, and have only recently become available, they will again show PBJC salaries at a higher rate than the state average, Schneider told the board.

The average daily rate for the PBJC Instructional Faculty is now the tenth highest of the state's 28 community colleges.

A look at the chart below will show quite clearly the effect delays in reaching contractual agreement has had on salary rates at PBJC.



Forum Stresses Need For Humanities

If the opinions of five Florida educators and policymakers are any indication, then studying art, literature, music and other humanities has not become obsolete in our high-tech society.

On February 16, PBJC sponsored a public forum which addressed the role of humanities in a quality education.

Distinguished panelists included Senator Jack Gordon (D-Miami Beach), Tom Mills, superintendent of Palm Beach County schools, William Bader, president of the Palm Beach County Council of P.T.A.s, Freddie Jefferson, Division I chairman at PBJC North, and Dr. Jack Suberman, dean of the college of humanities at Florida Atlantic University.

"Besieged by the computer, the media blitz, and other technological phenomena, we need the humanities now more than ever," Jefferson said.

"Students should develop taste for good music, art and literature and be able to recognize the significant question and experiment, so that they will be able to judge who is worth following and who isn't," Dr. Suberman said.

"A humanities curriculum should be designed...to help students excel in areas where they have talent," Mills said.

"Without the humanities, children become dry and boring adults...not an asset to our society," Bader said.

"With a quality education, you should be able to digest what you read and think sequentially," said Sen. Gordon.

The forum was moderated by James Tanner, dean of academic affairs at PBJC South, and was organized by George Matsoukas, assistant director of resource development.

Those sabbatical leaves announced in the Monday Report last week are for interesting reasons. Julio Rive will be studying computer applications in hotels, restaurants and clubs to bring the most up to date management methods back to our students. Sandy Richmond hopes to complete her specialist level studies and much of her work for a doctorate. Sunny Meyer plans to study Japanese kabuki theatre, with a great many interesting applications.

Frank McLaughlin is serving on the state-wide Academic Advising Task Force for FACC. This task force combines with the Counseling task force for a joint report to the Student Development Commission.

Palm Beach Junior College student, Grace Kelly, widowed at age 41, took the GED and then enrolled in the Mental Health Technology program at the college. Graduating with honors two years later, she was hired as Director of Program Services by the Widowed Persons Services of Palm Beach County. On February 16th, Mrs. Kelly and her former faculty advisor, Dr. Franklin Saunders, were the panelists on Channel 12's People Will Talk show hosted by Gail Grasso. The show is video taped and will be shown sometime this week or next. Mrs. Kelly and Dr. Saunders responded to questions from an audience made up of widows and widowers.

Lois "Sunny" Meyer was invited to perform her original script ISADORA: ARTIST IN CONFLICT for the Opera Guild of Palm Beach on Thursday, Feb. 16. Sunny reports that she performed on a pool patio under a full moon for the more than 25 people in attendance, and she feels certain that Isadora's spirit enjoyed the evening with its romantic atmosphere.

Bill Graham and Ann Steckler have been selected by the Chicago Board of Trade to go to a special workshop/seminar on commodity markets March 26 and 27. Only four Flordians will be included among those invited, and it is great that two of the four are from PBJC, especially since the Board of Trade is picking up the tab.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 19 March 5, 1984

High Schools Monday, Colleges Wednesday

This Week Is Brain Bowl Week

There should be a lot of brain-picking going on at Palm Beach Junior College this week. The college will host its first High School Invitational Brain Bowl today at 2 p.m. in the Business Building, Rooms 108 and 111 at PBJC Central.

According to Dean Robert Moss, teams of five members from four area high schools will compete in the double elimination tournament. The members of the winning team will receive two-year scholarships to PBJC, and the runners-up will be awarded one-year scholarships.

"The schools competing will include Santaluces vs. Forest Hill, and Atlantic vs. John I. Leonard," Dean Moss said. "Questions will be from our general education curriculum--literature, science, math, art, music, and social science."

Moss said the scholastic scrimmage was the brainchild of Dr. Paul Graham, and would hopefully improve contacts with the high schools and strengthen academics in the area.

"We hope to make this an annual event, and anticipate it getting bigger and better," Moss said.

Our PBJC students will get a chance to "show their stuff" in the Southern Region Community College Brain Bowl Wednesday, March 7 at 1:30 p.m. in the CE Lecture Hall.

Teams from Miami-Dade North and South, Broward and PBJC will vie for a berth in the state tournament to be held at Miami Dade North March 16-17.

According to Coach Allen Hamlin, the students will respond to questions from the natural sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities.

Contestants from PBJC include: Karmann Wattenbarger, Terri Barmuchi, Rob Benson, Juan Omana, team captain Gary Hoge and substitute Sue Cower.

Admission is free and all are welcome.

Board Accepts Bids For North Student Building

One of two construction firms was chosen by Palm Beach Junior College trustees Wednesday afternoon to erect the new $2 million Student Services Building at PBJC North.

Which of the two depends on how much money the college has to spend.

During discussion at the special meeting, trustee Willard Findling noted that Lassiter at $1,773,890 and Haynes and Mouw at $1,787,000 were very close on the base bid, and that Haynes and Mouw would be lowest if all alternates were contracted.

There were seven alternates in all, with some lower for Lassiter and others for Haynes and Mouw.

Findling was particularly concerned about providing covered walkways under alternate 3, where Lassiter had bid $244,500 to $183,000 for Haynes and Mouw.

"Those walkways are needed, and we will never get them for less money," Findling said.

The board directed Dr. Eissey to determine whether the college had building funds available to include Alternate 3 and possibly Alternate 4 with those already recommended, and awarded the bid to whichever firm was lowest after a final determination is made as to which alternates can be built.

"We would like to include most of the alternates," Dr. Eissey said, "but we don't have the funds for all of them."

Thanks To The Fair Volunteers

Dr. Eissey recently received the following list of persons who volunteered time to man the PBJC booth at the South Florida Fair. The booth was one of the most successful we have had, and Dr. Eissey asked the Monday Report to convey his personal thanks to those on the list.

"We also had great cooperation from our music department, our Multi-Cultural Center friends, and dozens of other employees and friends of the college," Dr. Eissey said. "This is an example of the kind of spirit we want at PBJC."

The Student Services Building will be located south of the administration building and southeast of the mechanical building. Its location on the master plan was selected to serve the entire campus when completed.

It will be a one story building with a cafeteria including one large dining area and two smaller meeting rooms. The bookstore will be located in the building.

Room will be provided for a student recreation and lounge area and a meeting room. Offices for student clubs and other organizations, and space for career/job placement and co-op will be located near the health clinic.

The large dining area will open to the south on a patio to allow outside dining. Style and mode of construction will match buildings already erected at PBJC North.

Construction time is set at 365 days, so the building could be available as early as mid-term in the Winter Term of 1985.

Women's History Week

The Feminist Psychology Class taught by Dr. Barbara Matthews has planned a special program in observance of the fourth national Women's History Week March 4-10.

On Friday, March 9 at 8:45 a.m. and 10 a.m. in the CE Lecture Hall, the class will host several special women, all members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

"Some of these women are very old, and one is 100-plus years old," Dr. Matthews said. "They have been pioneers in the women's movement."

In addition, the students will "contribute voices from the past" by choosing an historical figure, doing research, and presenting a short vignette about the person. The students will also wear costumes from the various periods.

Admission is free, and all are welcome.

Dr. Eissey Finds Friends At Good Samaritan

Dr. Eissey came away from his latest workday Thursday morning with a renewed respect for the skill, knowledge and energy needed to be a nursing student or teacher in a clinical situation.

At 10 a.m., after three hours on the job at Good Samaritan Hospital, Dr. Eissey took his first break of the morning.

"You wouldn't believe how much has been going on," he said. "I've been practically running to keep up with them."

Nursing teacher Priscilla Bartolone said the president "learns quickly and has a naturally cheerful bedside manner."

As he does everywhere, Dr. Eissey ran across lots of old friends. One, a teacher at Palm Beach Gardens High, although too seriously ill to talk, showed that he recognized his former principal by smiling broadly.

As luck would have it, Freddie Jefferson, (see Personals), was on third floor south, and Dr. Eissey was able to combine his workday with a visit to Freddie.

Dr. Eissey's next workday will be April 9, 5 p.m., reporting to Charles Nachman at Foodservice, preparing for one of the Monday night gourmet meals.

Personals . . .

The newly appointed part-time Guidance Counselor of the 15th Street Center is Ms. Lela Tolbert. Ms. Tolbert is a native of West Palm Beach, and has been employed with the Palm Beach County School system for 18 years. She possesses a bachelor's degree in Social Science and a master's degree in Guidance and Counseling. She is presently a Guidance Counselor at Roosevelt Elementary School. We welcome Ms. Tolbert to PBJC.

Freddie Jefferson, Division I Chairman at PBJC North, entered Good Sam Hospital Feb. 29 for tests and was scheduled to undergo surgery last Friday. According to our information, she was to be hospitalized for a few days, and would welcome any cards.

Dr. Sam Bottosto spoke before the Young Democrats of Palm Beach County on behalf of the Mondale campaign on Feb. 28 at Bogie's Lounge in West Palm Beach.

Payge and Jo Dampier wish to thank members of the PBJC family who offered expressions of sympathy on the passing of Jo's father, Brig. Gen. C.E. Lucas Phillips, OBE, MC on Feb. 18, 1984 in London.

Dr. Rich Yinger presented a lecture on "The Economic, Social and Psychological Problems of the Dying Person" to a hospice training session last week. In addition, Dr. Yinger will be showing a film in cooperation with Common Cause--"If You Love This Planet Earth," Wednesday, March 7, 9:50 and 11 a.m. and Thursday, March 8, 9:10 and 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the Allied Health Lecture Hall. Everyone is invited to attend; admission is free. This film which was labeled propoganda by the U.S.State Department was awarded the Academy Award for Best Short Documentary. It runs about 25 minutes. A discussion of the nuclear weapons issue will immediately follow.

As a member of the accreditation team for the American Occupational Therapy Association, Sylvia Meeker recently traveled to Penn Valley Community College in Kansas City, Mo.,and the University of Puerto Rico at Humacao.

Susan Marlowe underwent serious surgery last Tuesday at JFK Hospital. She is in room 465, and according to the latest report, she was resting comfortably.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Fastdraft System Plus $60,000

Computer Drafting Gets Grant From IBM

Palm Beach Junior College has been selected as the first college in Florida to participate in a nation-wide $9.2 million grant program from IBM in which 33 colleges will receive equipment and funds to improve two year technical curricula in drafting.

PBJC will receive an IBM Fastdraft system, worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000 plus a grant of $60,000 over a three-year period. A check for half that amount has already been received by the college.

The equipment and funds will enable the college to have the most advanced lab for teaching computer aided drafting in the state.

The funds are to be used to develop work-study programs with local industry and to upgrade faculty and course offerings.

Dr. Eissey said the grant is an excellent example of the kind of cooperation that is needed between education and industry.

"We have been one of the pioneers in this part of the country in education for computer-assisted drafting," he said. "The IBM grant will allow us to keep on the leading edge of technology in this rapidly-changing field. We are grateful for the opportunity to train our students on the latest and the best."

In announcing the program, Dr. Lewis M. Branscomb, IBM vice president and chief scientist, said that "accelerating the use of computer equipment in technical and drafting education will put schools in a better position to provide industry with the skilled technicians needed as manufacturing plants move increasingly toward automation."

Each IBM Fastdraft System includes: an IBM Personal Computer, which serves as the system console; two IBM 3251 display stations which, with light pens, serve as the system's drawing boards; a graphics processor that performs the calculations necessary to create

Foundation Report Is Best In History

Directors of the PBJC Foundation were given "the best annual report in the history of the Foundation," at their annual meeting, Feb.29 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, according to Pat Wilson, Director of Development.

Cash gifts and donations in the year ending July 1, 1983 were $710,905, more than double the previous year's $348,080, she said.

Total income for the year was $1,364,054 for the Foundation, a non-profit organization for the purpose of receiving gifts, donations, scholarships, trusts and other bequests for the college.

Almost a half million dollars of the income, $446,808, was used for scholarships and other programs at the college, and $29,412 went into community relations and administrative expense, leaving a balance of $887,834.

The entire net worth of the foundation, including the value of property, stock and the value of trusts has now reached approximately $5 million, Wilson said.

Shannon Ginn, Daniel H. James, Gary E. Jones and Dr. John S. McRoberts were reelected as directors, and two new directors were elected: Stanley B. Brenner and Richard G.Myers.

In addition to the treasurer's report from Gordon Gaster, there was a report on planned giving from Victor Whitney, and on the North Campus from Priscilla Searcy and Mike Caldwell.

Dr. Eissey gave a report on progress of the college as he sees it from the

PROPOSITION I INFORMATION

In November, Floridians will vote on a constitutional amendment called Proposition One, Amendment One, or the Citizen's Choice Amendment -- three names for the same thing. If passed, the amendment would roll back government revenue to the 1980 level, and limit increases thereafter to less than the increase in the cost of living. The Monday Report will publish information from time to time on this important issue. We welcome questions and will do our best to obtain correct answers.

TODAY'S QUESTION: My property taxes were about $300 in 1980 and have now jumped to over $1,000. If Proposition One passes, will my taxes go back down to the 1980 level?

Absolutely not. Your increase in property taxes was due to an increase in assessment on your property, and your property taxes will probably remain the same, or even increase, if Proposition One passes.

Here's why. Proposition One limits revenue, it does not roll back taxes. When the state limits its revenue it will stop sending as much money to local governmental units. This loss of revenue from the state, plus other measures, will mean that many local governmental units will not need to cut back on property taxes, and in some instances, will need to increase them.

An exact answer as to what will happen to your property taxes as a result of Proposition One cannot be given at this time, but it can be stated with certainty that they will not go back to the 1980 levels, or even near that level. Chances are they would stay about the same, or increase somewhat as local governments attempt to make up for lack of state revenue.

president's office.

Robert Montgomery and Alex Dreyfoos gave a special report on the Performing Arts Center for Palm Beach County.

Officers elected were Mrs. Robert Montgomery, president, Shannon Ginn, vice president, Secretary Dr. Eissey, Treasurer Stanley Brenner.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the board and guests were entertained prior to dinner by the brilliant young pianist from the Virgin Islands, Susan Joyce.

"We are extremely grateful to the Montgomerys for providing such a magnificent setting for our annual meeting and for a thousand expressions of their interest in education and culture throughout the year," Wilson said.

"They and our friends on the board and in the community are making it possible for us at the college to make realistic plans to be of even greater service to our students and to the quality of life in Palm Beach County."

For the Monday Report, Pat added a special note: "Those of us who work in the office of Development are constantly aware that it is the hard work of many, many people at the college, and the leadership of Dr. Eissey that make it possible for us to have such a great annual report.

"We think next year's report will be even better, and we believe that with your help we can build a solid foundation of support for the college in the community."

drawings and stores drawings on removable memory diskettes; a color plotter that can produce drawings in four sizes and up to eight colors; and the Fastdraft software.

School selection criteria included accreditation, quality, scope and commitment to drafting training, caliber of students, socio-economic composition of the student budy, geographic distribution, and proximity to IBM locations that can provide technical support.

Buck Rader and John Schmiederer have been working with IBM for several months in regard to the grant, and are enthusiastic about the new equipment.

"This is a new generation of CAD equipment," Rader says, "and it is much improved over the first generation. We are ready to put it to work as soon as it arrives."

A Long Afternoon At The Brain Bowl

The Southern Regional Community College Brain Bowl was held here last Wednesday, and after six hours of competition, no winner had yet been declared.

PBJC was eliminated from the competition after losing to Broward 490-280 in the first round and to Miami Dade North 575-110 in the second round.

"Even though we lost, it is still an accomplishment for the kids to have competed in the Brain Bowl," said Coach Allen Hamlin. "This is something they can put on their resumes, and it will help them later on."

In the third round, Miami Dade South was eliminated after losing to Dade North 475-315. Dade North and Broward faced each other in a fourth round, which ended in protests over the judges' ruling on one of the questions.

At the Monday Report deadline, an appeal had been sent to the director of activities for the Florida Community Colleges Activities Association. If he upheld the judges' decision, a fifth round would have been played last Friday. If he overturned the decision, Broward would have been named the regional champ.

FACC Convention

Just a reminder: the FACC regional meeting will be held here in the Criminal Justice Complex this Friday from 8:30AM-3:30P[illegible]

The program in the morning consists of four sessions dealing with educational concerns of the community college system and various commission meetings.

After lunch, there is a special session that everyone should try to attend. Andy Gomez from Miami Dade South will talk about "How Community College Employees Can Affect the Outcome of Proposition One." For more details, call George Matsoukas at 8074.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 21 March 19, 1984

'1984' Reviewed And Discussed

FACC Convention Was Fun And Informative

Over 130 community college employees from Indian River, Broward, Florida Keys, Miami Dade and Palm Beach attended the FACC regional convention held here last Friday.

The theme for the get-together was "1984: Is It Really Here?," and the meeting began with a review of George Orwell's "1984" given by Ada Williams, professor of English at IRCC. Then the audience heard various speakers talk about educational concerns of the community college system: CLAST, State Board of Community Colleges, Governor's Upper Quartile Quality Indicators, and Legislative Review for 1984.

Lunch was hosted by the Center for Multicultural Affairs and served by the Ukrainian Club. Entertainment was provided by the PBJC Pacesetters and instrumentalists from the Music Department, and there were many door prizes awarded.

After lunch, Andy Gomez, director of public affairs at MDCC, spoke on "How Community Colleges Can Affect the Outcome of Amendment 1, and the last portion included small group discussions on "How Can We, As a Region, Impact What Is Happening in Community College Education Today?"

"The involvement of our whole chapter is

PBJC North Student Center On Trustees' Agenda

A building already under contract at Palm Beach Junior College North will be named the Burt Reynolds Student Center if PBJC trustees agree.

Dr. Eissey will recommend the memorial to Burt at the regular meeting of the board, Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., in Conference C at PBJC Central.

The student services building at PBJC North is also involved in another agenda item. Dr. Eissey will report to the board that the contract for the building has been awarded to Haynes and Mouw in the amount of $2,261,800, which includes alternates for an access road, parking lots, covered walkways and an air conditioning line.

Dr. Paul Graham will present information about class sections in the continuing series of programs about the college, and will also present the accountability study on program planning and evaluation.

Personnel items are 17 pages long, and include bargaining unit appointments for the 1984-85 year.

An item of interest in construction and development is completion of final plans for renovation of the auditorium at PBJC Central.

The Hearing

The Monday Report is late this week because we wanted to report the substitute board hearings on the suspension of Frank Leahy and Dr. Joan Young. Despite three long sessions, that hearing is not completed, and has been continued until 9 a.m. Monday, March 26 in Conference C at PBJC Central. We have been advised not to report until the hearing is concluded. Since we were already delayed, we were able to bring you the report on the FACC meeting on Friday.

Miami-Dade Rejects Union

Miami-Dade's teachers, librarians, counselors and student advisors decisively defeated an attempt at unionization last week. The vote was 408 against, 293 in favor of a union in an election sought by the United Faculty of MDCC, FEA United, AFT and AFL/CIO.

The last previous attempt to form a union at Miami-Dade failed by only one vote, and the election was contested in the courts. This is the fourth recent attempt to form a union at a community college which has not succeeded.

Sports Update

Bouyed by two recent wins over the reigning NCAA softball champs, the Lady Pacer softball team has upped its record to 23-1 as of last Thursday.

The Pacer women's only loss of the season came from Florida International University, 4-3, in a tournament hosted by that school. After the loss, the Lady Pacers have gone on to win 13 consecutive games, including two against the University of South Florida Lady Brahmins, the 1983 national senior college champs. The team is also undefeated (6-0) in the Southern Conference.

In other PBJC sports, the baseball team has stretched its record to 23-8 (3-0 in league play) as of Thursday, March 15.

The women's tennis team is ranked number 1 in the state with a 12-1 record, and is the favorite in the Southern Conference.

The men's tennis record stands at 15-3 (10-0 in the Southern Conference), with the only losses being to Florida State, University of South Florida, and Flagler College. The Pacer netmen are ranked number 1 both in the conference and the state.

If you are looking for good entertainment at a bargain price (and would also like to support PBJC), come and watch one or more of the Pacer teams. Consult the calendar on page 4 of the Monday Report for game dates and times.

A Busy Election Week

PBJC students, faculty and staff were into the political spirit for the past two weeks as a prelude to the Florida Presidential primary.

Spearheaded for the most part by Social Science Instructor Ed Pugh, the college hosted Annie Glenn (wife of Democratic Presidential hopeful John Glenn) on March 5.

Then on March 9, Jesse Jackson, another Democratic Presidential candidate, spoke to a full house at the PBJC Gym. Rev. Jackson, accompanied by an entourage of Secret Service men and press people, told the audience "we need a new direction."

"Mega-Monday" was held March 12 in preparation of "Super Tuesday," the day of elections on March 13.

The PBJC Political Union sponsored a People's Own Party (POPS) mock convention in the Sunshine Court on Mega-Monday. Featured were proxy speakers for Walter Mondale, Reuben Askew, Alan Cranston, John Glenn, Gary Hart, Ernest Hollings, Jesse Jackson, Stephen Koczak and George McGovern. Richard Kay, a North Palm Beach resident who is also a Democratic candidate, spoke in person.

Students of the PBJC Music and Drama departments, as well as student clubs and organizations, were involved in the production of the convention.

"Mega-Monday" also included a WARTS ('straw' spelled backwards) ballot, in which students voted for their presidential preferences.

For the most part, the WARTS ballot mirrored the actual primary results: Gary Hart received 45 percent of the Democratic vote, Walter Mondale got 23 percent and Jesse Jackson received 19 percent. Others included John Glenn, eight; Reuben Askew, one; Alan Cranston, two; and George McGovern, two. Ernest Hollings, Stephen Koczak and Richard Kay all received no votes.

Handicapped Concerned About Studies

Handicapped students at Palm Beach Junior College are more concerned these days about how well they are doing in class than they are about how to get there.

There are still some problems in access, but the students attending one of Dr.Eissey's periodic conferences with the handicapped last Wednesday seemed convinced the college is making progress.

They accepted a suggestion from Dr. Tony Tate to prioritize their remaining problems so that whatever funds the college spends will solve the most pressing problems. They will work with Gail Tomei to produce such a list.

But the chief concerns expressed in this meeting were for tutors, note takers, and other aids to better education--including a description from one student of a new computerized device that is supposed to produce readable copy from a lecture.

After Dr. Eissey explained that all suggestions for obtaining the needed help would be seriously considered, a number of ideas were explored.

Gail said the principal need for tutors is in computer courses, math, science and sometimes in English. Right now, there is a real need for a physics tutor. There is some money for students who can do this work, and a need to identify those who can, and will. One of Gail's students had to drop a math course recently because a suitable tutor was not available.

If you know of anyone qualified for tutoring, reading, or note taking, and willing either to volunteer time or to work as a student assistant, please call Gail Tomei--8057.

Duncan Honored

Watson B. Duncan III, chairman of the communications department, was honored recently by the Palm Beach County Reading Council for his "excellence in promoting literacy" in the area.

The Reading Council gave the master teacher a plaque, the "International Reading Association Literacy Award" at its meeting March 5 at John I. Leonard High School.

Duncan, a teacher at PBJC for 35 years, is an eminent Shakespearean scholar. He founded the college's drama program, which produced actors Burt Reynolds, Monte Markham and others.

For the past 25 years, he has given a series of book reviews during the season to a full house at the West Palm Beach Woman's Club Building. His literature classes at PBJC usually number in the hundreds of students.

Duncan also serves regularly as a judge for the District-wide Secondary Poetry Contest. He is an honorary member of the Reading Council.

The goals of the International Reading Association, of which the Reading Council is a part, are to improve the quality of reading instruction, to develop an awareness of the impact of reading, and to promote the development of reading proficiency among all people.

FACC Raffle

We have a winner! Howard Utman, accounting manager in the Payroll Office at PBJC Central, was the lucky recipient of the waterbed raffled by FACC last Thursday.

The raffle was part of a membership drive which yielded 56 new members for the PBJC chapter, a 43 percent increase. (Total membership is now 186).

"The infusion of new blood will make our organization the best in the community college system," said George Matsoukas, chapter president.

Special thanks go to: Dick Jones for the donation of the waterbed and for his personal effort to get new members; Alice Zacherl, for recruiting 11 new members from the North campus; Mary Orsenigo at PBJC Glades and Gordon Kramer at PBJC South; and Alice Carlisle for coordinating the raffle.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 22 March 26, 1984

Spring Is Here, Summer Soon

Modified Work Week Begins May 7

Along with the beautiful weather on the first day of spring, last Thursday, came an annual reminder from Joseph Schneider about the modified work week--both events reminding us once more that when spring arrives, summer cannot be far behind.

And with summer comes the modified work week, and personnel's timely reminder to be prepared a month and a half from now for longer work days, shorter lunches, and long weekends.

The patterns are very much like last year. Twelve month personnel, (by far the largest category of full-time employees), will generally follow a pattern of 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. if they are 40-hour employees, and 7:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. if they are 35-hour employees.

With a half hour off for lunch, those hours add up to 10 for 40-hour employees and 8-3/4 for 35-hour employees. Every day will be recorded as 1 1/4 day for attendance, vacation and sick leave.

For 12 month people, the modified week begins May 7, which means the first Friday you will not be working will be May 11. The modified week ends Aug. 2, which means you will not work Friday, Aug. 3, but will go back to the regular schedule on Aug. 6.

There are two holidays during this period, Monday, May 28 and Wednesday, July 4, and you cannot be credited with 1 1/4 days for those holidays--only 1 day. So--on those two weeks you will need to make up the extra 1/4 day during the three working days of that week.

Confusing? Of course.

But somehow, we have managed to get this right before, and we will again this year

There are a lot of other details, with different starting and ending dates, etc., for 180, 196, and 210 day personnel

Trustees Approve First 166-Day Contracts

The first examples of the new 166-day contracts were among 20 pages of personnel items approved by the trustees at the March meeting of the board Tuesday, March 20.

The long list of personnel changes included appointments of bargaining unit personnel for next year, and the three short contracts will be the first for less than 180 days.

The new length was made possible by changes in state regulations, and are voluntary. Cooper Lansing of the Business Department, Arthur Musto of the Communications Department, and Carl F. Purtz of the Engineering Department, all senior instructors, have requested the short contracts next year.

The board approved a recommendation from Dr. Eissey to name the new Student Services Building at PBJC North the Burt Reynolds Student Services Center.

Final plans for renovation of the auditorium at PBJC Central were also approved.

The board received an 18-page report from the committee for accountability study number five, Program Plan and Evaluation.

The next meeting of the board will be Wednesday, April 25, in Room 105, Classroom Building, PBJC North.

PROPOSITION I INFORMATION

In November, Floridians will vote on a constitutional amendment called Proposition One, Amendment One, or the Citizen's Choice Amendment -- three names for the same thing. If passed, the amendment would roll back government revenue to the 1980 level, and limit increases thereafter to less than the increase in the cost of living. The Monday Report will publish information from time to time on this important issue. We welcome questions and will do our best to obtain correct answers.

TODAY'S QUESTION: Why is correct information about Proposition I so hard to find? What can we do to get better information?

Proposition I affects every governmental unit in Florida in an individual way. As the most severe cutback in revenue ever proposed, its effects would be so sweeping that mistakes can occur even where there are the best of intentions. For instance, in the material handed out recently by Dr. Eissey, prepared by a state agency, the statement that the $25,000 homestead exemption will be lost is not correct, and there were two other minor errors, one favoring the proponents and one the opponents. At PBJC, the committee working with Dr. Ottis Smith is attempting to gather all available material on Proposition I, and this material will be checked for accuracy before it is digested and released.

You can help by sending copies of information you have on Proposition I to Dr. Smith at PBJC North. The committee is also compiling a list of organizations which have taken a public stand on proposition one, and if you have information about such organizations, please give the information to Sheila Durand--at 8151.

Members of the substitute board have expressed their desire to conclude the hearing today, and to reach a decision before adjourning. No ending time limit has been suggested.

The Public Employees Relations Commission hearing on the same matter is still scheduled for April 5, 9 a.m., in Room 107, Conference B, at the County Courthouse.

Health Fair Set For April

A Health Fair featuring free screenings by 24 different agencies will be held at three of the college's campuses in April.

The Health Fair will be conducted at PBJC North Monday and Tuesday, April 9-10, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Administration Building area.

It will be held at PBJC Central Wednesday and Thursday, April 11-12 from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Student Activities Center, and at PBJC Glades Monday, April 16 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Room 101.

Health screenings such as blood pressure, breast self-examination demonstration, kidney screening, anemia, hearing, vision, glucose, height, and weight will be conducted.

In addition, blood chemistry will be available for $8 per person and a cardiac profile blood test and chemistry analysis will be $14. Health education, nutrition counseling, exhibits, referrals, and follow-up will also be included in the Health Fair.

"The health screening is not a physical examination, but does serve the physician and participant in early detection of abnormalities which otherwise might be left untreated," said Mary Cannon, clinic nurse.

The event will be co-sponsored by the American Heart Association, WTVJ-TV Channel 4, Chevron, and the National Health Screening Council.

For more information, call Mary Cannon at 8066 or the American Heart Association, 655-8155.

Pacer Squads Still Going Strong

Our Pacer teams are still leading the pack as the end of the season draws closer for the baseball, softball, and tennis teams.

With only two matches left in the regular season, the women's tennis team holds a 15-1 record, the only loss being to the University of Florida Lady Gators. The women are undefeated in the Southern Conference (8-0), and are ranked number 1 in the state. They are also one of the top three teams in the nation.

As of last Friday, the men's tennis team held a 20-4 overall record, and was also undefeated in the Southern Conference (12-0). According to Assistant Coach Max Faquir, the men have "lost to no junior college yet, and are ranked number 1 in both their district and the Southern Conference." They are favorites to win the state tournament that will be played April 9-10.

Our diamond demons, the baseball and softball teams, are also winning. The baseball Pacers held a 28-9 overall record (6-1 in conference play), and are ranked number 1 in the Southern Conference.

The Lady Pacers softball team is ranked first in the state with a 29-3 overall record and a 6-0 record in conference play.

Check the calendar on page 4 of the Monday Report for game dates and times.

Job Fair A Big Success

About 50 employers from local and national firms met with over 500 students here last Thursday in a Job Fair organized by Norma Walter. "Students need exposure to the community," she said. "And employers should be made aware of our resources." Some of the larger firms included IBM, McDonald's, Delta Airlines, Southern Bell, Motorola and Barnett Bank.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 23 April 2, 1984

Proponents Geared Up For Second Round

Proposition One Ruled 'Defective'

Even though proponents of Amendment One lost a major battle last Tuesday, it looks as though the war for a revenue control referendum is not over.

The Florida Supreme Court voted unanimously (7-0) not to include the amendment on the November ballot because it violated a constitutional mandate that initiatives cover only a single subject.

The Miami Herald's March 28 issue reported that Justice Ben Overton wrote in the majority opinion, "We find that the Citizen's Choice proposal is clearly and conclusively defective."

According to the Court ruling, Amendment One actually covers three areas: taxation, user fee operations (such as utilities), and capital funding through revenue bonds.

Proponents have already started a counter-attack. They have vowed to appeal the decision to a federal district court, and have hinted at starting a new petition.

"Proposition One was the ninth attempt to get an amendment of this type on the ballot," said Dr. Ottis Smith, chairman of a district-wide committee formed to educate the public about the amendment's devastating effects.

"I was at a Proposition One meeting with state officials and they were unanimous in their viewpoint that we will have other tax-reducing or revenue control referendums..maybe both," Dr. Smith said.

He added that Republican legislators are interested in getting something on the ballot, possibly by November.

"At any rate, our committee should not disband, but rather at least be on an active standby basis," he said.

In a commitee meeting held Tuesday afternoon and chaired by Dr. Betty Woolfe,

Scholarship Foundation Observes 20th Anniversary

The Palm Beach Scholarship Foundation, founded by Dean Paul J. Glynn and chaired by Palm Beach attorney Frank McKeown, recently celebrated its 20th year together with a dinner at the Sailfish Club in Palm Beach.

Part of the ceremony included the awarding of a croquet mallet-sized gavel to McKeown for his two decades of chairmanship.

The group formed in 1963 after the successful "Sabin on Sunday" program, a joint effort between the Palm Beach County Medical Society and the Jaycees to immunize everyone for polio.

After the immunization drive, the "Sabin on Sunday" committee found it had $65,000 left over after all expenses had been paid.

After much discussion, the young men decided to start a scholarship fund to help sophomores graduating from PBJC finance their junior and senior years of college.

"To date, we've served 93 students with a total of $58,525 in scholarship monies without touching the principal," Dean Glynn said.

The Hearing Is Complete

The long hearing before the substitute board of trustees on the proposed suspension of Dr. Joan Young and Frank Leahy finished at about 5:30 p.m. last Monday. The board reached a preliminary finding which has been reported in the local news media.

Mary Ann Giel Honored At Luncheon

Mary Ann Giel, an accounting clerk in Financial Aid, will retire at the end of this month after almost 20 years at PBJC.

Her supervisors and co-workers honored her at a luncheon last Tuesday in the Foodservice Center, where Dr. Eissey gave her a gold chain and a charm and Dr. Haynes gave her a certificate signed by her many friends at the college.

According to Mrs. Kittie Wilson, Financial Aid clerk, Mrs. Giel started at PBJC in 1964 in the Guidance Office where the financial aid function was handled.

When a separate Financial Aid Department was formed, she went to work in it, so she has served in the same department for the entire time.

Members of her family were also at the luncheon: son Charles and his wife, Barbara, who are PBJC Alumni, and husband, Bud, who works in the Athletic Department.

Strings Attached

"Strings Attached," a jazz group led by four-time Grammy Award nominee Ira Sullivan, will perform in concert at Palm Beach Junior College Wednesday, April 4 at 8 p.m. in the Central Auditorium.

The group is a blend of pop-jazz and classical, and features two violins, viola, and cello alongside two horns, piano, bass and drums.

"Ira Sullivan is one of the leading musicians in all of jazz, and is one of the few multi-instrumentalists who play instruments in both the brass and woodwind families," said Don Militello, the group's pianist who also teaches music at Florida Atlantic University.

The concert will include compositions from the group's latest album, which made its debut earlier this year, as well as music by Duke Ellington, Cole Porter, Mozart and Ravel.

Admission is $5, and tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door. For ticket information, please call 586-1838.

Reunion Days

Palm Beach Junior College will sponsor reunion days for John I. Leonard and Twin Lakes High School students, past and present.

On Saturday, April 7, beginning at 12:30 p.m., John I. Leonard Lancers will gather to rekindle their school spirit at the Bill Adeimy baseball field.

The day will center around a conference game between Miami Dade South and PBJC's Pacer baseball team. Playing with the Pacers are former Lancers Alan Swabek, Daryl Boyd and Joe Carpenter.

Twin Lakes' day will be on Saturday, April 14, and once again, the reunion will center around a conference game between the Pacers and Miami Dade North, beginning at 12:30. Four former Rams, Scott Sanford, George Lint, Greg Bullard and Harvey Boden will play with the Pacer team.

Coach Frank Cacciatore will talk with high school students before the games about the ball club. Several college clubs will hold bake sales and other events on these days.

"This is a good opportunity for people to get acquainted with the baseball team," said Cacciatore. "Everyone should just come out and have fun...that's what it's all about!"

Admission will be free for all students and one dollar for all others. For more information, contact student assistant Angie Kent at the News Bureau, 8076.

Scholarship Monies Available

Thousands of dollars worth of scholarships are going unclaimed for lack of applicants, according to Mrs. Kittie Wilson in Financial Aid.

All instructors please announce in class the availability of the following monies, and please stress that application deadlines are very soon for all of them.

CASUARINI WOMEN'S CLUB OF LANTANA

Two scholarships at $500 each to a PBJC Graduating Sophomore transferring to upper division with a 3.0 or better cumulative grade point average, resident of Palm Beach County residing within Lantana City limits, planning full-time enrollment at upper division. Need is not a primary factor.

AMERICAN LEGION POST #47

One scholarship at $500 offered to a permanent resident of Lake Worth, Lantana, Palm Springs or Greenacres and having graduated from Lake Worth Community High School or John I. Leonard High School. Must have 3.0 or better cumulative GPA, full-time enrollment at upper division, and documented need.

KIWANIS CLUB OF SOUTHSIDE WEST PALM BEACH

One scholarship at $664.44 Wendy Eschenberg Circle K Memorial Scholarship preferably to a member of Circle K with a 3.0 cumulative GPA graduating from Palm Beach Junior College transferring to upper division as a full-time student. Need considered.

CRESTHAVEN DEMOCRATIC CLUB

One scholarship at $100 to a PBJC graduate transferring to upper division with a 3.0 or better cumulative GPA in the Political Science field and interested in political affairs.

SONS OF NORWAY PALM COAST LODGE 260

$250 scholarship awarded to a boy and girl of Norwegian descent or background, who will serve as the 1984 King and Queen of the Sons of Norway. Interested applicants need to contact the Student Financial Aids Office/Central Campus by April 10.

those in attendance passed a motion to do just that.

Dr. Smith said he would meet with Dr. Eissey to decide a new goal for the group. Possible new objectives would include analysis of why such amendments keep cropping up, what PBJC can do to prepare for them, or how the college can help minimize their negative impact on education.

that meeting, expected sometime in the first or second week of April, will be announced when it is known.

A hearing on an unfair labor practice charge on the same matter has been set for April 5, 9 a.m., in Room 105, Conference B, at the County Courthouse by the Public Employees Relations Commission.

Intense, Concentrated--Lively, Interesting

Planning Sessions Update College Plan

For the first time since 1980, when the College Plan was first formulated during an off-campus meeting of a number of key people in college-wide administration, a second such session has taken place--Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in Ft. Lauderdale.

The planning sessions were long, intense, and very concentrated. They were also informal, lively, and very interesting.

The ground rules outlined by Dr. Eissey were--no titles, no last names, no positions--everybody was equal, and everybody was important.

There were scores, perhaps hundreds of individual topics discussed--from sports to brain bowls, from budgets to buildings, from faculty involvement to more faculty involvement, from program review to student retention, from staffing formulas to exams, and tests, and EA/EO, and job placement, and student tutors, and counseling, and academic advising, and the best way to get really meaningful needs assessments, not to mention finding out why leavers leave and completers complete.

To plan realistically about where you are going requires first that you know where you are, and that is not as easy as it once was. There are four campuses now, and much going on at each campus. The sheer volume of material you must absorb, and sift, and rearrange, leaves the top of your spinal column almost as numb as the bottom.

Fortunately, when people of good will work together with great concentration towards a common goal, a kind of camaraderie develops, and pretty soon, spontaneous humor breaks out all over the place. A good laugh helps dissipate the numbness at both ends of the spine.

The 18 or 20 persons present--president, vice presidents, provosts, deans, and a few directors--were chosen because

Spring Music Concert Presented Thursday

A free Spring Concert, featuring the PBJC Concert Band, Twelve O'Clock Jazz Ensemble, and a special guest artist, will be presented Thursday, April 12 at 8 p.m. in the Central Auditorium.

The Concert Band will perform works by Rossini, William Byrd, Prokofieff, Wagner and Leroy Anderson.

The Jazz Ensemble will play a variety of big band music, and will be joined by Bobby Christian, a renowned percussionist who played with Fritz Reiner, Paul Whiteman, Percy Faith, Toscannini and the NBC Symphony.

Both PBJC bands are under the direction of Sy Pryweller. For more information, call 8142.

each had a specific function and an area of expertise that was needed.

As many of you will remember, the administration went to much effort to get input from every segment of college life before this planning session began. Those ideas and opinions were a valuable part of what went on.

The meeting was held off-campus because concentration of attention for longer than usual working hours was essential. It is almost impossible to hold even a two-hour uninterrupted meeting of these people on campus.

The meeting was not secret, but neither was it heavily advertised. To advertise would have been to defeat the aim of finding the uninterrupted hours of concentration.

There were no hard and fast decisions, etched in stone, that will unalterably change the future of the college. Instead, there was an earnest seeking for the right goals, and some realizable objectives. After further refinement, writing and editing, these will be presented to the board--and if approved by the board, they will be adopted.

From all this exchange of information and ideas, it became clear that we are in the middle of change that is so extensive it goes all the way back to the basic nature of the college and of our relationship to the community.

We are in the midst of a transition from a college dominated by a central campus to a true multi-campus college.

We are in the midst of important changes in Academic Affairs. We are doing more than changing vice presidents; we are changing the concept of the position and adding a Dean of Instruction for Central to make the new concept workable.

We are implementing our announced plans to move from a departmental to a divisional concept.

We have already merged our day and evening student files, and we will be taking other steps to give evening students a more even break. We are moving rapidly, and with a good sense of direction, into a new phase of the computer era.

The efforts now underway in needs assessment, retention, placement, testing, counseling, academic advisement, and student affairs and services are more than a mild evolution. Taken together, they will create a new relationship with our students, and with the community.

If all this sounds like too much change to you, you will be interested in one of the bright ideas that came up at the meeting--to declare one month every year in which everybody will agree that no changes will be made.

The idea got some laughs and some approval, but everybody realized it could not be done. The world, the state, the community are all changing so rapidly that in one month you could be left far behind.

Planning sessions like the one we have just had, fueled by ideas from all over the college, are important. We want to do more than keep up--we want to continue to lead.

Lady Pacers Win Southern Conference Title

The PBJC softball team captured the Southern Conference title last week, finishing with a 10-0 record in conference play.

According to Coach John Anderson, five Lady Pacers were named to the All-Conference team: Tami Sandy, starting pitcher for all 10 conference games; Barbara Gillespie, first base; Michelle Weaver, second base; Mary Hoff, third base; and Michele Girard, left field.

"Even though I've had good teams in the past, this year's team is an exceptional group of girls," Anderson said. "They really work hard."

Ranked number one in the state with a 38-5 overall record, the Lady Pacers have 12 more games left in the regular season before the FJCAA Tournament in Lakeland on April 18.

Anderson said the teams they will face in the state tourney include Lake City, Pensacola, Valencia, Miami Dade South, Broward North, Florida Junior College and Hillsborough.

"I'm not looking past any team. All of them are a potential threat because anything can happen on a given day," he said.

The team will play its last home game(s) Tuesday, Apr.10, 3PM, a doubleheader against FAU.

State Tennis Tournament

Men Net A Championship, Women On The Way

The Pacer tennis men won all six singles finals and took two of three doubles finals to win the FJCAA Tennis Championships last Wednesday in Hialeah.

Lars Hakansson defeated Florida JC's Russell Heier 6-4, 6-1 to win the No. 1 singles final, and teamed with Anders Wennberg to beat Florida JC's Ken Tagashira and Per-Ola Andersson 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 in the No. 1 doubles final.

The Pacers finished the tournament with 26 points, followed by Florida JC with 19.

The PBJC men's tennis team is now preparing for the National Junior College Tennis Championships to be held May 21-26 in Ocala.

Meanwhile....at Monday Report press time, the Lady Pacer tennis team was leading the pack in the women's version of the state tourney in Tampa.

The women won all seven of their first-round matches in straight sets to amass 16 points. Indian River trailed with 15, followed by Broward Central (12), Miami Dade South (11), and Florida JC (10).

First-round singles winners included Jongrak Srieud, Dominique Dubue, Robyn Freil, Anki Holm, Libby Locke, and Lena Svensson. Srieud and Freil teamed to win the doubles match.

The tournament was to have concluded Saturday, April 14.

In other PBJC sports, the Pacer baseball team had a 39-11 overall record as of last Friday, with a 16-1 conference record.

With only seven games left in the regular season, Coach Frank Cacciatore said the Pacers could be ranked first or second in the state, depending how

Substitute Board Holds Final Hearing

The final hearing on the recommended suspension of Dr. Joan Young and Frank Leahy was completed by the substitute board at 11 a.m. Tuesday morning.

The board, appointed by Gov. Bob Graham to hold the administrative hearing on the recommendations, voted 3-1 to suspend Dr. Young for the Fall Term without pay, and to suspend Leahy for 10 days at the beginning of the Fall Term without pay.

A final order, including some material added during the Tuesday meeting, is being prepared. There will be an eight page dissenting opinion from George Hudspeth, who exercised a lone and consistent vote against the majority decision.

When the report is completed, the curtain will ring down on the first act of what will be at least a three act drama.

The second act will begin with a Public Employees Relations Commission hearing on an unfair labor practice charge May 28 at the County Courthouse.

The third act will be in Federal Court where Leahy, Young and three others have sued for alleged damages in excess of $2.5 million.

Trustees Meet At PBJC North

The regular April meeting of the PBJC trustees will be held at PBJC North, PGA Blvd., Classroom Building Room 105, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m.

New Social Science Textbook

During the current academic year, a new textbook has been used for the first time on all four PBJC campuses in the SOC 1200 (Introduction to Social Science) course.

Our Social Science Department faculty played a prominent part in the preparation of the book, Social Science, originally written by the late Elgin Hunt and recently updated and considerably revised by Dr. David Colander, formerly of the University of Miami and now Distinguished Professor of Economics at Middlebury College in Vermont.

In his preface, Dr. Colander acknowledges reviewer contributions by Drs. Sam Bottosto, Richard Yinger and Mrs. Eleanor Myatt of our Central campus, and also by Mrs. Antoinette Haynes and Stafford Mooney of the South campus.

Further reference is made to the special efforts of Mrs. Myatt, who totally rewrote and reorganized many whole sections of the book, which are used in their entirety in the 1983 edition. The text, published by Macmillan Company, is one of the most thorough in its field and is being adopted by a number of colleges in Florida and other states.

PBJC North Foundation Sponsors Golf Tournament

Palm Beach Junior College North Campus Foundation is sponsoring its Second Annual Golf Tournament at Jonathan's Landing on April 24. Mike Caldwell, a Foundation member and Vice President of First National Bank in Palm Beach, has undertaken the organization and selling of the foursomes. We are fortunate to have such a conscientious person directing this tournament.

In the evening, the golfers and others will attend a Roast/Toast in honor of Dr. Eissey.

Limited tickets are available for the Roast/Toast, which is a 50th Anniversary event for the North Campus. The cost is $40 per person. These tickets are available to members of the college community who are interested in purchasing them. Phi Theta Kappa Goes To Washington

Phi Theta Kappa's Central campus chapter, Delta Omicron, sent 25 students and their sponsor, Allen Hamlin, to the PTK national convention at Washington, D.C. March 21-25.

The PBJC chapter spent a lot of time campaigning for member Karmann Wattenbarger who was running for the national office of Southern Region Vice President. Even though Karmann did not win, her campaign helped to unify the chapter and made most of the over 1500 convention goers aware of her, of Delta Omicron, and of Palm Beach Junior College.

Among the highlights of the convention were the following guest speakers: Arkady Shevchenko, the highest Soviet official to defect to the West; James L. McCullough,Jr., Director of the Office of East Asian Analysis for the CIA; Sarah McClendon, Washington, D.C. journalist; Roger B. Porter, Director of the White House Office of Policy Development.

Besides the convention business of selecting next year's national officers, time was set aside for touring D.C. at will, and a spectacular night-time tour of the city was held Friday night.

The closing Awards Banquet (Saturday night) was highlighted for the PBJC Central chapter when Delta Omicron was presented an Award of Excellence from the national office for "an exemplary contribution to the overall excellence and standards of Phi Theta Kappa." Florida did very well bringing back to the "Sunshine State" an additional 15 awards consisting of both individual and chapter recognitions.

The only casualty of the trip was the airline's loss of the chapter's yearbook which has so far disappeared into the apparently "unfriendly skies." ...Allen Hamlin

Nursing Career Day

A career Day for Nurses will be held Thursday, April 19 from 12:30-4 p.m. in the Foodservice Center at PBJC Central.

All of the area hospitals have been invited to participate, as well as some out-of-district and out-of-state health agencies, according to Betty Morgan, Nursing chairperson.

Both sophomore and freshmen nursing students are invited to talk to the representatives and learn about employment opportunities at the different health organizations.

Final Luncheon

The last Tuesday luncheon of this season will be offered April 17 in the Foodservice Dining Room. The menu features the following: Chicken Broth/Parsley Dumplings, Blanquette of Veal a l'Ancienne, Potato Saute, Coquilles St. Jacques Moray, Potato Olivette, Green Bean Amandine, Mikado Salad and rye/whole wheat rolls. Desserts and beverages are also available. Tickets can be purchased in the bookstore at PBJC Central for $4.50 each.

Graduation Program Set

The 1984 May graduation will feature a special program highlighting PBJC's 50 years as told by students who attended the college at each of its four locations.

"Our objective is to present the college history from the point of view of former students," said Dean Paul Glynn, advisor to the Alumni Association, which is sponsoring the program.

"(The speakers) will elaborate on their experiences while attending PBJC," he said.

The featured alumni include: Ida May Smith, a retired teacher from the Palm Beach County School Board, who will cover the Palm Beach High School years; Dr. Warren Tatoul, a clinical psychologist, who will speak about the Morrison Field years; Tom Mills, superintendent of schools, who will discuss the college at Lake Park Town Hall; and Lake "Pud" Lytal, an attorney who will focus on the Lake Worth years.

In addition, Dean Glynn will give the introduction, and Dr. Eissey will present a summation.

The Commencement exercises will be held Tuesday, May 8 at 8 p.m. at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton on 45th Street in West Palm Beach .

No Tip For The President

Dr. Eissey waited on tables at the Foodservice Center Monday night in the latest of his workdays, and discovered that a restaurant kitchen has more organization and specialization than you might think.

"They had somebody specializing in salads," he said, "and another in pastries, another in sauces, and somebody else doing nothing but washing dishes.

"Then they had an overall manager--who was like the conductor of an orchestra, and tells everybody else what to do."

Dr. Eissey found out some things about people.

"I had one table where everybody was so happy and jovial that whatever you did would have been all right. Another table was pleased, but picky--you had to keep doing special things to keep them happy."

He said he learned that you serve food from the left, but liquids from the right of the diner, that waiting takes a lot of patience, and a lot of timing if you want to get hot food back to your customers while it is still hot.

Both his secretaries were there with their husbands, and enjoyed getting waited on by the boss.

"I guess I did okay," Dr. Eissey said. "I didn't spill anything on anybody, and the department chairman said I got an A.

"But I didn't get a single tip."

the other teams do in the remaining games.

The State Baseball Tourney will be held May 4 in Winter Haven.

The men's golf team finished second in the Harder Hall Invitational last week in Sebring, and is now preparing for the state tournament to be held in May.

International Festival '84

The Center for Multicultural Affairs at Palm Beach Junior College will host the Third Annual International Festival of Palm Beach County Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 4-6 at the Central campus.

The event will feature foods, entertainment, and arts and crafts from over 21 different ethnic groups in the community. One of the new additions is a representative of the Appalachian community, who will demonstrate how a Dulcimer (musical instrument) is made and played. He will also have a number of the instruments for sale.

"We'll finish the festival on Sunday with a Big Band Concert and dancing with the WDBF-Vic Knight Big Band, featuring Ginny Stephens," said coordinator John Townsend.

Entertainment and arts and crafts will be in the gym, while foods will be served in the cafeteria.

"We will once again have the Passofino and Arabian horses that will perform on the lawn just south of the cafeteria," he said.

Festival hours will be: Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Sunday noon to 9 p.m. Admission is free.

For more information, contact John Townsend at 8011.

Two Unsung Heroes

If the Monday Report had an Unsung Hero Award, we would have two nominees for this week, both equally deserving.

One would go to Sunny Meyer, whose Children's Theatre project, now in its fifth year, keeps getting bigger and better all the time.

This year, there were 10 schools and about 2,000 children involved, and if you don't think those munchkins were having a good time on their trip to PBJC and their experience with live theater, you must not have been close to the auditorium last week.

Sunny tells us there were five more schools who wanted to come this year, but she could not accommodate them because of scheduling difficulties. Here is a major program going on, growing bigger each year, and we bet half of you didn't know why those school buses were parked in the parking lot.

The other award of this week would go to Mary Cannon for the Health Fair, now in its fourth year, and likewise growing bigger and better each year. It's too early to get participation figures from Mary, but from the look of the cafeteria both Wednesday and Thursday, we set some kind of record.

The Health Fair got lots of coverage this year, so there is a better chance you knew about it. If you get a chance this week, tell Sunny and Mary how much you appreciate their efforts.

Management Retirees Honored

Buck Rader, Fred Holling and Sam Bottosto were honored at an informal dinner Tuesday at the Foodservice Center by the Administrative/Managerial staff.

Each retiree was given a remembrance book and a key chain with dates of service. Dr. Bottosto came to the college in 1960, the other two in 1961.

The faculty retirees luncheon is going to be a bit different this year. More about that in a future issue.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 26 April 23, 1984

25 Years AT PBJC

Dr. Graham To Be Honored Friday Evening

The retirement dinner honoring Dr. Paul W. Graham Friday evening at MacArthur's Vineyard, Holiday Inn, PGA Blvd., will be an outward symbol of the passing of an era in academic affairs at PBJC.

The era really began in 1965, when Dr. Graham was named Dean of Instruction, then the highest ranking academic office at the college, but it had been preceded by six years of seasoning as Director of the Evening Division. He will have completed 25 years at PBJC when he retires June 30.

From 1965 until now, Dr. Graham has carried the chief academic responsibilities of the college, with a couple of new titles on the way: Dean of Academic Affairs in 1971 and Vice President of Academic Affairs in 1975.

In that time, the college has preserved and extended its reputation for the soundness and strength of its academic programs.

Working directly with two presidents, Dr. Harold C. Manor and Dr. Edward M. Eissey, Dr. Graham has guided the continuation and strengthening of university parallel programs, the development of many occupational programs, and, in recent years, the rapid expansion of continuing education.

Dr. Manor has developed the program for the dinner honoring Dr. Graham, and Dr. Eissey will take part in it, along with many others from the college and the community. The program will start at 7 p.m., preceded by a reception at 6 p.m.

Dr. Graham has no particular plans for retirement. He will continue to live in the area, and his work in his church, the Rotary Club and Boy Scouts would be enough to keep him busy even if he did not have his hobbies--ceramics, copper tooling, enameling, and latch hooking.

PBJC South Holds Annual Awards Banquet

More than 40 awards to Palm Beach Junior College South students were made Tuesday evening at the Ninth Annual Awards Banquet of the Student Advisory Board, held this year at the Boca Raton Country Club.

The awards ranged from certificates and trophies to scholarships valued as high as $1,800.

A number of outstanding students received multiple honors, including Cathy Coughanour, Concepcion Gonzalez, Karen Schauer and Linda Stoker Dodson.

Brief remarks from Dr. Eissey, Dr. Dyer, John Jenkins, (appearing for Student Affairs for Dr. Haynes, who could not be present), and Cathy Coughanour as president of the PBJC South SGA, preceded the wards presentations.

The student organizational award was presented by Dr. Harris McGirt to Phi Theta Kappa.

South Dean of Instruction, Jim Tanner, was master of ceremonies.

Articulation Agreement Approved

An agreement which will allow superior students to move more rapidly through the public education system of the county from high school through college was approved Wednesday by the Palm Beach Junior College Board of Trustees.

Search Begins For Dean of Instruction

The screening/interview committee for the position of Dean of Instruction on the Central campus has begun its work. The cut-off date for applications was March 29. The committee has met and outlined its work plan.

Membership on the committee: Bob Book, Engineering; Celeste Beck, Department Chair; Melvin Haynes, Vice President, Student Affairs; John Platt, Communications; Sarah Pappas, Dean of Instruction, North; Joseph Schneider, Director, Personnel; James Tanner, Dean of Instruction, South; Tony Tate, Vice President, Business Affairs; Patricia Dyer, Vice President-Elect, Academic Affairs (Chair).

With luck and hard work, the process will be complete by mid-June with finalists selected at that time.

Health Fair

A sincere thanks to employees from various departments and students who volunteered their time to help out at the North, Central and Glades campuses during National Health Fair Week.

With the help of the Black Student Union, paramedics, EMT students, The Beachcomber, volunteers from local communities, various health agencies, the Palm Beach County Health Department, Theresa Robertson, Max Faquir and a number of others, we were able to screen a total of 747 persons at the following locations: PBJC Central - 339; PBJC North - 323; PBJC Glades -85.

We could have served an even greater number of persons if we had more volunteer helpers. In looking to the future Health Fairs, we solicit the assistance of clubs and organizations throughout the campus in providing willing workers. Let's make PBJC the most health conscious college in the state.

A very, very special thanks goes to John Jenkins, Ronald Long, Freddie Harrell and Maritza Navarro for helping to coordinate the Health Fair at their campus. We are very appreciative to David Guender for letting us use the cafeteria for such a vital function. It should be noted that this was our first time participating in National Health Fair Week. ...Mary Cannon

The "Articulation Agreement" sets up a 14-person committee, six from Palm Beach County Schools, five from PBJC, and three from Florida Atlantic University to "provide effective articulation for all programs and services."

One of the immediate goals of the committee, beginning in the 1984-85 school year, will be the establishment of college-level courses in the high schools of the county for selected high school students.

Course credit earned by the students will be counted as college-level credit and may also be used to meet high school academic unit credit.

Similar courses have already been held by PBJC at Forest Hill High School, but the new agreement sets up a method by which all three institutions can develop and monitor such courses throughout the county.

Another immediate goal of the committee will be to allow qualified PBJC students to participate in upper-division courses at FAU in the same way that students at a four-year institution can register for lower and upper division courses simultaneously.

In other actions the PBJC trustees awarded the travel section of a month-long program in International Business in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland this summer to Burdines Travel Bureau at a unit cost of $2,378.

In a move described by Dr. Eissey as part of the planned change to a Divisional structure, the board changed Celeste Beck's title from Chairperson, Health and Home Economics Department to Chairperson, Education and Social Science.

Career Fair At PBJC North

A Career Exploration Fair will be held at PBJC North Friday, May 4 from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Classroom Building at the PGA Blvd. campus.

The event will be a joint effort between PBJC North and the Chambers of Commerce of Northern Palm Beach County, Palm Beach Gardens and Jupiter-Tequesta.

Juniors and seniors of public and private high schools, as well as junior college students and the general public, will have an opportunity to meet with north county employers in a wide variety of occupations.

Employers will provide information about their companies, and some may be seeking part-time or full-time help.

For more information, contact Frank Mossadeghi at PBJC North, 622-2440.

On The Road Again

If you are driving along Interstate 95, and a huge, green chromed brontosaurus of an automobile lumbers past you, it was probably Terry Shoultes on his way to another speaking engagement. Our Coordinator of Instructional Computer Programs has been logging a lot of miles on his ancient Buick lately, and if you have found it difficult to reach him in his office recently, here are a few of the reasons why.

During the past three weeks, Terry has been a guest speaker at Forest Hill High School and Twin Lakes High School on the topic of data processing career opportunities. He was the guest of WJNO's Mike Levine, discussing the topic of Personal Computers. Two weeks ago, he accompanied four PBJC students to Brevard Community College in Melbourne to compete in the first statewide Junior College Programming Contest.

In addition to these special events, he is presently holding Occupational Computer Literacy classes for the Nursing and Physical Education Departments at Central campus, and a class for faculty and staff at the North campus, along with two Introduction to Computer classes. He also serves as Instructional Computing Committee Chairman for the Southeast Florida Educational Consortium, and is a past-president of the Florida Association of Educational Data Systems.

In his spare time, Terry is a Cub Scout Webelos Leader and a boys baseball coach near his home in Jupiter.

Dr. Graham (cont'd from P 1)

He and his wife Elizabeth plan to do some traveling, limited somewhat by their determination to continue to assist in the care of their handicapped grandson.

Dr. Graham says his 33-year career in education has been interesting and challenging, but that his memories are primarily of the friendships he has made at PBJC.

"The faculty has always been wonderful to me, and I will miss my contacts with them and with the department chairpersons," Dr. Graham said.

"It has been heartwarming just to walk across campus in recent months," he said. "The private expressions of friendship I have received as it became known that I plan to retire will stay with me a long time."

Dr. Patricia Dyer has been named Vice President-Elect of Academic Affairs, and has been working with Dr. Graham since January to assure a smooth transition into a new era on July 1.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 27 April 30, 1984

Retirement Luncheon Different This Year

Round Up In The Park Scheduled Thursday

The retirement luncheon for faculty and administration heretofore a mild little affair usually staged in the cafeteria, is heading for the great outdoors Thursday, for what has been billed as the "50th Anniversary Round-Up," one of the last events celebrating our Golden Anniversary.

The Round Up will begin about 11 a.m. at Mound Circle Picnic Area in John Prince Park, and is expected to continue until about 1:30 p.m.

Immediately following, beginning around 2 p.m., at the same location, faculty and administrators will have a term-ending general meeting, with some important information about the state of the college coming from vice-presidents, provosts, and others.

The career employees retirement luncheon is in July, and an information component may be on that program as well.

Six retirees will be honored at the Round Up--Dr. Samuel S. Bottosto, Paul W. Butler, Jean A. Coffin, Dr. Paul W. Graham, Fred G. Holling, Jr., and Jennings B. Rader.

When you go to the park, you expect chicken, or ribs, or both. We will have both. Plus baked beans, cole slaw, corn on the cob, and potato salad.

The entire meal will be catered, and we hear the outfit has a great cook.

Dress, of course, will be casual.

There will be a surprise 50th Anniversary memento for all attending.

Mound Circle Picnic Area is just across the canal from our athletic fields, but "you can't hardly get there from here."

You must first get onto the park road system from any of the entrances off Lake Worth Road, Congress, or Sixth Avenue South, and then proceed to a

Three Trips To The Nationals

The PBJC men's and women's tennis teams and the softball team will all compete in National Junior College Championship tournaments next month after strong performances in state tournament play.

The men's and women's tennis teams, which both finished first in the state, will travel to Ocala May 14-16 (women) and May 21-26 (men) for the national championships.

Last year, the Pacer net women placed second nationally, just behind Tyler (Texas) Community College.

As the Monday Report told you a couple of weeks ago, the International Festival will be here on PBJC Central campus May 4-6, and it is going to be bigger and better than ever before this year. You want to be here.

Food, entertainment, arts and crafts from all over the world--21 different countries--will be available in the cafeteria and the gym.

This is a tremendous selection--from the dulcimer to bag pipes, from choral groups to the WDBF Big Band in music--dancers from 11 different cultures, all the way from Israeli to American Indian--a film from China, "Bubbling Springs," showing family life in China today--Passofino and Arabian horses--and food from practically everywhere.

You will want to come. Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sunday noon to 9 p.m. See page 3 for schedule of events.

More Roasting Than Toasting At Jonathan's Landing

There was a lot more roasting than toasting going on last Tuesday night at Jonathan's Landing, when Dr. Eissey's friends ganged up on him with plain and fancy insults covering just about everything in his life.

The Roast/Toast followed a golf tournament held at Jonathan's Landing during the day, and both events were great successes, according to Dr. Ottis Smith, Provost of PBJC North. North hosted the Golden Anniversary events.

The Rev. John Frerking of Faith Lutheran Church was one of the chief roasters. "He must have come up with a hundred or more one-liners," Dr. Eissey said.

Samples: "If Ed had his whole life to live over again, he'd still fall in love with himself."

"My Bible says it was a miracle when an ass spoke, but when you listen to Ed, you know how much times have changed."

Kathy Aiello told about how Ed had been bragging to a coed that he had the body of a 20-year old. "Give it back, you're getting it wrinkled," the young woman replied, according to Kathy.

Bobby Riggs, principal of Forest Hill High School and Ed's friend since boyhood, told a number of stories about how popular Ed was in athletics, particularly if you could get him to play for your opponent.

Even Dr. Eissey's family joined in the fun, with brother Tommy putting on a skit in which he pretended to be the president.

For Dr. Phil Lichtblau, trustees chairman, who likes nothing more than to get into an insulting match with Ed on almost any occasion, Tuesday night was a real fun time.

"We can say all the nasty things we want to about this guy, and we don't have to make anything up," Dr. Lichtblau said.

The next morning, Dr. Eissey was beaming.

"Can't remember when I had so much fun," he said.

The Lady Pacers softball team won third place in the state tournament held Apr. 21-22 in Lakeland. With a 31-6 record against junior colleges and a 17-4 record against senior colleges, Coach John Anderson is confident the women will do well in the national tourney to be held May 7-9 at Wallace Junior College in Huntsville, Ala.

His team finished fifth in the nation in 1983.

Other PBJC teams are now preparing for state championship contests.

The Pacer baseball squad clinched the Southern Conference title Apr. 25 when Indian River Community College lost its game with Miami Dade South. Both PBJC and IRCC will represent the Southern Division in the state tourney to be held May 4-6 in Winter Haven.

The Pacers finished their regular season with an 18-6 record in conference play, and a 40-16 overall record.

The men's golf team finished second in the Southern Division, just two strokes behind Edison Community College. The golfers are now preparing for the state tourney to be held May 8-10 in Sebring.

LATE PERSONAL We are sorry to report that Jim Houser suffered a mild heart attack Apr. [illegible] and is in Good Sam, room 447. According to our latest information, Jim is in satisfactory condition and resting comfortably. He is able to receive visitors, and would welcome cards.

Faculty, Department, Division Chairs Please Note

An Important Notice About Maintenance Of Standards

According to the Collective Bargaining Agreement each full time faculty member, including librarians and counselors, is obligated to complete six semester hours or ten Continuing Education Units (C.E.U.'s), which is equivalent to 100 clock hours, of instruction each five (5) years. Department and Division Chairs have the same obligation according to the Administrative Handbook.

Those faculty and department or division chairs who had their teaching certificates extended prior to July 1, 1979 can meet the maintenance of professional standards requirements at the expiration of their teaching certificate or at the end of their fifth year of continuous employment, whichever is later.

Advance approval of such course work is required. Two forms have been prepared for such advance approval which have recently been printed in duplicate and are now available for use. One of the two forms is designed for approval of credit course work and the other is designed for approval of CEU's.

Please complete copies of such forms before enrolling in courses in the future. Forms will be available shortly through Department Heads and are immediately available in the Personnel Office.

Alumni To Participate

Graduation Set For Tomorrow Evening

About 675 graduating sophomores will receive associate in science and associate in arts degrees tomorrow at 8 p.m. during the Spring Commencement Exercises at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton in West Palm Beach.

Wild Rumors --Tame Facts

Some of the rumors flying around the college early last week about Dr. Eissey were pretty wild. We are happy to be able to report that all those rumors that had the president seriously ill were nothing more than rumors.

Dr. Eissey did check into Good Samaritan Sunday, more for a check-up than anything else, mostly because of an unexplained tingling in one leg.

"I never had so many tests," he told us Wednesday. "They did two of those overall scans--one without dye, and one with dye all inside me.

"They put 34 electrodes on my head, and when they finished the test they told me they couldn't find anything there! Dr. Lichtblau was standing by, and he said he could have told them that before they took the test!"

Dr. Eissey said the doctor who gave him the test results said he would be happy to have arteries as clear of cholesterol, and he was only 34 years old.

"He could tell that I don't smoke, and that I keep up my exercise, just by looking at the chart," Dr. Eissey said.

This is the beginning of the modified work week, and the Monday Report deadline is now Wednesday, 2 p.m.

Although the number of total graduates is about as many as last Spring, there do seem to be more "unusual" students this year.

Among the Class of '84 are a married couple, a blind black man, and at least four pairs of sisters, including Judy and Laurie Graham, daughters of Registrar Charles Graham.

Also among the graduating sophomores are 27 students who will receive various scholarships, according to Hamid Faquir, director of Financial Aid.

The program during the ceremony will be a departure from tradition. Instead of a single speaker, the Alumni Association will present a special program to commemorate the college's Golden Anniversary.

Four alumni who each attended PBJC at a different location will reminisce about their college days.

Participants include Ida May Smith, a retired Palm Beach County school teacher who attended PBJC at Palm Beach High School; Dr. Warren Tatoul, a Ft. Lauderdale clinical psychologist who went to PBJC at Morrison Field; Tom Mills, superintendent of the county school system, who studied at PBJC when it was housed in the Lake Park Town Hall, and Lake "Pud" Lytal, Jr., an attorney and graduate of PBJC in Lake Worth.

The presentation was coordinated by Dean Paul J. Glynn, advisor to the Alumni Association.

International Business Tour Offered In July

Business students with an interest in the British Isles can combine visits to 18 businesses with a super sight-seeing trip and earn six hours of PBJC college credit this summer.

For the third straight year, Noel Smith at PBJC South is organizing a tour to England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. This is the most ambitious plan to date, covering almost a month, from July 4 to August 1.

The tour is unique because of the arrangements Noel has been able to make with many important businesses and organizations for conferences and tours that would not be available at any cost to the ordinary tourist.

Visits are planned to the London Stock Exchange, the Bank of England, Harrods Department Stores, Pringles Tweed Mills, Greenock Ship Building Center, Dunquin Pottery Factory, Macroom Weavers, a Welsh Coal Mine, and 11 other varied centers of interest.

In addition to the international business visits, the participant will see many sights of cultural, historic and economic interest--the Tower of London, Parliament, Big Ben, Picadilly Circus, Edinburgh Castle, the Ring of Kerry, the Lakes of Killarney, Loch Ness, the Blarney Stone and much more.

Accommodations are Superior Tourist class, and meals include a continental breakfast and a three course dinner daily. The tour price is $2,438. The courses are ECO 2001 and MAR 2955. A brochure has been prepared, and Noel will be happy to send one to you.

In The Library

Our accountability study has been prepared, approved and sent to Tallahassee. The complete document is an impressive book, and can be examined at any PBJC Library.

At the PBJC Central Library, there will be a file of the LEGISLATIVE REPORT. This is a weekly digest of action on all bills about education in both the House and Senate. If you learn the number of a bill you are interested in, it is a simple matter to follow its progress through the legislature, week by week.

Already this year there are approximately 275 bills filed dealing with education. The LEGISLATIVE REPORT is the best organized digest of this material we know anything about.

Dr. Paul W. Graham will be acting as department chairperson in the Business Department for the Spring Term. Freddie Jefferson will be division chairperson for both divisions at PBJC North in the Spring Term. Other chairpersons remain the same as in the Winter Term.

The Fitness Center will be open until 5:30 p.m. during the Spring Term.

An English lord once wrote that, "The advantage of leisure is that we may have the power of choosing our own work, not certainly, that it confers any privilege of idleness."

Your stupendous gifts will afford me the very advantages of which he spoke: I can select and reflect whatever TV programs intrigue me, I can reflect upon the kind words of my friends' letters, I can have visual proof of my leisure pursuits through photographs of my choosing, and I have solid and everlasting proof of your affection for me in the wonderfully wrought ring set with a stone which reflects for me the joy which you have given me in our association.

Many of you spent endless hours making arrangements for the retirement dinner. Your expressions of love and respect for me for all 25 years are appreciated. ...Paul W. Graham

Dr. Graham Recognized At Dinner

Dr. Paul W. Graham was honored at a retirement dinner tendered by his friends and colleagues on April 27 at MacArthur's Vineyard.

Dr. Graham's accomplishments during 25 years of service to Palm Beach Junior College were manifested in the numerous tributes received. Watson Duncan, III presided as master of ceremonies. He introduced the members of the Board of Trustees present, and recognized those gathered to honor Dr. Graham with encomiums. These came from community associates, academia and personal friends. The Gulfstream Council of the Boy Scouts of America presented their Pathfinder award for leadership in Eagle scouting, the Palm Beach County Police Chiefs recognized his support of the law enforcement programs instituted at the college, and the Atlantic Dental Research Clinic attested to his support of the dental services program at the college. The Scottish Rite Masonic Lodge recognized Dr. Graham's lifelong dedication to youth and to excellence in education, while Florida Atlantic University presented its highest award for distinguished service to education.

Nearly 200 guests enjoyed refreshments poolside at the Holiday Inn before joining Dr. Graham and Elizabeth at dinner. They were seated at the head table along with the college president and Mrs. Edward M. Eissey; the Rev. Mr. Pat McCurdy and Mrs. McCurdy, the Grahams' pastor; and Watson Duncan, III and Mrs. Duncan.

In recognition of his personal attributes and of his years of service to the college, to the community, and to educational excellence state-wide, Dr. Graham's friends and associates presented him with a college ring bearing the dates of his tenure and set with a diamond, a cabinet TV, a "talking" camera, and a book of letters of personal commendation.

Other tributes were bestowed by the city of Lake Worth, the Lake Worth Rotary Club, the Area Vocational Technical Education Council, Phi Theta Kappa, American Institute of Banking, Palm Beach Chapter, the Palm Beach Junior College Institute of Governments, and the Florida Association of Community Colleges.

Dr. Graham will be officially retired June 30, 1984. ...Benjamin S.Roberts

Collective Bargaining Begins

A list of 26 proposed contract changes was presented to Palm Beach Junior College by the United Faculty of PBJC at the initial bargaining session for a 1984-85 contract Tuesday afternoon.

Some of the changes were editorial only, but others, including a 10 percent across the board salary increase, would carry a stiff price tag.

A response to some of the items is expected at the second meeting, scheduled for May 15, 3 p.m., in the Parks and Recreation Building in John Prince Park.

The president checked out of the hospital Tuesday morning and was back into the office Tuesday afternoon. He has been told to slow down for a bit, but there are no signs of his complying with that advice.

So far as we can tell, slowing down and Dr. Eissey are mutually incompatible concepts.

Dr. Eissey will host a reception for the graduates tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Fronton.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 29 May 14, 1984

Baseball--State; Softball--National

Pacers Come Home With Championships

Last week was, without a doubt, the greatest week in the sports history of Palm Beach Junior College. First, on Tuesday, came word that the baseball Pacers had won the state tournament and were the Florida champs. The very next day came word that John Anderson and his Lady Pacers softball team were the NATIONAL champions.

On top of that, the Pacer golf team was scoring well at the state tournament at Sebring and moved from third to second place on Thursday morning, with a good chance of qualifying for the nationals.

Meanwhile, the two tennis teams are waiting their chance at the nationals, and are expected to do well.

The baseball Pacers have managed a 44-17 season playing what may be the toughest schedule of any community college in the nation, with many games against university teams. They won their division championship, but were in a slump at the end of the season.

At the state tournament in Winter Haven, they got back on the winning track, and by Wednesday, were the only undefeated team when they played Gulf Coast.

But Gulf Coast got good pitching, and the Pacers scattered eight hits and scored no runs for their first tournament defeat, 6-0.

In the second game, however, Scott Berry, a relief pitcher all year, went nine innings and pitched a six-hit ball game, while Allen Swabek went 3 for 4, including a homer and bases loaded double, and the Pacers won 8-3.

Wednesday afternoon the Pacers came home to a small but enthusiastic welcome, posed with a huge state championship trophy, and went home to rest for a couple of days until Coach Frank Cacciatore can get a couple of games lined up between now and May 18, when they will begin the Regionals in Jacksonville.

Trustees Face Important Agenda

The agenda for the regular meeting of the Palm Beach Junior College trustees, Wednesday, May 16, 7:30 p.m. in Conference C at PBJC Central, is filled with items of importance to the college as a whole--but particularly to PBJC South.

The trustees are expected to name a Provost for PBJC South, a position that has been vacant since Dr. Patricia Dyer was named Vice President-Elect for Academic Affairs in January.

They will also be asked to approve a master plan for the campus of PBJC South on the site already occupied with relocatable buildings at Florida Atlantic University.

Trustees will also be asked to approve the college budget for 1984-85, and a revised statement of the college mission--both items of great importance to the college as a whole.

Winners and runner-ups in the recently completed high school brain bowl will be presented to the board by Dr. Melvin Haynes, Vice President of Student Affairs. Brain bowl winners have been offered scholarships at PBJC.

Another item of importance to the college as a whole is a plan proposed by Board Chairman Dr. Philip Lichtblau, for the college to be represented on a continuing basis by one of our trustees at each meeting of the State Board of Community Colleges.

The college rule regarding student refunds has been simplified, and will be presented to the board for approval.

Nurses Graduate At Pinning Ceremony

The largest class of nurses in the history of Palm Beach Junior College was graduated at a pinning ceremony May 5 at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton.

According to Betty Morgan, nursing department chairperson, 154 new nurses participated in the ceremony, although 19 of them will complete their studies late.

"The students planned the ceremony, as they usually do, and needed a place that would be large enough to hold all the people they'd invited," she said when asked why the ceremony was held at the Fronton. "We had 1500 guests."

Among the class of 1984 were a husband-wife team, two pairs of sisters, and two sisters of former graduates. The students ranged in age from 20 to 52, with 18 over 40. Geographically, the class included residents from Hobe Sound to Ft. Lauderdale.

The guest speaker was Virginia Haggerty, executive director of the Florida Nurses Association and a well-known nursing educator. Dr. Eissey also spoke to the group.

"We graduated our first class (of nurses) in 1961," Ms. Morgan said. "Since then, we've graduated over 1200 nurses."

NEH Fellowship

The National Endowment for the Humanities is calling for applications for fellowships for college teachers of the humanities, which they define as history, philosophy, languages, linguistics, literature, archaeology, jurisprudence, the history, theory, and criticism of the arts, ethics, comparative religion, and those aspects of the social sciences that employ historical or philosophical approaches.

These fellowships provide opportunities for college teachers to pursue independent study and research that will enchance their capacities as teachers, scholars, or interpreters of the humanities and that will enable them to make significant contributions to thought and knowledge in the humanities. This program is designed to support both beginning and experienced scholars and teachers. These fellowships are intended for teachers whose day-to-day responsibilities lie in the teaching of undergraduate students, particularly in two-year, four-year and five-year colleges and in universities that do not have Ph.D. programs. ... PBJC North Career Fair

About 650 students from Northern Palm Beach County high schools and 41 area employers were guests at a Career Exploration Fair held May 4 at PBJC North.

The successful program matched students from Suncoast, Palm Beach Gardens, Northshore, Jupiter and other high schools with companies such as Pratt and Whitney, Florida Power and Light, Port of Palm Beach, PGA Sheraton Resort, Sarah Parker Modeling Agency, and Marian Lewis Real Estate.

It was a joint effort between PBJC North and the Chambers of Commerce of Northern Palm Beach County, Palm Beach Gardens, and Jupiter-Tequesta.

"We had more students and employers this year," said Dr. Sarah Pappas, dean of instruction. "Last year, we had 400 students and 25 employers."

Each student and employer who participated this year will be sent a questionnaire to survey the value of the program and suggestions for improvement.

"A special thanks should go to Frank Mossadeghi for working especially hard on the program," Dr. Pappas said.

"The Way It Was"

Tuition for Palm Beach Junior College was $50 per semester in the 1930's. Students regularly held impromptu beach parties at Singer Island in the 1940's. PBJC's chemistry lab in the early 1950's was the Lake Park Town Jail. And young men at the newly built PBJC campus way out west of Lake Worth got their kicks between classes by hunting doves in the wild palmetto brush across Congress Avenue.

These were just a few of the interesting anecdotes graduates heard at the commencement ceremony held last Tuesday evening at the Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton.

Instead of the traditional commencement speaker, the Alumni Association presented an overview of "the way it was" at each of PBJC's four locations.

Ida May Smith, a retired Palm Beach County schoolteacher, remembered babysitting for 50 cents an evening to help defray the $50 cost for tuition and $2 cost for books in 1937.

Dr. Warren Tatoul, a Ft. Lauderdale clinical psychologist, recalled how Singer Island was nothing but sea oats and sand dunes, and that a beachfront lot cost $500.

Superintendent Thomas Mills had nothing but praise for the teachers he knew at PBJC when it was located at Lake Park Town Hall.

"The best teachers I've ever had, in 18 years of education, were those at Palm Beach Junior College," he said. "And the best teacher of them all was Watson B. Duncan."

Lake Lytal, Jr., a local attorney, said he was a bit envious when he heard the others before him talk about the glittering social life at PBJC.

"When (the present) Central campus was first built, it was out in the sticks. There was nothing else around to keep students occupied between classes and after hours."

He said while the young men hunted doves, the young ladies went to the gymnasium to watch a young, good looking physical education teacher named Tony Tate in his gym shorts.

After the look at the past, Dr. Eissey focused on the future of each of PBJC's campuses, and the college in general.

The Pacers will play the loser of the first game at the three-team Regionals, and then will play the winner of the first game on that same day. All three teams will play a double header on May 18, and then will complete the tournament on May 19.

The Lady Pacers also had a terrific season, but had been disappointed at the state tournament where they lost twice to Pensacola, and finished third.

But John Anderson believed they were his best team ever, and asked for backing to send the team to the nationals. The administration backed the team, and our first National Championship in softball is the result.

At Hanceville, Alabama, the Lady Pacers again met Pensacola, but this time won a thriller, 1-0. After that, there was no stopping them.

They went on to defeat Lake City 6-4 and Florida Junior College 5-2 in the finals.

Linda Bouton and Tammy Steppens were named to the All-Tournament Team, but they would be the first to tell you that it was a team victory all the way.

"This is the best team I've ever coached," said John Anderson.

"This is a storybook ending," said Tom Mullins. "We beat all three Florida teams in the tournament."

Congratulations to our Dental Hygiene graduates! According to Dr. James Flatley, 100 percent of all the graduates have passed the National Board Examination.

According to the April issue of Dental Laboratory News, PBJC alumnus Bernard J. Jaroslow has been appointed manager of educational services at the dental division of the J.M. Ney Company.

Congratulations to Dr. Tony Tate who has been named to the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities Junior/Community College Committee for 1984/85 to work with professional development and program topics for the annual meeting.

Personals (cont'd)

We are happy to report that the daughter of Dr. James Smythe, Rebecca, and the daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Toomath, Lorraine, were among this year's Dental Hygiene graduates. Both Dr. Smythe and Mrs. Toomath are members of the Dental Hygiene faculty.

International Festival

The Center for Multicultural Affairs, PBJC's mini-United Nations, staged its fourth International Festival May 4-6, and it was even more successful than in 1983, according to John Townsend, coordinator.

"Although it's hard to get an actual count of the number of people, we do know there were about 800 to 900 cars parked from the Gym to the Auditorium all day Saturday and most of the day on Sunday and Friday," he said. "Also, every club sold out of food each day, and some went out and bought more."

But attendance isn't the only indicator of success. Townsend said much credit goes to individuals and groups within the college who helped out.

For example, a continuing education class helped stave off a potentially embarrassing situation.

"The first two acts scheduled for Friday didn't show, and we had a gym full of people getting restless," he said. "One of our karate classes was out on the lawn practicing, so we brought them in to the gym. They performed for us, and the crowd really liked it."

"I'd like to thank everyone who participated or helped in any way," Townsend said.

Plans have already been made for a fifth International Festival next year.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Budget, Scholarships, Master Plan AND---

Trustees Will Fight For Local Control

Palm Beach Junior College trustees adopted a budget, recognized some high school scholars, approved a campus master plan and decided to fight for local control at the May meeting of the board Wednesday night.

The operating budget totalled approximately $20 million, and resembled last year's. There were no salary increases in the 79.5 percent of the budget allocated to personnel costs, except for annual increments.

There were sharp reductions in capital outlay below the amounts requested by departments, and Dr. Eissey said these requests would be considered if additional money becomes available from the legislature.

The high school scholars, members of the Forest Hill High School Brain Bowl team, winners of the recent contest, were awarded two year scholarships to the college.

Scholarship awards were presented by Dr. Philip Lichtblau, board chairman, to Melissa King, Gary Lesser, Keith Roth and Kim Sussman. Coaches Bruce Miller and Mrs. Elizabeth King were also present.

The runner-up team members from Atlantic High School were awarded one-year scholarships.

The 50-acre site on the Florida Atlantic University campus at Boca Raton which will become the permanent campus of PBJC South was described by Stephen Fichet of Marion, Paluga and Associates as "a long, skinny noodle of a site."

Fichet said the master plan for the South campus was also strongly influenced by the fact that almost half was covered by a World War II airport runway of reinforced concrete 12 inches thick.

Pacer Teams On A Roll

When it rains, it pours.

On May 8, the Pacer baseball team won its first state championship. On May 9, the Lady Pacers softball team captured its first national title. The month before, both tennis teams became state champs.

The college was still celebrating the softball team's victorious homecoming on May 10, when Tom Mullins received word the Pacer golf team had battled from behind in the FCCAA tournament to win its first state title.

"We're definitely on a roll," said one PBJC employee at the reception for the softball team.

Despite a slow start in the first round (when the golf team shot 11-over par), the men finished the tourney four shots ahead of second place Broward CC with 1145.

In the second round, Johan Tumba and Per Segerstrom both shot 68 to help move PBJC from fifth to third place. In the third round, Segerstrom again shot 68, winning medalist honors and helping to advance the team to second place.

In the final round, David Ladd shot a 68 and Larry Holland finished with a 70 to help secure the win.

The Pacer golf men will travel June 5 to the national tournament at the Mirror Lakes Country Club in Lehigh Acres.

Groundbreaking Ceremony At PBJC North

All members of the PBJC family are invited to a groundbreaking ceremony at PBJC North for the new Burt Reynolds Student Services Center Tuesday, May 29 at 10:30 a.m. near the classroom building.

"The groundbreaking will be symbolic, as the actual site for the building will be in the south central part of the campus, just due south of the present Student Affairs building," said Dr. Ottis Smith.

"Burt Reynolds will have a representative there," Dr. Eissey said.

Other special guests will include north area mayors, local county commissioners, principals and counselors from the north area high schools, and the legislative delegation.

The program is being planned by the PBJC North Student Affairs staff.

The plan utilized the concrete for parking lots, separates vehicle traffic from pedestrian traffic, preserves existing trees and adds many more, and utilizes nine acres of the unpaved north end for playing fields.

When completed, the campus makes allowance for 4,000 full-time students, has 344,000 square feet of buildings, with 22 acres of parking for 2,000 student cars and 200 faculty and staff cars.

The buildings are two and three stories. Classroom buildings have flexible interiors, with faculty offices adjacent to classrooms. Buildings may be constructed by halves, with each side having complete facilities.

Both time and cost estimates are unavailable at this time, depending extirely on future unpredictable actions of the Florida legislature.

The board noted threats to local control of community colleges from two different sources and took action in both arenas.

Dr. Philip Lichtblau, chairman of the board, noted that the original plan for the new State Board of Community Colleges was that it would be composed of local community college trustees, but that persons with such experience are now a minority of the board.

Dr. Lichtblau read from a letter written by Robert F. Hudson, former chairman of the State Community College Coordinating Board: "If local control is the magic that has made our system outstanding as trustees claim, and if it is to continue to do so, we as trustees must put our actions where our rhetoric has been."

Hudson urged each community college board in the state to have a representative at each future meeting of the state board. The PBJC trustees agreed, and will set up a plan to send at least one member to each future meeting.

Dr. Eissey and trustee Willard Findling were concerned about Senate Bill 979, which Dr. Eissey said "would be an extreme disaster for the community colleges of Florida" if it becomes law.

The bill gives the State Board control over hiring of full-time personnel, and varying degrees of control over almost all college activities, including academics, recruiting, travel, and use of Foundation funds.

Findling pointed out that a voluminous and complicated report was required annually which must go to every student, (more than 30,000 at PBJC last year), and any other interested citizen.

Discussion indicated the board favored any action to discourage passage of this bill, now out of committee in the Senate and buried in an omnibus education bill.

Partnership Awards Dinner Set For Tuesday

The final event of our Golden Anniversary Year will be a dinner saluting the winner of the First Annual Business-Education Partnership Award, Tuesday, 6:30 p.m. at the Hyatt-Palm Beaches.

You are cordially invited to attend, but time is short, and you should drop by the Foundation office before noon, or at least telephone 8072 before noon to make your reservation. Tickets are $25.

The award winner will be one of six finalists chosen from a large number of applicants who are a part of the community of business leaders who have supported the college in its 50 years.

The six finalists are: The Breakers, Florida Power and Light, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, First American Bank and Trust Co., Bankers Land Co., and the law firm of Montgomery, Lytal, Reiter, Denney & Searcy.

"This is an outstanding group of nominees, and all are winners as far as I am concerned," said Dr. Ottis Smith, Provost of PBJC North, which is sponsoring the event.

A blue ribbon committee, with Hugo Unruh of the Palm Beach County Economic Council as chairman, has planned the award and the dinner.

An unusual event on the program at the dinner will be a preview of a documentary on PBJC's Golden Anniversary Celebration which will later be aired by Channel 12.

The 6:30 p.m. starting time for the event is for cocktails, with dinner served from 7:10 to 8:40 p.m., the documentary preview from 8:40 to 8:50, followed by the award presentation.

Collective Bargaining

The third meeting in the current round of collective bargaining between Palm Beach Junior College and the United Faculty of PBJC has been scheduled for Thursday, May 24, 3:15 p.m., at the County Parks and Recreation Building in John Prince Park.

The second meeting, Tuesday, May 15, was largely concerned with an exploration of a dental care plan.

In the two meetings so far, the union has proposed 30 changes in the current contract, which expires June 30.

Candidates Day September 24

In the advanced planning department, Ed Pugh has already scheduled the Candidates' Day for next fall. He picked the first Monday after the run-off primary, which turns out to be Monday, Sept. 24.

By that date, party nominations will be completed, so that our students will know that half of the candidates they see in social science classes will be elected officials after Nov. 6.

All nominees for county, state and national offices will be invited to appear during the first six periods of the day. Classrooms and the new student center will be used for speeches and debates. The cafeteria will be used for informal meetings and caucuses.

We have had great turnouts for these occasions since Ed and the Political Union began staging everything on one day, and we anticipate another success this fall. You will be hearing more about this as we get nearer to the date.

And speaking of good citizenship, we hope you noticed the honor to our long-time trustee and friend Dolly Hand, who was named as winner of an annual award for leadership in education by the Executive Women of the Palm Beaches.

At Monday Report press time, the Lady Pacers tennis team was tied for first place (with Tyler Texas CC) in the NCCAA tournament in Ocala.

After the first round, PBJC was one of five teams tied for first place. In the secon round, the Lady Pacers lost only two matches and advanced players in seven out of nine divisions to accrue 29 points.

Doubles finals and singles semifinals were to have been played last Thursday, with the singles' championships set for last Friday.

In other Pacer sports, the baseball team was to have traveled to Jacksonville last Friday to compete in the regional tournament, and the men's tennis team travels today to Ocala for the national tournament.

First Business/Education Award

Law Firm's Friendship To PBJC Honored

The law firm of Montgomery, Lytal, Reiter, Denney & Searcy became the first recipient of the PBJC Business and Education Community Partnership Award for its long friendship with the college.

The award was given at a banquet held last Tuesday evening at the Hyatt of the Palm Beaches, and was coordinated by Dr. Ottis Smith and his staff as part of the Golden Anniversary celebration.

"I am speechless over this honor," said Robert Montgomery, senior partner in the firm. "We will live up to our name at the college."

"And we shall have a theatre for the performing arts at Palm Beach Junior College," he added.

The award was two-fold--a plaque inscribed with the name of the winner (with space for more) to be displayed in Dr. Eissey's office, and a sculpture specifically designed to depict the winner's industry.

In Montgomery's case, the sculpture was a small set of scales of justice in 24-karat gold plate on a mahogany base.

There were five criteria used in judging: provision of employment opportunities for students, financial support to students, acting as a bank of human resources for instruction or guidance, financial support to the college, and

Tennis Women Place Second In Nation

The PBJC tennis women returned with two national singles champs and one national doubles champ after placing a close second to defending champions Tyler (Texas) Community College at the national tournament held May 14-18 in Ocala.

Individual national titles were won by Jong-rak Srieud (No. 1 singles), Lena Svensson (No. 6 singles), and Leasha Gregson and Maria Johnsson (No. 3 doubles).

In addition, PBJC had six national runners-up: Anki Holm (No. 4 singles), Libby Locke (No. 3 singles), Robyn Freil and Srieud (No. 1 doubles), and Dominque Dubuc and Holm (No. 2 doubles).

PBJC and Tyler CC entered the final day of play tied at 34 points each. Then Tyler defeated two out of the three PBJC doubles teams to edge the Pacers 38-36.

"I think we had a very successful season, and it was only somewhat marred by not finishing first (in the nation)," said Head Coach Julio Rive. "I feel this was my best team ever."

On the diamond, the Pacer baseball team finished as the Southeastern District Runners-up with a final record of 48-19.

The men played their last three games against Middle Georgia Community College, a team that has been a national contender since 1979 and has been champ three times in the last five years.

A Gift From The Lions Club

A gift from the Southside Lions Club of West Palm Beach will enable blind students at PBJC North to learn how to program a computer.

The Lions recently donated to the college a Votrax "Type and Talk" voice synthesizer, a nifty gadget that will be hooked up to a microcomputer. The synthesizer will then call out any key or word that is typed.

"This will really be a help to our blind students," said Gail Tomei, PBJC counselor of handicapped. "Before, the blind students had to have readers standing next to them at the terminal telling them when they made mistakes. This makes them more independent."

According to Darryl May, president of the Southside Lions Club in West Palm Beach, the gift is due to the initiative of a blind student at PBJC North.

"In January of this year, Rea Fetcher, a blind student at North campus, contacted us and asked us to send a volunteer to be his reader," May said. "After talking with him, I said, 'there must be a better way (to learn computer programming) and he replied, 'there is.' He told me about this equipment, and our club decided it would be a worthwhile project to sponsor."

May said the objectives of Lions International are to help the blind with vocational skills.

The unit is worth $220, and May said his club will probably donate a second one in the future. A similar voice synthesizer, which the college purchased recently with grant funds, is already in operation at PBJC Central.

Summer Program In Art

Trips to a colonial Mexican town and major cultural sites in Mexico City will highlight the 1984 Summer Program in Art sponsored by Palm Beach Junior College South.

The study tour to Mexico City and San Miguel de Allende, which will begin June 29 and conclude July 24, will include both travel and classroom instruction.

"This will be a chance for students to experience art in a historic setting," said Linda Summers, tour director.

Three weeks of the program will be spent in San Miguel de Allende. While there, students will attend classes at the Institute Nacional de Bellas Artes, the government-supported national institute of art for the country.

The rest of the trip will be spent touring sites in Mexico City. Several art schools, galleries, festivals and riding tours will be included in the itinerary.

"The course of study includes the history of Mexican art and culture and a selection of studio courses such as photography, papermaking, Mexican weaving and others," Summers said. There will also be non-credit Spanish courses, although knowledge of Spanish is not required.

Students should enroll in ARH 1955 and ARH 1956 to earn six semester credit hours. The cost of the program is $782 plus tuition, and includes round-trip airfare from Miami, hotel, breakfast, ground transportation, tours, taxes and tips.

For further information, call PBJC South at 8158. Registration deadline is June 13.

Basic Selling Skills

An overview of basic selling skills will be offered by the PBJC Continuing Education Division Saturday, June 9 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in CE 121 at Central Campus.

The seminar will provide thorough grounding in the essential skills of the sales process for newly-appointed representatives with little or no sales experience and persons thinking of starting a sales career.

For registration information, call Continuing Education at 8013.

Burt Reynolds Student Services Center

A groundbreaking for the new Burt Reynolds Student Services Center at Palm Beach Junior College North will be held Tuesday, May 29 at 10:30 a.m. at the campus on PGA Blvd.

The site for the ceremony will be near the classroom building. Special guests invited include north area mayors, local county commissioners, principals and counselors from north area high schools, and the legislative delegation.

Dr. Eissey will present the opening remarks, and Mrs. Dolly Hand, trustee, will speak on behalf of the board of trustees. Dr. Sarah Pappas, PBJC North dean of instruction, and Francis Barton, faculty member, will give the introductions.

There will be a reception immediately following the ceremony and light refreshments will be served.

advocacy on a local, state and/or national level.

The law firm qualified in all five areas. They have maintained employment of three PBJC students at all times for the last six years, and provided ongoing financial support with fund raising events and donations.

Members of the firm have served as the President of the Foundation, board of directors of the PBJC Alumni Association in an advisory capacity, and have held memberships on the President's Legislative Lobbying, 50th Anniversary Ways and Means, PBJC Foundation, Performing Arts Center, PBJC Finance, and Paralegal Advisory committees.

The firm has provided lecturers for the School of Nursing for the past 10 years.

In addition, they established a $10,000 fund to be matched with state funds for a Performing Arts Center, and are now setting up an Academic Improvement Trust Fund.

"My congratulations to Bob (Montgomery) and his partners, and to all the nominees," Dr. Eissey said. "We're extremely grateful to each and every one, and we look forward to continuing this award in the future to honor these outstanding friends of the college."

Other nominees for the award included The Banker's Land Company, The Breakers, Florida Power and Light, Pratt and Whitney, and First American Bank.

The nominating committee members were: Deborah Caldwell, WPTV Channel 5; Judy Goodman and June Aiken, WPEC-TV Channel 12; Tom Hayes, Flagler National Bank; Doug Johansen, Chamber of Commerce of the Palm Beaches; Samuel Pepper, Palm Beach Newspapers; Robert Peterson, National Teleproductions; Hugo Unruh, Palm Beach County Economic Council; and Veronica Van Allen, Northern Palm Beach County Chamber of Commerce.

Buck Kinniard of Channel 5 was the master of ceremonies. Prior to the announcement of the winner, there was a showing of a 10-minute segment of a documentary on the 50th Anniversary of PBJC produced by Channel 12.

They defeated Middle Georgia in the first game 4-3, and then lost the final two games 8-0 and 4-3. PBJC second baseman Tim Touma, and pitchers Tom Bryant and Scott Berry, were placed on the all-tournament team.

At the Monday Report deadline, the Pacer tennis men were in a three-way tie for first place with Baldwin Agricultural College (Tifton, Ga.) and Cook County Junior College (Texas) in the NCCAA tournament in Ocala. Each team had 13 points.

Three Pacers had advanced to the quarterfinals with singles victories: Phil Treen (No. 4), John Nichols (No. 5) and Peter Grondahl (No. 6).

The five-day national tournament was scheduled to conclude Saturday, May 26.

That approximately one-fourth of the students at PBJC are in vocational programs.

Canadian College President Visits

Palm Beach Junior College had the opportunity recently to host and help out a colleague from Canada.

John Townsend and Gail Tomei arranged a meeting at PBJC Central between Dr. Kenneth Ozmon, president of St. Mary's University in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Raymond Ferguson, a North Palm Beach resident, and Frank Barringham, a blind counselor with the State Social and Rehabilitative Services.

"Mr. Ferguson is one of the main benefactors of St. Mary's, and he recently donated some money to buy equipment for blind services there," Townsend said. He and Dr. Ozmon asked us to show them what PBJC has for blind students, so Gail (Tomei) arranged for Mr. Barringham to come and explain our equipment."

Some of the learning aids that were demonstrated included a closed circuit TV and camera that magnifies printed materials, a talking calculator, and a device that can record data in either English or Braille into a computer or onto an audio tape.

FACC Party

About 50 FACC members and their spouses or friends attended a get-acquainted picnic for all new FACC members on Friday, May 18 at the home of Shelley and Bob Carton.

"The party was very relaxing and enjoyable," said George Matsoukas, PBJC chapter president.

Refreshments included grilled hot dogs, potato salad, cole slaw, beans, snacks, desserts, beer and soda pop.

"There are people we would like to thank--Shelley Carton for the use of her home, Mrs. Alice Carlisle, for helping to organize the party, and Bill Graham, for running around to pick up the supplies," Matsoukas said. The next party will be in the Fall.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 32 June 4, 1984

If So, It Was No Accident

Dismal Salary Picture May Be Getting Brighter

The last two weeks in the Florida legislature have been crucial to community colleges and to all of us who are employees. As this is written, the news on salaries is better than it was two weeks ago, but it is still too early to tell how much better.

That the salary news is better is not, repeat NOT, a thing that just happened. It is the result of a lot of hard work by a lot of people. For PBJC, Pat Wilson Myers has been working in Tallahassee since the session began, and in the past two crucial weeks, Dr. Eissey has been a frequent commuter.

The active help of our local legislators is always the one essential ingredient. Nothing can be done without their assistance.

On page two and three of this Monday Report is a memo which is just one of the many steps taken during this period. It details pretty clearly what the situation was on May 22, and as you can see, it was pretty dismal.

Note the underlining we have added on page two and the circles on page three. We think it is significant that in states with 1,000 or more community college teachers, Florida ranks 16th out of 17. That does not even begin to sound like the upper quartile.

On page three, the five percent, which begins in December and January, is a pure public relations ploy to try to make two and a half percent sound like five. There is so much posturing for effect on voters these days that it is hard to tell what is really going on.

Note the 3.16%, especially. This is known as giving with one hand (the small salary raises), and taking away with another. Our current budget, which has no salary increases, requires 9.5% more funding. So we are getting 6.34% less than we need to keep even, while the claim is made that we are being given a 5% salary increase, which really amounts to a 2.5% increase.

If all that sounds confusing, don't

Free Computer Workshops Scheduled

A free computer literacy workshop worth three semester hours of college credit will be offered by PBJC North for public K-12 and junior college teachers.

The six-day workshop will be held June 18-21 and June 25-26 from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily in the Classroom Building at PBJC North.

The course will cover basic computer theory, file storage media, and input-output devices with emphasis on application to the instructional setting. Hands-on experience with Apple IIe computers will be provided. (No previous data processing experience will be necessary).

The workshop has been approved by the state for recertification credit, and by the Palm Beach County School system for in-service credit.

Even though registration will take place on the first day of class, reservations are recommended as space is limited to 30 teachers.

For reservations or more information, call Dr. Sarah Pappas at 622-2440, ext. 256.

If you are not a faculty member but would still like to learn about computers, another seminar just might be for you.

A Computer Literacy Seminar for Classified Personnel will be conducted this month by Terrell Shoultes, coordinator of instructional computer programs at Central campus.

There will be four two-hour sessions: June 12, 14, 19, and 21 from 1:30-3:30 p.m. in DP-201.

If any Classified employee would like to attend, please call Mrs. Betty Childers at ext. 8078, and she will reserve a slot for you in one of the two-hour sessions.

M E M O R A N D U M

TO: Florida Community College Presidents

FROM: Edward M. Eissey
Maxwell C. King
Robert H. McCabe

SUBJECT: ACTION IS NEEDED BY YOU CONCERNING FACULTY SALARIES

The Legislature is moving rapidly towards closure, and there has been little interest in improving salaries in community colleges. The bottom line is that as things stand now in both houses, public school faculty and staff are being budgeted for larger increases than community college faculty and staff, and, in addition, university faculty are being budgeted for higher increases in the House than community college faculty. The Governor has reaffirmed his recommendation for significant salary increases for faculty of all systems. He has stated that he will not permit the Legislature to go home without dealing with this issue.

The public school systems are well organized, and working hard for increases in their sector. If we are not aggressively active immediately, salary budgets for community colleges will be left behind the other systems. We urge that you organize an effort including contact with your local media and a campaign by your employee groups (faculty senates, etc.) in support of: 1) the Governor's recommendations on faculty salaries; and 2) inclusion of community college faculty and staff in any salary increases on an equal basis with the other sectors of education.

The following information is to assist in your effort:

1. Salary Comparative Data

   Data provided by the National Center for Educational Statistics for 1982-83 (the last data available) indicate that Florida community college faculty salaries compare less favorably with other states than do the salaries of either of the sectors of education. The average community college faculty salary in Florida (1982-83/9-month contract) was $21,044. That figure ranks 36th among the states, and 16th of the 17 states that have more than 1,000 community college faculty members, with only Mississippi rating lower.

2. Governor's Salary Recommendation (5-22) for Community Colleges

5% increase for faculty and staff
+ $9,174,375 for faculty upper quartile improvement
(approximately 6% additional)

The Governor's plan is to eliminate specific items in the House and Senate budgets (House $39.4 million, and Senate $53 million), and to provide $50 million less in working capital in order to fund the salary increases.

3. House of Representatives and Senate Salary Increase Recommendations (5-22)

	House	Senate
Public Schools	5%	5%
Universities	Faculty 5% Aug. 15 Staff 5% Sept. 1	Faculty 5% Dec. 1 Staff 5% Jan. 1
Community Colleges	Included in "price level" increases (very little)	Faculty 5% Dec. 1 Staff 5% Jan. 1

4. House of Representatives and Senate Appropriations Increases (5-22)

	House	Senate
Public Schools	9.85%	9.63% + salary increases and merit pay
Universities	7.43%(E6) + salary increases	6.41%(E6) +salary increases
Community Colleges	3.16%	6.81%

Palm Beach County public school teachers voted down a takeover bid by the American Federation of Teachers by an impressive majority last week. The vote was 2,386 to 1,432 to stay with the Classroom Teachers Association.

blame us--it is confusing, and it is meant to be.

Take a look at the figures above the 3.16%. There is no logical reason why community college increases would be so much smaller than those of other segments of public education.

Please don't jump to conclusions from the fragmentary information supplied in the press about what your salary increase might be this next year. The facts they don't print can change the picture drastically.

Don't believe anything until our Board of Trustees acts. After Dr. Eissey recommends, and the Board votes for it, then, and only then, can you count on an increase showing up in your paycheck.

A Message From Burt Reynolds

Even though the rain did not let up last Tuesday, the groundbreaking for the new Student Services Center at PBJC North was held as scheduled, but was moved to inside the Administration Building.

During the ceremony, Dr. Eissey read a message he received from Burt Reynolds by telephone on Memorial Day:

"There are no words to properly express my gratitude to President Ed Eissey and those at Palm Beach Junior College who have seen fit to honor me by giving my name to the new student center.

Please believe if I were not in the middle of a picture in California, nothing in the world could have kept me away from the groundbreaking ceremony.

There are many, many important buildings in any great institution like Palm Beach Junior College, but no building could have more meaning to me in connection with my name than the student center.

Beyond buildings and facilities, the most important ingredient, the greatest of any school, are the students who use those facilities and buildings and are enriched by them. They are the school.

I remember with great fondness the many hours I spent in the old Student Center when I was at Palm Beach Junior College, and I am so pleased, proud, and humbled to think you are honoring me in this way.

Again, please accept my apologies for not being able to say this to you in person.

I look forward with great anticipation and pride to watching the first student walk through the doors of the Burt Reynolds Student Center next year."

Other speakers included Mrs. Homer (Dolly) Hand, representing the Board of Trustees, Dr. Sarah Pappas, dean of instruction, Frank Barton, PBJC North math faculty member, Sharvell Becton, PBJC North registrar, John Jenkins, PBJC North counselor, and several representatives from student groups at the North campus.

Two And A Quarter Giant Steps

"We Shall Have A Theatre For The Performing Arts"

The dream of a world class performing arts center at Palm Beach Junior College became more than a dream last week. The project took two and a quarter giant steps toward reality in one week.

First came the startling announcement last Friday that $600,000 in planning money from the state had suddenly blossomed into $10 million for building when Senator Harry Johnston gave the project his powerful backing. One giant step.

Then, on Tuesday, the County Commission, which had already started the dream toward reality with the gift of 10.5 acres of land on the shore of Lake Osborne adjacent to the PBJC Central campus, gave enthusiastic support and promised another $10 million. Two giant steps.

Whereupon, the Palm Beach County Council of the Arts, which had previously pledged to work for $10 million from the public, announced that it already had pledges of $2.5 million. Two and a quarter giant steps.

On May 22, accepting the Business and Education Partnership Award from PBJC, Robert Montgomery predicted:" We shall have a theatre for the performing arts at Palm Beach Junior College."

Events appear to be moving swiftly to fulfill that prediction.

Montgomery is chairman of the Council of the Arts, which will manage and direct the performance aspects of the center, and will be responsible for its financial success. PBJC will have second choice use of the facility, and will be primary in the educational aspects of the center.

President's Scholars Honored At Award Ceremony

Sixty-one top local high school scholars were awarded over $60,000 in scholarship monies at the Palm Beach Junior College President's Scholars Award ceremony June 5 at PBJC Central.

The college gave full two-year scholarships to the students who graduated this year in the top five percent of their class with a 3.5 grade point average.

"You are the cream of the crop," said Dr. Eissey. "We are exceedingly delighted that you have chosen this institution, PBJC, to further your education."

The President's Scholars awards are given annually to help encourage academic talent to remain in Palm Beach County and Florida. They also provide an incentive for the students to further their intellectual growth.

The scholars represented these high schools: Atlantic, Boca Raton, Clewiston, John I. Leonard, Jupiter, Lake Worth Christian, Lake Worth Community, North Shore, Palm Beach Gardens, Santaluces, Suncoast and Twin Lakes.

Guests at the ceremony included Dr. Philip O. Lichtblau, PBJC Board of Trustees chairman, Dr. Jim Daniels, deputy superintendent of schools, several PBJC vice presidents, ounselors and student affairs personnel, counselors and principals from area high schools, and parents.

A reception followed in the SAC Lounge.

The Legislature

It is too early yet to know how the college came out financially as a result of the 1984 legislative session.

Although Pat Wilson Myers brought back with her the final versions of most of the important educational bills passed by the legislature, some of which were revised on the last day, most of the available figures are for the community college system as a whole.

How those overall community college figures will translate into funding for PBJC is not easily determined, and will not be determined for several days.

All that can be said at the moment is that the dismal figures of May 22, detailed in Dr. Eissey's memo published here on June 4, did, indeed brighten. But it is important to note that community colleges did NOT fare as well as K-12, and it is the K-12 figures that are being published in news accounts.

In the matter of the omnibus education bill--the provisions from CSSB 979 which might have resulted in a wholesale reduction of local control were amended, so that this part of the bill is essentially harmless. There are many other very important aspects to the omnibus bill which will become apparent as we continue through the year. Here, again, there must be study and interpretation at the state level before we know exactly what we will be doing in a different way.

Summer Youth Employment Program

About 120 local underprivileged youths will receive instruction in basic academic subjects and employability skills this summer due to a joint effort between Palm Beach Junior College and the Urban League of Palm Beach County.

A Summer Youth Employment Program for 14 and 15 year olds will be conducted at PBJC Central beginning Monday, June 25 and concluding Friday, Aug. 3.

"The instruction will focus on basic skills such as reading, math and communication, job skills, such as interviewing and resume writing, and other personal improvement skills," said Dr. Samuel Bottosto, PBJC coordinator and social science department chairman. "This is the fourth year PBJC has hosted this program."

He said each participant will earn money while attending school, and will be obligated to develop a savings plan by opening an account at a local bank. Thus, the student will learn how to manage finances.

Participants have been identified through the county school system and must have met certain criteria, namely a low level of family income.

and a key person in all recent attempts to obtain a performing arts center, said the next social and artistic season in the county must be dedicated to raising the $7.5 million in building funds still needed.

He said that once the center is in operation, attention could be placed on building an endowment to assist in assuring the finest quality in performance activity.

Both behind the scenes and on occasion as the primary spokesman, Dr. Eissey has been extremely active in obtaining the funding for the center.

Dr. Eissey has worked for the community/college performing arts center longer than anyone. He originated the concept before he became president of the college.

In addition to the obvious cultural advantages for students, faculty and staff from the proximity of the center to the PBJC Central campus, Dr. Eissey said our drama and music students would have excellent opportunities to obtain professional experience.

Although it would be impossible to list all of the people who cooperated to make the good news of last week possible, the effective efforts of Pat Wilson Myers of the PBJC Foundation, and Will Ray, of the council, in the arduous work of obtaining the total backing of the arts community for this project should be acknowledged. It was an essential first step to success. ... Jonathan Koontz

Pacer Golfers Compete In National Tournament

The PBJC men's golf team traveled to Lehigh Acres, Fla. for the NCCAA golf tournament, and as of Monday Report deadline, were in second place with 583 points, four strokes behind McLennan Community College of Waco, Texas.

"I think we're almost in a better position than if we were four strokes ahead," Coach Jim Simon told the Post. "Our guys are used to coming from behind."

In the first round, the Pacers were in the lead by one stroke, thanks to a fine performance by freshman Johan Tumba of Sweden. Tumba shot a three-under-par 69. David Ladd had an even-par 72, while Per Segerstrom, Larry Holland, and Mike Lefebre shot 73, 76, and 78 respectively.

In the second round, Segerstrom shot a 71, Tumba had 75, Ladd shot 73, Holland shot 74 and Lefebre added a 77. The tourney was to have continued through Friday, June 8.

Glades Center Plans To Repeat Hit Year

The curtain closed in May on the 1983-84 season at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center at PBJC Glades. According to Judy Schiele, Center director, the season was a hit, both in the box office and with the "critics."

"Approximately 16,000 people attended the 41 events this year, up from 14,000," she said. "And the Theatre for Schools program was a sellout."

The Theatre for Schools program was a series of matinee performances for elementary school children from Pahokee, Belle Glade, South Bay, and Clewiston.

"(They) were not only supportive, but the most neat, polite, and attentive audiences," Schiele said about the children.

But the real bread and butter of the Center were the season ticket holders. During 1983-84, 525 season tickets were sold,(an increase over the previous year) which included 287 for Fall and 238 for Spring.

"The people of the community are our 'critics'," Schiele said. "In March, we conducted a survey to see what kinds of programs would be desired by current subscribers for next season."

Programs that have been scheduled so far for 1984-85 include singer B.J. Thomas, Landis and Co.Magic Show, Father Flanigan's Boys' Town Choir, Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, and the musical "Oklahoma."

Trustees To Hear Program On Sports

The Athletic Department will make the college program presentation at the June meeting of the trustees Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., in Conference Room C at PBJC Central.

Varsity sports at PBJC enjoyed the most successful year in the history of the college this year.

The trustees will be asked to approve salary schedules for all personnel in accord with the budget passed last month. Salaries remain the same except for annual increments. Amendments may come later if there are sufficient funds.

Among bids to be opened is one on a Field Study Trip to the Yucatan.

Revised specifications and final plans for the remodeling of the first floor of the administration building are on the 36-item agenda.

Collective Bargaining

The eighth meeting in the current round of collective bargaining talks between PBJC and the United Faculty of PBJC has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 19, 3 p.m., in the County Parks and Recreation Building, John Prince Park.

Dr. Shostak Named Central Dean Of Instruction

The hiring of the first dean of instruction at PBJC Central was approved by the Board of Trustees last Wednesday evening at their meeting at Central Campus, Conference Room C.

Joining the PBJC administration on Aug. 1 will be Dr. Thomas Shostak, 39, who is presently assistant dean of instruction at Rockland Community College in Suffern, NY.

The new position is part of a plan to separate district-wide duties from the administration of the Central Campus. The new dean of instruction at PBJC Central will be analogous to the deans of instruction at PBJC North and South, and will be supervised by the vice president of academic affairs.

"A committee made up of faculty, administration and staff interviewed Dr. Shostak, and he is an exceptional individual," Dr. Eissey told the Board.

Shostak has a strong Student/Staff Development background. He was a student development specialist, an associate professor of interdisciplinary studies/department chairman, and director of staff development/learning center chairman during a 13-year tenure at Brookdale Community College in Lincroft, NJ.

He has received three teaching fellowships from the National Science Foundation, and has served as a consultant to a number of private businesses, including development of a stress management course for IBM executives.

Shostak has a doctorate in education from Fairleigh Dickinson University, a master's degree from Michigan State University, and a bachelor's from Cornell University.

Governor's PECO Veto Will Not Stop Center

Gov. Bob Graham's startling veto of the state's $10 million backing for a performing arts center at PBJC Central on June 14 is being viewed by center backers as a temporary annoyance, not a major disaster.

There is reason for optimism that the governor's veto of the entire Public Education Capital Outlay (PECO) section of the appropriations bill will be overridden by the legislature at its first opportunity--probably in November.

The primary reason is Senate President-designate Harry Johnston, who, as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee in the last session was the prime mover in getting the item on the PECO bill.

"I'm going to put it back in next year if we don't override," Johnston promised in Palm Beach Post. "Either way, its going to go back in. I guarantee it."

That guarantee was good enough for Dr. Eissey, who urged everyone to continue on, full steam ahead. He pointed out that the county commission has not yet had time to fulfill its promise of $10 million, and that the County Council of the Arts needs time to raise the $10 million from private donations needed before the project can be completed.

"We'll have the state's $10 million back by the time we need it," Dr. Eissey said.

The only concern voiced by backers of the Governor's Summer Program

Free instruction in computer programming, aviation dynamics, aquatics and other skills is available this summer at PBJC for high-achieving and gifted secondary school students.

The college will offer the Governor's Summer Program beginning Monday, July 16 and concluding Thursday, Aug. 2. Each 36-hour course will last for 12 sessions, and courses will be offered at three campuses: Central, North and South.

Courses include Aquatic Practical Skills, Aviation Dynamics, Computer Programming,Computer Keyboarding Skills, and Word Processing for Writers.

"We still have space available in all of the classes," said John Townsend, coordinator. "Any student in the 7th grade or higher who is gifted, as defined by the Florida Legislature, or who is in the top five percent of his class, is eligible to apply."

He said all fees for the courses would be paid by a grant if the program is funded by the State Legislature.

last official Board meeting last Wednesday.

Dr. Graham will retire as of June 30, and Wilson-Myers will resign as of July 5.

"It really hurts me to leave because I love you all so," Myers said. "But my hushand has to come first right now."

She started at PBJC in 1980 as coordinator of the Institute of Governments, and was then named director of development in 1981.

"Pat and Paul, the college will miss you both," said Dr. Philip O. Lichtblau, Board chairman.

The agenda also included a summary of the year in sports by Athletic Director Tom Mullins.

"This was the year of the champs," he said. "No other college in the U.S. got as many regional and national titles as we did."

"We placed every eligible sophomore in a college with a grant-in-aid to finish their education."

DECA Members Attend Conference

The 23rd Career Development Conference of Delta Epsilon Chi, division of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) was held in Kansas City, Mo. in May. Palm Beach Junior College was represented by Helenanna Bell, Tina Hardman, Roger Andre, Larry Freedman and Jim Sims.

The conference was designed to develop future leaders in the fields of marketing, selling, advertising, merchandising and distribution. Over 1500 people interested in careers in business management attended the conference.

Larry Freedman placed second in the nation in Management Decision Making. There were over 50 people in this competition. Tina Hardman ranked in the top 20 in General Merchandising Retailing out of over 100 competitors.

Susan Marlow is the advisor for the PBJC chapter and Ann Steckler is chairperson of the Business Department.

DECA is the only national student organization operating through the nation's schools to attract people to careers in marketing, merchandising and management.

Advisory Board Members To Be Honored

Palm Beach Junior College will honor the 522 citizens who served on 50 different advisory boards this year at a recognition breakfast Tuesday, (June 26), 8 a.m., at the Hyatt-Palm Beaches.

The advisory committees range in size from the three-member committee for the Chef's Apprenticeship Program through the 15 each for Dental Health and Nursing to the largest committee--the 38 citizens on the board of directors of the Palm Beach Junior College Foundation.

For the first time in its history, the college has compiled a 24-page booklet which contains a very brief statement about each committee and lists the names of all current members.

In an opening letter, Dr. Eissey points out that many of the vocational, technical and occupational programs at the college could not meet their objectives without the knowledge and expertise of advisory members who are specialists in their field.

"We have always felt grateful to those who serve on our advisory committees," Dr. Eissey said, "and this is one means we have devised to express our thanks."

Economic Offer May Be Near

The ninth meeting in the current round of collective bargaining is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., July 5, in the Parks and Recreation Building, John Prince Park.

It is hoped that an economic offer from the college will be ready for that meeting.

The United Faculty has asked for a 10 percent raise and other economic concessions, but by mutual consent, these have not been discussed at prior meetings.

Details of what the college can expect from legislative appropriations in the next year have not been available, and wage discussions have been set aside until they can be based on a realistic estimate of college income.

In the meantime, non-economic matters have all been discussed. Some have been resolved, some withdrawn, some clarified without resolution, and some are still under study.

center was that private investors might not be so sure the money will be put back in.

But even Gov. Graham, after having done the original damage, helped out in that respect by saying that he had nothing against the performing arts center.

Both Johnston and Herb Morgan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, made no effort to conceal their anger over the unexpected veto. Both pointed out that Graham never said anything during the legislative session about vetoing the PECO bill.

Graham's message in vetoing the bill said he thought the legislature had appropriated too high a percentage to higher education and not enough to K-12. The message completely ignored the fact that most K-12 construction is funded from local taxation, a source completely unavailable to community colleges and universities.

Both legislative and media comment throughout the state has been unfavorable. The Evening Times, for instance, called it "a tawdry and counterproductive political performance by the governor."

The Times called for local efforts to continue, and that is exactly what appears to be happening.

There is no doubt, however, that an override rather than inclusion next year would be preferable. As Will Ray, of the Council of the Arts said, the only real problem posed by the governor's veto is the possible loss of momentum.

The veto was a bad political move by a generally good governor. If promptly overridden, it will be a temporary annoyance, not a major disaster.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 36 July 2, 1984

And That Includes Increments

State Law Says No Raises Until Sept. 15

For the past two weeks, there have been many serious efforts by Dr. Eissey and the PBJC Administration, by other community colleges, and by the state division to find some milder interpretation of the language about the starting date of salary increases in the Conference Report on HB 1300, which has, by now, become state law.

But that one sentence just sits there, and states what it states, and it now appears that nobody will be able to do anything about it. The sentence:

"No state funds shall be used to provide salary increases prior to Sept. 15,1984."

The board, the president, the administration, and the Monday Report staff regret to inform you that this language has been held to apply to annual increments as well as any other form of salary increase.

There have been attempts to say that increments are not the type of "salary increase" the legislature intended. No luck.

It has been argued that since some University salaries can go up on Aug. 15 that the date of Sept. 15 must be in error and the legislature really meant to treat universities and community colleges alike, and therefore increases should be possible on Aug. 15. No luck.

It had been the intention of the president and the board to change salary rates to reflect increments on July 1, with the changes showing up in the July 20 pay checks, but that can not happen. The state law will not allow it.

It appears now that the rates can not change until Sept. 15, with the effect showing up in the pay checks of Oct. 5.

If any loophole shows up in all of this, you may be sure that Dr. Eissey will take advantage of it. But the search for a loophole now appears fruitless, and it

Advisory Committees Honored At Recognition Breakfast

The college honored its advisory committee members with a recognition breakfast Tuesday morning at the Hyatt. Approximately 180 citizens who serve the college on 50 advisory boards were present.

"We absolutely could not operate many of our programs without the assistance of advisory committees," Dr. Eissey told the group. "You provide us with a service that no amount of money could buy."

Chief Bob Bean, of the Trail Park Fire Department, said that serving on an advisory committee gave him input into the education of the students who would be working in his field.

"The key words are opportunity and communication," he said. "Not only can we have input to the educators, they can tell what they need to the community through us."

Trustee Hisetta Dyson told the group she knew they had done their best as advisors, and said the best would surely come back to them.

"The best comes back to us through the young people we are serving every day of our lives," she said.

The committee members were each given a 50th anniversary memento and a new booklet which lists all members of the committees, and gives a brief description of the purpose of the committee.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 37 July 16, 1984

No Date Set For Next Session

Economic Offer Made To United Faculty

The college offered an economic package to the United Faculty of PBJC Wednesday afternoon. Union negotiators, after saying they were "offended" by two aspects of the proposal, said they would study it in detail to develop a counter proposal.

They declined an offer to set a time for another meeting, and said they would notify the college team when they were ready to talk again.

The college proposal was a three-page document which began by explaining that the amount received from the legislature for salaries this year by PBJC provided only enough for a 2.4 percent raise for all personnel, plus a special fund of $87,000 earmarked by the legislature for teachers directly involved in classroom instruction.

The offer contained the following provisions:

For 166 and 196-day teachers--a 4.0 percent increase, plus two additional duty days with pay, increasing these contracts to 168 and 198 days.

For 180-day teachers--an opportunity to change to 168-day contracts with no reduction in 1983-84 annual salary.

This would mean:

Twelve less duty days with no decrease in pay.

An increase of 7.1 percent in daily rate of pay.

Also for 180-day teachers--a guaranteed opportunity for 198-day status with 4.0 percent increase, if classes are available for a full load.

For all unit members earning overloads--a 20 percent increase in overload pay.

For those eligible--increments will be paid.

For Librarians, Counselors and the Assistant Director of Library Services III-- a 4.0 per

Endowment Fund Creates Melville Spencer Memorial

A scholarship endowment fund has been created at Palm Beach Junior College as a continuing memorial to Melville Spencer, a lifelong resident of the Palm Beaches and the founder of Spencer Boat Co., according to Dr. Eissey.

The endowment fund was created with a donation of $102,000 by Spencer's widow, Mrs. Bertha Spencer Miller, and his six children, who were represented at the initial meeting by a daughter, Beth Spencer.

Spencer, who founded the boat company in 1949 and headed it until his death in 1973, was a member of one of the pioneering families of the Palm Beaches, with family members residing in the area since 1880.

The intial donation and any others added through the years will be invested by the college, Dr. Eissey said, with earnings only being used for scholarships.

Scholarships from the endowment will be presented in the name of Melville Spencer, honoring his memory in perpetuity.

Dr. Eissey, also a lifelong resident of the Palm Beaches and a neighbor and friend of the Spencer's, has a personal interest in the endowment.

"Mel Spencer is the person who got me interested in boats," Dr. Eissey said.

"Mel was a man who liked young people, and always wanted to see them move ahead in life," Mrs. Miller said."It is good that he will be remembered each year through helping young people."

Annual Board Reorganization Scheduled Wednesday

The annual reorganization of the Palm Beach Junior College District Board of Trustees will take place at the July meeting of the board, Wednesday, July 18, 7:30 p.m. in Conference C at PBJC Central.

Dr. Philip Lichtblau is the current chairman, and Mrs. Homer Hand is vice chairman.

In addition to election of chairman and vice chairman for the coming year, the board will designate time and place of meetings and reorganize standing committees.

In another agenda item, the board will be asked to increase student fees in accordance with new limits set by the Florida legislature.

The board will be asked to approve a resolution urging support for financing a proposed Florida Atlantic University building on the campus of PBJC North.

The two institutions already share a common campus at Boca Raton, with joint use of many facilities, and similar economies are anticipated at PBJC North, on PGA Blvd.

cent increase. The legislature did not include the above in the special increase for teachers.

The document said that the offer was "the complete economic package."

It said that the offer must be accepted by Aug. 1, since it requires the elimination of 180-day contracts, and such contracts begin on Aug. 7.

After a caucus of more than an hour, Dennis Alber, speaking for the union negotiators, said they were "somewhat flabbergasted" by the offer.

"First," he said, "we were offended by your ultimatum that this document self destructs on Aug. 1."

Jesse Hogg, negotiator for the college, explained that there was no ultimatum, that there simply would not be a way to effect the settlement at a later date since 180-day teachers report to work on Aug. 7.

"Second," Alber said, "we are offended by your insistence that this is a complete package." He said there were serious union proposals still on the table which had been labeled economic by the college, and that acceptance of the package would mean they had to be abandoned. "We would no longer be able even to talk about them," he said.

Hogg said that anything could still be talked about, but Alber then said the union needed more time for detailed study.

The local press, as is usual in such instances, paid a great deal of attention to a few colorful remarks, even though they obviously had no basis in fact, and paid very little attention to the offer and why it was made.

Teachers Flock To Computer Classes

A computer literacy course for public K-12 teachers sponsored by PBJC North last month was an overwhelming success, according to Dr. Sarah Pappas.

"There was such a demand that 80 people signed up in three days, and an overflow class was created at PBJC Central," she said.

The course was held for six days: June 18-21 and 25-26 for seven-and-a-half hours each day. The teachers came from elementary and secondary schools all over the county. The long day was broken into various activities each hour including hands-on experience, library research projects, group work and individual study.

"The teacher was Bob Traina, an employee of Suncoast High School who is one of our adjunct faculty," Dr. Pappas said. "I've received numerous letters complimenting the teacher and the course."

Plans for offering a second computer literacy course are now being considered.

Dental Assistants Receive Caps At Ceremony

Sixteen students in the Dental Assistant program at PBJC were awarded certificates at a capping ceremony June 22 at the Assembly of God Church on Congress Avenue in Lake Worth.

And all 16 of the new dental assistants have jobs already, according to Dr. James Flatley, chairman of the Dental Health Services Department.

"The students are working as assistants to dentists. They offer chairside assistance, and work as receptionist/bookkeepers in dentist offices," he said.

Flatley and Dr. Steven Kiltau, president of the Atlantic Coast Dental Research Clinic, presented several special awards at the ceremony: Academic Honors, Sherry Ficker; Clinician Award, Christine Coulliard; Faculty Congeniality Award, Pamela Harper; Professional Award, Liz Bartha; Progressive Achievement Award, Gisella Gomez; and Student Congeniality Award, Paula Weingart.

Snappy Slogans Wanted

As reported in the Monday Report and elsewhere, student enrollment at PBJC, and in other community colleges, leveled off this year--with some pretty tough consequences in terms of funding. We can, and should, and will do more in the recruiting and information areas, but the biggest boost we could give our enrollment in future years would be to work hard on the captive audience we now have.

If we can serve every student we now have so well that we retain every student to completion of program, we will have solved all our enrollment problems. Even if we increase retention by only half of those we lose--even if we retain only 25 percent of those we are now losing, we will have made the most significant advance in enrollment in the history of the college.

Accordingly, Dr. Melvin Haynes has been chairing a committee to mobilize a college-wide effort for retention.

Dr. Haynes needs your help.

One of the suggestions made in committee was to develop a theme statement, or motto, or slogan suitable for development of a poster, or a series of posters, and perhaps to use on internal stationary or in other ways.

There were some suggestions from committee members...

One person involved in running suggested "Go the distance."

Another, remembering the famous photo of the cat hanging on a bar said--"Hang in there."

The best suggestion so far was a slogan addressed not to the student, but to ourselves: "Help a student--the career you save may be your own."

That may be as good as we will get for use to faculty and staff--but we still haven't found a really good one for total general use--perhaps for a poster for every classroom.

So--come up with your best slogan. Win the great contest.

Send your suggestions to Dr. Haynes--we need to start printing soon.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 38

July 23, 1984

Effective In January

Student Fee Increase Voted By Board

Palm Beach Junior College will increase in-state matriculation fees to $22.70 per semester hour beginning with the Winter Term in January, 1985. Current fee is $19.95.

The increase, authorized by the 1984 state legislature, consists primarily of a 10 percent addition which will be earmarked for student activities.

Out-of-state fees will continue to be double the in-state fees, and will be set at $45.40 per semester hour in January.

The increases were voted by the college trustees Wednesday evening after hearing from Dr. Eissey that the additional funding will be necessary if the college is to carry out its commitments during this fiscal year.

Dr. Eissey said that action by the legislature in recent years, in regard to tuition waivers and in other ways, had severely restricted the amounts available for student activities.

NEW PROVOST FOR PBJC SOUTH

Among personnel matters approved by the board was the appointment of a provost for PBJC South--Dr. Margaret Maney.

Dr. Maney is currently Director of Academic Affairs at Seminole Community College in Sanford, where she has been since August of 1981.

Prior to that time, Dr. Maney was an English instructor at Broward CC for 15 years, except for a period from September 1979 to December 1980, when she was director of the College Level Academic Skills Project for the State Department of Education in Tallahassee.

Her early career experience is varied, including three years on the staff of a United State Senator, a year and a half as the assistant to the acting president

Commencement Speaker Will Be Dr. Dyer

Graduation night will be Aug. 6 for approximately 300 Palm Beach Junior College students who completed requirements for associate degrees during the Spring or Summer Term.

The exercises are scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m. in the college gymnasium at PBJC Central.

Dr. Patricia Dyer, Vice President for Academic Affairs, will be the commencement speaker.

Degrees will be conferred and diplomas presented by Dr. Eissey.

Approximately 190 students from the Spring Term and 121 from the Summer Term will be eligible for graduation, according to Charles Graham, registrar.

"Some of our Spring Term graduates have already left the area," Graham said, "but we anticipate a turn out of more than 200 students for the ceremony."

The graduates will be awarded either an Associate in Science Degree, indicating completion of a two-year program preparing for employment, or an Associate in Arts Degree, indicating completion of the first two years of a four-year bachelor's degree.

There will be a President's Reception for graduating sophomores on Aug. 6 at 11 a.m. in the Student Activity Center.

Day Camp Size Doubles In 1984

Have you noticed all of those little people near the Continuing Education Office and cafeteria during the past two weeks? They're the Camp Junior College kids, and if there seems to be more of them this year, that's because there are.

According to Jennifer McCormick, camp director, enrollment in the program this year has more than doubled over last year.

"We're averaging 45 children per week for five weeks," she said. "This is more than twice as many as last year."

The camp for boys and girls ages seven to 13 began July 2. Since then, the youngsters have taken swimming lessons, played sports, learned about Poland and other ethnic cultures, heard what it's like to be a clown, met Dr. Eissey, and celebrated a mass birthday party.

But the most popular activity so far seems to be the computer-aided nature study course. With this program, the children work with an Apple IIe computer and software from the Plato science system to learn about the environment.

"Even the younger ones are enjoying it because of the Touch Screen. They can move figures on the screen by pointing at them. This enables them to experience computers without having to read," McCormick said.

The computer study is augmented with a nature walk through John Prince Park.

"We try to relate what they learn on computer to real life, so it isn't all just high tech," she said.

The camp will continue until Aug. 3.

of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, and five years as president and chief designer of Gall Interiors, an interior design firm.

Dr. Maney received her Ph.D. from the University of Miami in 1980, her M.A. from SUNY at Stoney Brook in 1968, and her B.A. from the American University in 1967.

Other personnel appointments of note included Jan Bussell to Division Chair/Occupational, Dr. Hugh Albee to Program Coordinator/Music and Dr. Kathleen Aiello to Senior Coordinator of Continuing Education.

CHAIRMAN, VICE-CHAIRMAN REELECTED

The annual board reorganization resulted in the reelection of Dr. Philip Lichtblau as chairman and Mrs. Homer Hand as vice chairman. Time and place of meetings remained the same.

An announcement at the end of the meeting, however, set the September meeting for the fourth Wednesday, Sept. 26, rather than the third.

SCHOLARSHIP FOUNDATION

Former Vice President of Student Affairs Paul J. Glynn and Palm Beach attorney Frank McKeown, in a brief ceremony, turned over a check for $57,720.66 to the college Foundation, representing the endowment from which 93 scholarships worth $58,525 have been awarded over the past 20 years. The money will be invested, with the income providing scholarships in perpetuity.

Present to receive scholarships this year were Andrew Korta, the $1,000 V.D. Stone Scholarship, LaJuana Bochtler, the $1,000 Dean Paul Glynn Scholarship, and Loretta Jansen, Lisa Soldovere and Concepcion Gonzalez, each receiving a $750 Foundation Scholarship.

The board reaffirmed its commitment to a joint enterprise with Florida Atlantic University to build a classroom building for FAU at the PBJC North campus on PGA Blvd.

Student Numbers Increase 6.6 Percent

Enrollment for the summer term followed trends set earlier this year, not only at PBJC but throughout the state. Numbers of students were very close--in this case slightly above--those of last year, with a very slight decrease in student semester hours.

Total head count, at 3,989, was 248 above a year ago, a 6.6 percent gain. This is the largest percentage gain in headcount for any term this year.

Total student semester hours, at 13,082.4, a drop of only 36.6 from the previous year, decreased .28 percent.

The total counts were a little more favorable than those for credit courses only, where we registered a 4.6 percent increase in headcount and a .5 percent decrease in student semester hours.

PBJC North and South both showed nice percentage gains in both headcount and semester hours. Glades, without the assist from Glades Correctional Institute it had last year, lost in both categories. Central gained headcount and lost in semester hours.

The trend toward students taking fewer semester hours has generally been attributed to increased employment opportunities.

Introduction To Italian Offered Fall Term

Beginning in the Fall 1984 term, Palm Beach Junior College will add another foreign language course to its curriculum.

"Introduction to Italian" will be offered Thursdays, from 7-10 p.m. at PBJC Central beginning Aug. 20 and concluding Dec. 13. It will be the third language course offered; the other two are French and Spanish.

"We are offering Italian instruction in response to a community need. A number of people have expressed a need to learn the language," said Dr. Patricia Dyer, vice president of academic affairs.

"We are also offering the course because of a recently-enacted state law that requires by Fall 1987 that students enrolling in universities have two years of high school level foreign language or two semesters at the college level," she added.

Part of the cost for the course is being underwritten by Il Circolo, the Italian cultural organization of the Palm Beaches.

First Aid Course Begins In September

All PBJC employees are invited to enroll in a multi-media Standard First Aid course to be given Saturday, Sept. 15 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Students will learn how to handle emergencies such as poisoning, bleeding, burns, cuts, fractures and arrested breathing. Those who successfully complete the course will receive a three-year certification.

The fee is $1, and includes materials. Enrollment is limited to 16 applicants. For more information, contact Mary Cannon at 8066 or Donna DiSesa at 8012, or register in the Continuing Education Office.

Computers In Business

"The Computer--An Affordable Addition to Every Business" will be offered by PBJC Wednesday, Aug. 1 from 7-10 p.m. in AH 201 at the Central Campus.

The class will include a discussion of the practical applications of computers in small businesses and a workshop period. The fee is $2. For further information, call 8006.

Other Colleges Face Problems

This year's set of economic problems at PBJC is shared by other community colleges in the state, as was evidenced by a recent news report from Broward Community College.

According to the report, Broward plans to leave 20 faculty positions, 5 administrative positions, and 10 other positions unfilled during this year in an effort to economize.

Clinton Hamilton, BCC's executive vice president, is quoted as saying it is the tightest budget he has seen at the college. He said the college budget increased by $1 million to $35 million, but that a $4 or $5 million increase was needed.

Of the $1 million increase, $200,000 must be spent to reduce the size of English and math classes and provide remedial instruction, he said.

The veto of the PECO bill by Gov. Graham, which meant temporary loss of $10 million for the Performing Arts Center at PBJC Central, was also costly to Broward. The bill contained authorization to use $500,000 to repair roof and window leaks in Bailey Hall at BCC.

Broward plans to add $1 per ticket at events there this year to try to make some of the needed repairs.

Hamilton said the economic difficulties have forced Broward to "reduce the breadth of our service."

At PBJC, we have not been forced to leave positions unfilled, and are making every effort to continue the level of services offered, but many of the other economies mentioned in the article are already underway here.

In the middle of a struggle to make income meet outgo, it may be small comfort to know that others are in the same boat--but we do have at least that small feeling of companionship.

Did You Know?

That our Library Learning Resources Center is expected to be fully computerized during the 84/85 school year.

That 54 millage remodeling, renovation projects have been completed to date, most on the Central Campus.

That Bookstore sales will exceed $1 million dollars this year.

Fun In The Sun

Classified Staff Enjoys Picnic In Park

Over 200 classified employees had fun in the sun and dunked their bosses at the Annual Classified Staff Awards Picnic Thursday, July 19 at Mounds Circle in John Prince Park. The awards ceremony was held for the first time at the Mounds Circle this year, instead of the PBJC cafeteria. This switch seemed to be agreeable to most of the employees.

JUST GRIN AND BARE IT--The beguiling come hither look of Frankie "Francine" Bollon attracted many contenders to the dunking booth at the Classified Employees Picnic. Thanks to Francine, Drs. Eissey and Tate, Claude Edwards and the other good sports, $175 was raised for the needy family Christmas fund.

"I'm really glad we started this trend (of having the picnic in the park)," Dr. Eissey said. "I'm sure everyone had a good time because of the informal atmosphere."

The afternoon featured games such as egg and water balloon tosses, three-legged races, volleyball, and a "surprise splash". For a dollar, picnickers could take three shots at plunging various college personalities into a tank of ice cold water.

The good sports included Dr. Eissey, Dr. Tony Tate, Joe Schneider, Claude Edwards, Mel Fields, Shelley Carton, Bobby Goldstein, and Frank Bollon.

The dunkees helped raise $175, which will be included in a fund to be given to a local needy family at Christmas, according to Don Pearsall, picnic chairman.

Before the festivities began, Dr. Eissey awarded service pins to several employees: 25 years-Sue Frazier; 15 years-Jean D'Angio, Anna Kiger, Marie Roberts; 10 years-George Bomgardner, Mary Cannon, Janet Charles, Robert Clapsaddle, Jessie McKenna, Betsy Meyers, Callie Owens, Mary Ann Reasner, and Salle Thornton. Twenty five employees were awarded pins for five years of service.

Correction

The in-state student fee will be $22.70 per semester hour beginning with the Winter Term in January, 1985, as stated in last week's Monday Report and the local media. However, more recent information has set the out-of-state fees at slightly less than double that amount. The new out-of-state fee will be $43.45 per semester hour.

The Family That Saves Together

Saving lives has gotten to be a way of life in the Dwyer family.

Ray, husband of Jill Dwyer, a clerk-typist in the Dental Health building, is a mail carrier with the Lake Worth post office. Recently, on his rounds, Ray's alertness resulted in the rescue of an elderly stroke victim from her smoke-filled apartment.

Jill was not about to be outdone, however. Because of her speedy action, an entire family was saved from certain annihilation.

A local exterminator was beginning to tent the Dental Health building for fumigation when Jill noticed a nesting pigeon in the louvers on the south side of the building. Close examination revealed a new hatchling, and an unhatched egg.

She contacted several agencies, but they were unable to rescue the birds before the gas was to be released.

In an effort above and beyond the call of duty, Jill succeeded in removing the nest from the louver and placed it in a nearby tree. Mother Pigeon returned to the nest shortly, and the other egg hatched. At last report the family is doing well.

Instructional Computer Expert Visits

Dr. Ronald E. Speight, Director of Learning Laboratory, from South Carolina State College at Orangeburg, was a recent visitor to Palm Beach Junior College. Dr. Speight was here to observe the methods and techniques developed by PBJC to computerize the college preparation program, and the possible uses and applications utilizing minicomputers and the PLATO network, that may be available to S.C. State.

During the course of his visit, Dr. Speight was the guest of Terry Shoultes, coordinator of Instructional Computer Programs. Terry arranged various demonstrations of the college preparation programs for Dr. Speight, and had him visit with Dr. Paul Dasher, Rick Travis, director of the Center for Personalized Instruction, and Joan Holcomb, coordinator of the Individualized Manpower Training System (IMTS Lab) at North Campus.

Dr. Speight was most impressed with the PBJC program, and found the trip to be most interesting. He sends his thanks to the PBJC staff for their "friendliness and professionalism" and hopes to maintain a working dialogue between PBJC and S.C. State College.

PBJC North Sponsors Booth At Mall

PBJC North will sponsor "PBJC Registration-Information Days" at the Palm Beach Mall Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 8-9 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Student affairs personnel and volunteers from the PBJC North faculty and staff will man the booth located near Kinney's Shoe Store. They will provide information about educational programs and will also conduct on-site registration for the Fall Term.

If you happen to be at the Mall on one of these days, stop by and say "hi." And if you know someone who is considering enrolling in PBJC, let them know we will be at the Mall on those days.

Two retirees were announced: Mary Ann Giel, a Financial Aid Clerk, who came to PBJC in 1964, and Anna Kiger, Message Center Clerk, who worked at PBJC since 1968.

Custodians Participate In Training Program

Another segment of an ongoing in-service training program for custodial workers was held last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at PBJC Central.

About 14 custodians participated in the two courses--Safety in School Operations and Custodian Relations With Others--which dealt with safety in operating power tools and equipment, worker's compensation, proper use of fire extinguishers, human relations and communications techniques, and the custodian's role in management.

According to Mel Fields, custodial supervisor, the in-service training has been very beneficial.

"The program has generated a team spirit," he said. "Overall, the staff wants to make more of a contribution to PBJC, and the employees are more motivated and committed."

He cited a few examples: three of his staff have been promoted this year from custodian I to custodian II: Wade Brown, Ben Knight, and Bill Myers. Knight was also made the college's first official exterminator after passing a rigorous state licensing exam.

Another success story has been George Kline.

Kline, a night custodian, did not have a high school diploma when he started working at PBJC in 1982. With some encouragement, he earned his GED, and is now enrolled here in an A.S. degree program in Business Administration. Now in his second semester, he is carrying a 3.5 GPA.

"George is taking the tough courses up front," Fields said. "His growth stemmed from the sense of accomplishment he got from our (in-service) courses and his experience on the job."

Seminar Draws Large Audience

A seminar on growth planning and zoning held at PBJC July 21 attracted over 80 participants, including Palm Beach County Legislative Delegation chairman Ed Healey. The program was co-sponsored by the PBJC Institute of Governments and the South Florida chapter of the Florida Planning and Zoning Association.

"Growth management is a hot issue in state politics right now," said Bill Graham, director of the Institute of Governments. "The seminar provided an update on state and local zoning laws, plus information on open government."

"This helped make the people more aware of their legal liabilities in conjunction with the Florida Sunshine Law," he said.

The speakers were an environmental planner from Florida Power & Light, several local attorneys, engineers, a municipal council member, and planners from government and private industry.

"We received many favorable comments on evaluation forms that were distributed after the seminar," Graham said. "Because of this, we are planning another seminar in November."

FACC Innovator's Award

All career employees are invited to submit entries for the annual "FACC Innovator's Award," given to an FACC member who has made a suggestion for improvement or developed an innovation which has saved the college money, time, and/or enhanced the public image of the college.

The winner will receive a plaque or certificate and recognition at the FACC state convention in Miami in October.

Employees may nominate themselves or someone else, as long as the nominee is a career employee and an FACC member. Nominations should be sent directly to the State Innovator Award Chairman (listed on form) no later than Aug. 15.

Anyone interested in nominating someone for the Innovator's Award should contact Ardease Johnson in Personnel for an official form and any additional guidelines.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Will Tuesday Be A Workday?

Negotiations Go Down To The Wire

Teachers on 180-day contracts have been invited to breakfast by the college tomorrow morning, but whether Tuesday will be a workday for them will not be fully determined until sometime today.

If they are told at breakfast that Tuesday is not a workday, and they can go back on summer break until Aug. 15, it will mean that at the last possible moment agreement has been reached on a contract.

If they are told to continue on with work at the same salary and working conditions as last year, it will mean that the best contract that can be offered to the United Faculty this year has been delayed to death.

It has been clear, ever since the first college economic offer on July 11, that if 180-day teachers start to work without an agreement, the current offer must be withdrawn.

With everything off the table, it is not yet known what the next offer from the college will be. It is known, however, that abolishing the 180-day contract next year will be a part of any offer made, and it is unlikely that the arrangement for doing so can be as favorable as that in the current offer.

To reach an understanding of the unusual situation we are now in, it might be good to start with the first offer from the college on July 11.

THE FIRST OFFER

The college offered a 4.0 percent increase to all unit members except those on 180-day contracts, despite the fact that the state had only provided enough for a 2.4 percent increase. In addition, 196 and 166-day contracts were

Dental Graduates Score High On Exams

The latest crop of Dental Laboratory Technology graduates at Palm Beach Junior College have all passed the exam leading to national certification, according to Dr. James Flatley, Dental Health Services chairman.

"We had 13 graduates and 100 percent of them passed the recent exam," he said.

In addition, the college's dental hygiene graduates recently took the Florida state licensure exam which 90 percent passed.

"This is the highest percentage we've seen in recent years," Flatley said.

Hearings Completed

Hearings on the unfair labor practice charge brought by the United Faculty in the matter of the suspension of Frank Leahy and Dr. Joan Young were held at the county courthouse July 25 and 26.

Testimony repeated to a large extent that gathered during the hearings before the substitute board in March. Only the legal maneuvering was new.

Hearing officer Thomas W. Young, III, granted a joint motion from both sides that will have the effect of granting additional time for filing of briefs if the Public Employees Relations Commission grants additional time for Young's report.

to be lengthened by two added days, with pay.

The 180-day contract would cease to exist. Teachers on 180-day contracts could transfer, if classes are available for a full load, to 198 days, and receive the 4 percent, or, they could choose to work 12 days less and go on the 168-day contract with their salary to remain the same as it was in 1983-84, an increase of 7.1 percent in daily rate of pay.

Overload pay would be increased by 20 percent.

From the beginning, the college made it clear that the offer could not be extended past the time 180-day teachers were to return to work. August 1 was mentioned as the date by which agreement would have to be reached.

REACTION AND COUNTER OFFER

The initial reaction to this offer was not favorable, and included an early end to that session, some intemperate remarks to the local press, and a refusal to set a time for another meeting.

It was nearly three weeks later, on July 30, that the next meeting was called, two days before the Aug. 1 date.

A detailed counter offer was presented at that time which raised the economic package to 5 percent, and asked for 2.4 percent in added pay for 180-day teachers going to the 168-day contract.

After lengthy study and questioning, and a long caucus, college negotiators agreed on some minor items, but said they could not budge on the economic offer.

AMENDED COUNTER OFFER

It was time for another long caucus, this time by the union negotiators, who started talking at 5:46 p.m. and came back to the table at 6:46.

They agreed to 4 percent, but asked for some movement in academic rank, an increase of 2.4 percent for 180-day employees going to the 168-day contract, and immediate payment of overloads.

They also asked for changed in co-curricular payments, that a multi-year contract with openers in economic matters be put into effect, and for a calendar change.

Noting that it was already after 7 p.m. and indicating the need for consultation with others in the administration, the college bargainers asked for another meeting on Tuesday afternoon, and it was so arranged.

AN ADDED OFFER

Tuesday afternoon, July 31, the college said it had found a solution to the calendar question, but would hold firm on its prior position on all other matters.

However, in the hope that an agreement might yet be reached, an additional offer of a one-time payment of $400 to 180-day teachers changing to 168-day contracts was made.

"We still believe our offer was fair to everyone," said Jesse Hogg, chief college negotiator, "but we recognize your difficulty in that they would be receiving no increase in pay, and are hoping this additional offer will result in a quick agreement."

RESPONSE TO AMENDED OFFER

It did not. Dennis Alber, negotiating for the union, said a consultation with the membership would be necessary.

After a long caucus, the college bargaining team reluctantly agreed to relinquish the Aug. 1 date set on July 11, provided the union would agree that no claims for salary on Tuesday, Aug. 7 would be made if teachers reported for work to discover they will not start until Aug. 15. (Cont'd on P 3)

WHERE WE ARE

That brings us back up to date, and you know as much as the Monday Report knows. We hear that there may be meetings set for today to make some decisions about all of this, and we promise to let you know as soon as we know how it all turns out.

Of course, the meetings today will have to be sandwiched in around the president's reception for graduates and the commencement ceremonies set for tonight at the gym.

But the way things have been going around here recently, that's just another ordinary day.

In any case, Fall Term classes start on Aug. 20, and, one way or the other, we'll be ready.

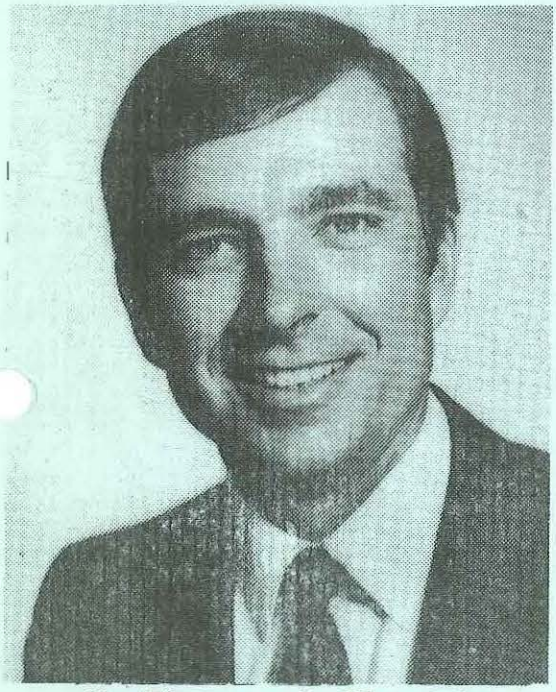
Status Quo Prevails

Contract Try Fails, Teachers Return To Work

After a "welcome back" breakfast at the Palm Beach Ocean Hotel Tuesday morning, teachers on 180-day contracts began their work year on status quo--with wages, hours, and working conditions as they were in the 1983-84 contract.



Dr. Thomas A. Shostak

Meet Dr. Shostak

Faculty members were introduced this week to Dr. Thomas A. Shostak, who will be the new Dean of Instruction at PBJC Central.

Dr. Shostak was selected from a list of 192 applicants for the newly created post.

The administrative position was created as a parallel to the Dean of Instruction positions already existing at PBJC North and PBJC South, and to free Dr. Patricia Dyer, Vice President of Academic Affairs, for college-wide work.

Dr. Shostak came to the college from

Their opportunity to change to 168-day contracts with no salary cut from last year plus a one-time payment of $400--or alternatively to change to 198-day contracts with a 4.0 percent increase--had been dealt away nearly 24 hours earlier by union negotiators.

College officials had made preparations for a 2:30 p.m. meeting on Monday afternoon to negotiate final details of a contract if the results of a meeting of unit members at 11 a.m. on the same day favored the new contract.

At 9 a.m., however, two hours before the scheduled meeting with their membership, union negotiators cancelled the Monday afternoon bargaining session, giving no explanation beyond the fact that they would have a counter offer.

Desite this early decision, the unit meeting at 11 a.m. went on as scheduled, and it was reported that a written "vote" was taken, with no public acknowledgement that the decision had already been reached.

In response to questions from the audience at the Tuesday morning breakfast, Dr. Eissey explained that the union leaders decision meant that 180-day contracts must stay 180 days for this year and that the college offer was withdrawn.

It also means that 196 and 166-day contracts will remain on status quo until a new offer can be formulated and negotiated. A similar breakfast meeting is scheduled for 196 and 166-day teachers on Friday, Aug. 17.

The breakfast meeting Tuesday was an obvious success, with an enthusiastic round of applause for the Foundation, which provided funding.

Dr. Eissey distributed a list of presidential committees for the year, and pointed out that 102 unit members had been assigned to a committee, usually their first or second choice.

He provided information on a number of faculty members and on new appointments to the administrative staff.

He also gave the returning faculty members a brief account of the status of construction at all campuses.

Charles Graham provided information on registration.

A date for resumption of bargaining has not yet been set. Formulation of a new college offer will not be a simple matter, and some members of the college bargaining team have been away on vacation.

Dr. Shostak (cont'd from P 1)

Rockland Community College, Suffern, N.Y., where he was Assistant Dean of Instruction for the past year.

Prior to his last position, Dr. Shostak was with Brookdale Community College, Lincroft, N.J., for 13 years in a number of different capacities, many dealing with staff development.

Although not yet 40, Dr. Shostak has already accumulated 17 years of experience in education, beginning as an English teacher shortly after completing his A.B. Degree at Cornell in 1966. His Master's is from Michigan State, and his Ed. D., earned in 1979, is from Farleigh Dickinson University.

His wife, Susan, is also in education, and will be a special education teacher at Twin Lakes this fall. Daughter Tina, 17, and son, Stephen, 13, will be in the local school system.

Dr. Shostak has served as a consultant to a number of private businesses, including development of a stress management course for IBM executives. He was the recipient of three teaching fellowships from the National Science Foundation.

His statement of educational philosophy emphasizes that he is a "people" person, showing sensitivity to the human needs of all involved in the educational process, which he views as a lifelong activity.

Summer Graduation Proceeds Smoothly

Graduation ceremonies in the gym Monday night proceeded smoothly through our traditional patterns. Some 135 graduates out of a possible 300 took part, but each graduate must have had several friends and relatives in the audience.

The gym bleachers, which hold 2,000 when completely filled, seemed to be more than half filled for the occasion.

The presentation of diplomas was interrupted twice by unusual bursts of applause.

The first was for Charles T. Hill, who is blind, and has amazed everyone with his ability to move swiftly around campus, and with his intelligence and determination.

The second was for Elise Viguers Murray, a PBJC South graduate who is a working mother of 10 plus four others she has taken into her family, graduating with an AA Degree after seven years, and headed for FAU this fall.

Dr. Patricia Dyer spoke of the new emphasis in education in Florida, and urged the graduates to consider their degree as a first step in higher education, and to "continue your learning, wherever you are and whatever you do."

Senator Jenne To Speak In September

Kenneth Jenne, State Senator from Broward County and president-designate of the Senate, has agreed to speak to speak to students in a class in Florida State and Local Government at Palm Beach Junior College in September.

Jenne's extensive experience with both state and local government will give students an inside view of governmental operations,according to Daniel O'Connell, West Palm Beach attorney, who is teaching the class.

"Ken's current key role in the Senate, and his past experience in charter government and as a commissioner in Broward make him an ideal resource person for the class," O'Connell says.

O'Connell, son of former State Attorney Phillip O'Connell, has lifelong friendships with many local and state officials, and is currently arranging for other guest appearances in the class.

There are still some vacancies in the class, but registration for the Fall Term at PBJC ends on Aug. 17.

Number One In Dental Technology

Dental Technology graduates of Palm Beach Junior College ranked number one in the nation in the recent Recognized Graduate Exam, according to Dr. James Flatley, chairman of the Dental Health Services Department.

"We ranked eleventh a year ago," Dr. Flatley says, "and that is not bad at all."

"This year, however, all of our graduates who took the test passed it, and we have been informed by the National Board for Certification in Dental Technology that we are number one in the nation."

Board Meets Wednesday

Standing committees of the board of trustees of Palm Beach Junior College will be appointed by Dr. Philip Lichtblau, chairman, at a regular board meeting, Wednesday, Aug. 15, 7:30 p.m., in Conference C at PBJC Central.

The board will be asked to approve the 1984-85 student handbook. Among personnel items is the appointment of a division chairperson, a program coordinator, and a new Director of Development. Most of the 22 agenda items, about half the usual number, appear to be routine in nature.

Personals . . .

Jim Houser, Art Department, thanks administration, faculty, students, and former faculty for their cards, letters, visists, and phone calls during his recent illness. He particularly wants to thank the Art Dept. faculty for working as team at the end of the winter term to complete his classes and grade his students, and for their sympathetic consideration during that difficult time. Jim is feeling fine and looking forward to the fall semester.

According to word from the North Campus, Al Meldon suffered a heart attack on August 5, and is in Good Sam. Our latest information indicates that Al is doing better now, but visitation is still limited.

The Monday Report has just learned that Edith Faye Easterling, senior instructor in Communications, has retired effective June 20. Ms. Easterling, who has been with the college since 1958, still plans to be busy, teaching on a part-time basis.

A Few Double-Takes

The Man Behind The Counter Was The President

Some of the students entering the Finance Office at PBJC Central Thursday morning did a quick double-take when they saw the new cashier getting his instructions from Essie Dowling. It isn't often that the man behind the counter turns out to be the president of the college.

Dr. Margaret Maney

Welcome Dr. Maney

Dr. Margaret Maney, who became Provost of Palm Beach Junior College South on Aug. 16, brings experience in government and business and from her 15-year career in education to her new position as chief administrator of the South Campus.

Dr. Maney's first full-time working experience was a three-year stint on the staff of John Marshall Butler, a United States Senator from Maryland.

Her first brush with educational administration followed, when she was assistant to the acting president of the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Dr. Eissey is into his eighth month in the work-day program he started in January of this year, and he was carefully making notes of each step on his first time on the machine.

As might be expected, the first customer took a long time, but the second was much faster.

The mix at the counter was not unusual--with students paying for courses, another wanting to know how to get to the registrar's office, someone wanting a refund from a coke machine, John Schmiederer with some business about travel, and another student who had arrived at finance before completing other steps.

As usual, Dr. Eissey established a personal contact immediately with everyone in sight, and the customers did not seem to mind the slight delays caused by the breaking-in process for the new cashier.

Essie told one student--"He's doing some real work today."

Dr. Eissey's "Hire Ed" schedule shows on-the-job training as a computer operator, instructor, nurse, chef and waiter, bookstore clerk, handicapped person, and registrar.

The schedule for the rest of the year:

Sept. 4--report to Mary Orsenigo for registration clean-up work at PBJC Glades.

Oct. 10--report to Bill Basile for maintenance and grounds work at PBJC North.

Nov. 9--report to Bruce Boden for maintenance and grounds work at PBJC Central.

Board Appoints Committees

Standing committees of the District Board of Trustees were announced by Dr. Philip Lichtblau, chairman, at the August meeting of the board, Wednesday at PBJC Central.

The committees for 1984-85 will be:

Administrative Affairs: Dr. Lichtblau, chairman, Mrs. Homer Hand, Mrs. Hisetta Dyson.

Academic Affairs: Mr. Willard Findling, chairman, Mr. George Michael, Mrs. Hand.

Student Affairs: Mrs. Dyson, chairman, Mrs. Hand, Mr. Findling.

Physical Plant: Mr. Michael, chairman, Dr. Lichtblau, Mr. Findling.

After a brief explanation of some of the features of the Student Handbook by Dr. Melvin Haynes, Vice President for Student Affairs, the board accepted the 1984/85 handbook.

Dr. Tony Tate explained a time extension and a change order on the Student Services Building at the North Campus.

Among personnel items was the appointment of Ms. Nancy Cherry as Director of Development effective Aug. 1.

Collective Bargaining Resumes

Collective bargaining between Palm Beach Junior College and the United Faculty will resume Thursday, Aug. 23, 4 p.m., in the County Parks and Recreation Building in John Prince Park.

The meeting will be the first since an attempt to obtain a contract fell short just before some of the teachers returned for the Fall Term on Aug. 7.

The college has been formulating a new economic package to be offered at Thursday's meeting.

Celebration Of Women

A program to commemorate the 64th anniversary of the granting of women's suffrage will be presented Saturday, Aug. 25 from 9 a.m. to noon in AH 101 at PBJC Central.

"A Celebration of Women" will feature a panel of professionals who will discuss such topics as sex and the liberated woman, role changes in relationships, coping with the blended family, and others.

Panelists will include Dr. Barbara Matthews, professor of psychology at PBJC Central, Dr. Florence Kaslow, psychologist and family therapist, and Barbara Somerville of The Post.

The event is sponsored by the PBJC Center for Continuing Education of Women and the Women's Network of Palm Beach County; the fee is $7. For information, please call 8014.

TIME TO RENEW YOUR FACC MEMBERSHIP

Your $25 goes a long way--it's used to help promote community colleges in Tallahassee (FACC employs a full-time lobbyist to look out for your interests). Your initial investment enables you to take advantage of professional development seminars, attend conferences where you can make contacts statewide, and receive informative publications.

As a member of PBJC-FACC, you also are invited to various social gatherings throughout the year where you can meet and get to know your co-workers.

Join FACC today! Make your check payable to: Palm Beach Junior College-FACC, and mail it to Alice Carlisle, Sta. #19. Or if the payroll deduction plan is more convenient, call 8074 to obtain an application.

A Good And Generous Life

The name of Richard D. Hill was in the obituary columns of the local press last week, and the articles noted that he was past chairman of the PBJC Advisory Board. How cold it seems, to reduce years of expert advice, thousands of hours of unpaid community service, years as chairman of our advisory board, and, later, chairman of the board of trustees into one line of type.

Dick Hill was a very important person in the early life of this college. He set the tone for the civic-minded, public-service oriented board member who was not seeking prestige or a public platform, and all our present board members and almost all of our past board members have harmonized with the tone Dick set.

Dick was up-beat, helpful, optimistic, and unfailingly kind. But he could make a hard decision and stick to it--you don't get to be a vice president of Florida Power and Light without that ability.

He was the quintessence of the community-minded man. In addition to his work for the college, Dick was also very important to the American Red Cross, to the Boy Scouts, to the early development of Florida Atlantic University, and many other organizations.

Dick was 84 when he died of a heart attack in Waynesville, N.C. He had lived a good and fruitful life. Although I have many personal memories of Dick Hill, from my days as a reporter and editor and later as a college employee, I am not moved to mourn the passage of a friend who was a quiet, great man.

It is much better, I think, to salute the good and generous life he lived.

...Jonathan Koontz

Dr. Maney (cont'd from P 1)

While acquiring her academic qualifications for teaching, Dr. Maney was co-owner and designer for Gall Interiors, a design firm in Bethesda, Md.

Her Bachelor's Degree is from The American University, her Master's from the State University of New York at Stony Brook, and her Ph.D. from the University of Miami in 1980.

Much of Dr. Maney's academic career is as an instructor of English at Broward Community College, but in September, 1979, she began a 15-month assignment as Director of the College Level Academic Skills Project for the Florida Department of Education in Tallahasee.

Her most recent experience is as Director of Academic Affairs at Seminole Community College.

Dr. Maney is co-author, with Mary Ellen Grasso, of a Freshman English Text, You Can Write, now in its sixth printing. She has authored other educational books and articles, and her doctoral dissertation has been accepted for publication by the Louisiana State University Press.

Dr. Maney has a son and a daughter who are students in the community college system.

She is an avid swimmer, and especially enjoys canoeing and hiking as outdoor activities. She is interested in horticulture, and calls herself a bromeliad hobbyist.

Her philosophy and practice in educational administration is based on open and consistent communication.

Burt Takes A Look At New Student Center

Film star Burt Reynolds made a brief visit to PBJC North Tuesday afternoon to accept a gift from Dr. Eissey.

Without an entourage or fanfare, Reynolds drove up in a dark-colored, late-model Cadillac accompanied by his manager, David Gersheson. Dr. Eissey presented Reynolds with a framed artist's rendering of the new Student Services Center at PBJC North, a building that will be named after the actor.

"I'll have to put this in my office," Reynolds said when he received the picture.

The college and the United Faculty reached agreement Thursday afternoon on a contract which was very much like the previous college offer, except that it postponed until next year the change in contract lengths.

If the contract can be prepared, circulated and ratified by Sept. 20, the economic provisions for this year will go into effect with the Oct. 5 paycheck.

All unit personnel are to receive a 4 percent increase. Teaching faculty will receive an additional $325 one-time payment within 30 duty days of the time of contract ratification.

Overload pay will be increased 20 percent. Current overload pay ranging from $15 to $19 per hour will be increased to $18 to $22.80 per hour.

The provisions for changing contract lengths next year are very much like those of the original college offer for this year--166 days will become 168 days, 196 will become 198 days, 180-day contracts will be abolished. Teachers on 180-day contracts will be changed to 168 or 198-day contracts.

Teaching faculty who work 180 duty days during the 1984/85 academic year will receive no reduction in

Circle K Honored At Convention

Palm Beach Junior College students returned victorious in August from the 29th Annual Circle K International Convention in Milwaukee. The annual event is held for the purpose of planning the general activity program for the coming year and rewarding local clubs or districts for their accomplishments.

Competing against 700 other clubs in five countries, PBJC Circle K was honored by winning the third place trophy for Total Club Achievement, 1983/84. The eleven member club was awarded this distinction in recognition of more than 3700 hours of volunteer service to campus and community plus an equal amount of time spent in fundraising and administrative duties.

The award culminates a year of accolades for the club. In April the club hosted the Florida District of Circle K Silver Anniversary Convention at the Hyatt-Palm Beach. After hundreds of hours of preparation, PBJC boasted one of the largest attendances on record for these gala celebrations. At the convention award ceremony, PBJC Circle K swept seven major categories including: 1st Place - Total Club Achievement, Outstanding Club Secretary, Outstanding Club Member, Interclub, 2nd Place - Club Newsletter, 3rd Place-Club President, Club Vice-President.

In addition to recognition from within the International Circle K structure, the PBJC club has been applauded by local community organizations. In January, the Palm Beach Blood Bank named PBJC Circle K as the recipient of the distinguished Public Service Award at their annual awards banquet.

Circle K is the world's largest collegiate service organization. Local clubs such as the PBJC group are co-sponsored by the school administration and area Kiwanis clubs. On the local front, PBJC is active with the Vinceremos Riding Center for handicapped youngsters, environmental and wildlife concerns, and this year has agreed to work with the administration in tackling the student retention problem. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Lake Worth, the Junior College Club President is Jeff Lewis and Dean Robert Moss serves as Faculty Advisor. Membership is open to any registered student and guests are welcome at the weekly meetings held Wednesday, 7:00PM in Room SS 203.

New Administrators Introduced

A reception for new members of the administrative/managerial staff was held last Tuesday afternoon at the Palm Beach Hilton.

Dr. Eissey introduced those who are new to the college, or have new assignments. The introductions included:

Jan Bussell, Chairman of the Occupational Division, and his wife.

Dr. Patricia Dyer, Vice President of Academic Affairs, and her husband.

Dr. Kathy Aiello, Senior Coordinator of Continuing Education, and her husband.

Dr. Margaret Maney, Provost of PBJC South, and her mother.

Nancy Cherry, Director of Development.

Dr. Tom Shostak, Dean of Instruction, PBJC Central, his wife and two children.

Reception For International Students

Dr. Eissey has announced a reception for international students in the Student Activity Center on Aug. 30, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

"This is an early opportunity for faculty and staff to get to know our foreign students," said Dr. Eissey, "and I would like to urge everyone to attend."

The reception was arranged by Hamid Faquire, who has been faculty advisor for foreign students since Paul Butler's retirement.

ontractual salary next year if they are reassigned to a 168 day contract.

Thursday's session began inauspiciously when the union brought in a restructured position paper which contained a number of provisions already turned down by the college plus a new demand for a 5.5 percent increase.

One main feature, however, was almost identical with a proposal already prepared by the college. Both sides postponed the changes in contract length until next year.

After explaining that funds identified by the union as sources for its proposed 5.5 percent increase had already been factored into the 4 percent offer, the college presented its new economic proposal, and that plan became the basis of the agreement.

The contract will be for one year, and there are no changes in academic rank. The college did agree to try to find a method for changing overload payments next year, and to meet with the union this term to seek a solution to this problem.

The college also removed a statement which said the economic offer was tentative dependent upon final enrollment figures for the Fall Term.

This was the 12th session in the current round of bargaining, and team members from both sides expressed pleasure that a satisfactory conclusion is in sight.

Some of the agreed-upon provisions need to be put into contract language, and incorporated into a completed document. The proposed contract will then be made available for three days in the libraries at each campus, and the union then sets a date for a ratification vote.

The final step needed to make the contract official is ratification by the board of trustees.

"We are extremely pleased that (Burt) took time out from his busy schedule to slip in for a quiet visit," Dr. Eissey said.

The presentation was made in Dr. Ottis Smith's office; if you don't believe it, just ask Marilyn Wojciechowski, Dr. Smith's secretary. She was the lucky recipient of a kiss from the famous PBJC alumnus.

"I melted in my shoes," she said, after she gained her composure. "I know a lot of people who are going to be envious."

Afterward, Reynolds was shown the future site of the Burt Reynolds Student Services Center from the balcony of the Administration Building.

The new building will be located due south of the Administration Building, and is expected to be completed in April 1985.

The $2.26 million structure will house the cafeteria, bookstore, recreation and lounge area, career/job placement, meeting rooms, and offices for student organization.

First Aid Course For Employees

All PBJC employees are invited to enroll in a multi-media Standard First Aid Course to be given Saturday, Sept. 15 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Students will learn how to handle emergencies such as poisoning, bleeding, burns, cuts, fractures and arrested breathing. Those who successfully complete the course will receive a three-year certification.

The fee is $1, and includes materials. Enrollment is limited to 16 applicants. For more information, contact Mary Cannon at 8066 or Donna DiSesa at 8012, or register in the Continuing Education Office.

On Saturday, Aug. 4, the computer department at the county school board had an equipment failure at a critical time--preparing for school opening. PBJC and Jack Kelly were able to come to the rescue on both Saturday and Sunday, and the job got done. Supt. Tom Mills sent a nice note to Dr. Eissey about the rescue effort.

Congratulations to Sue Frazier in Admissions. No, the dozen long-stemmed roses delivered to her on Monday weren't from a secret admirer nor even from an appreciative staff for surviving yet another fall registration, but from one of our international students for her assistance "above and beyond the call..." We want to add a special "thanks for all your efforts from the rest of us, too. ..C. Graham

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 44 September 4, 1984

We May Be In The Corridor

Late Surge Brightens Enrollment Picture

A late surge in enrollments almost, but not quite, brought student numbers at the beginning of our Fall Term up to those of last year. The 1984 total of 12,468 was 320 below last year, a drop of 2.5 percent.

Nancy Cherry

Meet Nancy Cherry

Talk a few minutes to Nancy Cherry, (a very pleasant thing to do), and you will probably hear about her new job as Director of Development of the college -- maybe something the Foundation is doing, or is planning to do.

Talk a few minutes more and she is almost sure to mention how good it feels to be back in Florida where she grew up, after an absence of a number of years in Macon, Ga.

Keep talking, however, and sooner or later, probably sooner, you will hear about Nancy Cherry's four children.

We had expected losses of two to three times that size following statewide reports of smaller enrollments at many colleges this fall, and were pleased with the late surge.

We were even more pleased with a projection in Institutional Research that enrollment for funding purposes may actually increase this year, by about 15.4 FTE's (full-time equivalents).

If the projection holds, PBJC's fundable FTE's will be about 4.2 percent below state assigned FTE's for this year--just within the five percent corridor which will make it unnecessary to return funds to the state.

"It is of the utmost importance that we stay within that five percent corridor," said Dr. Eissey. "Funding is too tough to get to take kindly to the idea of returning part of it."

Research departments throughout the state say college enrollments will be sharply down, but Harry Rudy, of the Division of Community Colleges, said reports are not yet on file.

"We have had preliminary indications that numbers are well below last year, but do not yet have the reports," he said.

Rudy said most of those he had talked to believe better economic conditions and the availability of jobs is the primary reason for smaller enrollments.

At PBJC, the decreases, while small in every instance, were system-wide: PBJC Central went from 7,500 to 7,357; PBJC North from 2,284 to 2,267; PBJC South from 1,767 to 1,741.

A Great Place For Lunch

Are you looking for a great place for lunch, one with good food and friendly service? Look no farther than the PBJC Hospitality Management Department.

Beginning Sept. 11, the Hospitality Management students will prepare and serve luncheons every other Tuesday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Room 103 of the Hospitality Management Building.

The menus for each luncheon are as follows:

Sept. 11 -- Various soups and salads
Sept. 25, Oct.2-- Brunch
Oct. 16, 23 -- Soups, salads and sandwiches
Nov. 6, 13 -- Soups, salads, sandwiches, and light luncheon items
Nov. 27, Dec. 4 -- Light luncheons (full-course meals)

The pricing for the meals is different this year; diners are asked to buy tickets for $3 each in the PBJC Bookstore to guarantee a reservation for each meal. Only 50 tickets per luncheon will be sold.

The price of the ticket will be applied toward the luncheon of the diner's choice--dessert, beverages, and specialty items will be extra.

Tickets will go on sale this week in the bookstore. For more information, call Charles Nachman at 8125.

With three sons in college--two in undergraduate studies and one in graduate study--and a daughter in high school, Nancy can give her full time and attention to her new job, but her children are never far from her thoughts.

After a three minute non-stop answer to a question about her children recently, Nancy stopped for breath and then said: "As you can see, my children are my chief claim to fame."

Nancy's most recent business experience is in the position of Executive Administrator to the President of the American Office Equipment Co., in Macon, Ga., for the past three years, and also in 1976-77.

In between, she was administrative assistant to the Vice President and General Manager for Piedmont Communications Corp., also in Macon.

She was a very active member in a number of volunteer organizations during her years as a wife and mother and career woman in Macon, and also became involved in local politics, serving at one time as a campaign treasurer.

Nancy says she is still in a very active learning phase about the college and the foundation.

At PBJC Glades, where a drop from 512 to 413 was recorded, some special circumstances, including withdrawal last year of 79 students from Glades Correctional Institute and late Continuing Education enrollments this year, meant that the actual reduction was almost at zero.

Dr. Gary Sims says there are some other enrollments not on our print out, and that the Glades is really our only campus this year that had an increase.

Although student semester hours are again down more than student numbers, this trend is more than offset for this one year by favorable changes in college preparatory courses and in the manner of reporting Law Enforcement classes.

Overall, the news is better than we had feared, and underscores the absolute necessity of working hard for student retention.

The 1984 PECO Amendment

Please take time to read and remember the enclosed material on a constitutional vote which will be on the Nov. 6 ballot. It is vital to the educational system of Florida that this amendment is ratified. It is NOT a new tax. It merely seeks authority to continue to bond against receipts of taxes already levied.

Florida voters will be called upon in the November 6 general election to ratify for the fourth time a constitutional amendment which has provided the major source of funding for public education buildings within recent years.

The proposal, called the Public Education Capital Outlay Amendment, is one of eight constitutional changes submitted by the 1983 and 1984 legislatures. One or more amendment proposals may be added to the November ballot by the petition process.

The Secretary of State's office has assigned ballot position No. 8 to the PECO proposal.

The PECO Amendment was submitted by the 1984 Legislature following passage of a bill (SB1152) extending the state's gross receipts tax on utilities to certain charges imposed by telephone and telecommunications companies.

The bill and the amendment were acted upon in order to clarify legal complications which arose as a result of technological advances and the divestiture of operating companies in American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The original capital outlay bond amendment was approved by Florida voters in 1963. In that year the voters endorsed by a two to one margin a constitutional plan of bond financing, backed by the gross receipts tax on utility companies, to finance construction of buildings for state universities, community colleges, and vocational-technical schools. Previously, Florida had financed such buildings largely on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Approval of the 1963 amendment came at a time of exploding enrollments as the population of Florida surged dramatically.

Bonding authority under the 1963 amendment expired on June 30, 1969 under a provision of a new constitution, and voters in a 1969 general election extended this authority for an indefinite period. Florida voters approved a new amendment in 1974 which extended the benefits to the public schools. The 1974 amendment provided that beginning July 1, 1975 and for 50 years thereafter all of the proceeds from the one and one-half percent gross receipts utility tax would be pledged for debt service on Public Education Capital Outlay bonds to be issued for the benefit of public schools, community colleges, vocational-technical schools,and universities.

In a resolution adopted by the State Board of Education last November honoring leaders of a citizens' organization which assumed the leadership in passage of the 1963 amendment, the Cabinet said that this program opened the doors of universities and community colleges to thousands of young people who otherwise would have been denied a higher education. The resolution said the amendment also prevented additional double sessions for many public schools and assisted in preparing Florida for a surge in industrial development.

As in 1963, when the building amendment was first proposed, and in 1969 and 1974 when the amendment was extended, growth remains a major problem in the state's educational system. The state universities and community colleges are continuing to experience increased enrollments, and the public schools are experiencing an influx of children of the "war babies" which is sending enrollment figures upward after a five-year leveling off period.

Although there has been a substantial building program in the university and community college areas since 1963, the physical plants of the nine universities and 28 community colleges have not yet been completed. Because Florida began developing its system of higher education rather late and experienced sudden heavy growth, building needs in the post-World War II period were almost overwhelming.

In some university campuses, classes are still being conducted in trailers, thereby placing limitations on class sizes. Some academic programs, such as in the fine and performing arts, are being conducted in antiquated quarters. There also are major outstanding needs for research laboratories, support areas, and student service projects which were delayed by other priorities.

Deferred maintenance is a critical problem in the universities as well as in other educational areas. The needs in this area have been growing while higher priority attention was given to expansion of plant for instructional spaces.

Adding to the classroom needs in the public schools is the necessity to reduce class sizes in the kindergarten through third grade area, and other sectors to meet legislative mandates.

All areas of education in Florida are being heavily impacted by the national accent upon scientific and technological innovation, and the need to prepare students for job opportunities in the new information and service society. This trend has been inspired in part by economic threats from abroad and by competition between leading states for new high-technology industries. New modern science research laboratories and equipment will be required to enable our universities to meet this competition.

An emerging problem for the universities is the housing of computers to meet the needs of students, administration, and research faculty. We are just beginning to measure the additional space requirements to house computers necessary to accomplish instruction and research goals.

Changes in technology and advances in business management practices are bringing about relocations and remodeling of campus support facilities. Some of these facilities such as central receiving units, stores and physical plant headquarters are in outmoded facilties and in locations not advantageous to most efficient operations. For example, Florida International University is still using abandoned airport buildings which have been remodeled to serve as temporary support service buildings.

One of the major pieces of reform legislation enacted by the Florida Legislature to help prepare Florida students for the new technological age was the RAISE bill calling for added classes in science, mathematics, and computer education in the high schools. RAISE is the acronym for Raising Achievement in Secondary Education.

A statewide survey of public high schools conducted recently by the Department of Education concluded that more than $101 million would be required to correct deficiencies in science facilities for ninth through twelfth grade students. These costs cover new construction, remodeling and renovation of buildings, and purchase of equipment.

The community colleges will have needs for additional classrooms, as well as laboratories, vocational education areas, support areas, and student service buildings. Renovation has been made a high priority in the community colleges.

Building requests from all divisions of education are subjected to intense scrutiny internally and externally to verify need and square footage of space requirements.

Capital outlay requests from the state universities, for example, are subjected to intensive review by the Budget Office of the Board of Regents, by the systemwide Capital Construction Committee comprised of representatives from all nine universities, by the Council of Presidents and Board of Regents, and finally by the Office of Educational Planning of the Department of Education. The latter office dispatches survey teams to verify the square footage and space requirements. Similar type checks are followed for the public schools and community colleges.

No new taxes will be required by the proposed new constitutional amendment, nor would there be any change in existing taxes. The amendment would merely allow the state to bond against gross receipts taxes already levied earmarked for educational buildings. The original gross receipts tax law was written in 1931 before satellites and other technical advances were envisioned and before the divestiture of the A.T. & T was advanced. The 1984 gross receipts law modernizes definitions in these areas.

Bonds issued under authority of the new PECO Amendment could be validated in time for sale in March or April, 1985.

New Security Measures

In an attempt to improve the safety and security of the campus, the following procedure has been approved and scheduled to be implemented on 9/4/84:

1) Employees who are on campus during non-duty working hours are requested to report their presence to the security office. This may be done in one of the following ways:

a) by stopping in the security office to inform them that you are on campus
b) through a phone call to an answering service which is in the security office
c) in the event the security office is not occupied, a clipboard notepad has been attached to the security door for your signing. We are also requesting that as you leave campus, you notify security so that as they are making their rounds of the campus, they can be sure that your area is secure.

In the near future, we anticipate that a button will be installed outside the security office. Upon activation of this button, an on-duty security officer will be contacted, then he will return immediately to the security office to provide assistance which may be requested. ... Tony Tate

Artist Exhibits Recent Works

Dr. George Pappas, art professor at the University of South Florida and husband of Dr. Sarah Pappas, will show a collection of his recent works in the PBJC Humanities Gallery, Sept.4-28.

The oil paintings are part of a larger continuing series loosely titled "Letters to Aphrodite," which concern attitudes toward love and religion, and relate to personal experiences in Florida and Greece. The artist returned from a sabbatical last year that included over two months in Greece, where he studied his heritage and the Byzantine icons.

A Boston native, Dr. George Pappas received his bachelor's degree from the Massachusetts College of Art, his master's degree from Harvard, and his doctorate from Pennsylvania State University.

He has exhibited in over 70 major exhibits and one-man shows, published books on art concepts and education, and authored numerous articles in art journals.

If you get a chance, stop by the HU Gallery to view this exhibit.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Especially For Women

Pilot Project To Teach Business Skills

Beginning this month, PBJC will be one of only three program sites in the nation that have been selected to participate in a pilot project for teaching displaced homemakers entrepreneurship skills.

The program will begin Saturday, Sept. 15 with an entrepreneurship self-assessment workshop that will be held from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in AH 215.

"This will let us and the woman know whether she is suited for the business world at this time," said Sandy Doyle, program specialist.

Women who believe they can succeed in business will then register for a class that will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. for six weeks. (The cost of the self-assessment workshop is $2, and the fee for the course is $15).

"This project is designed specifically for displaced homemakers, although it's open to everyone," Doyle said. "The first three weeks (six class sessions) will concentrate on home-based businesses."

The remaining sessions will deal with taxes, insurance, franchising, personnel management, and other "heavyweight" topics. An important part of each class will be guest speakers who are local business owners.

"We have an objective that each student will have developed a complete business plan by the end of the course," she said. "We are also aiming at placing at least half of the women in their own businesses within a year of taking the course."

She said the project is being funded by a grant from the National Displaced Homemakers Network, which also financed a trip to Washington, D.C. for Doyle and project director Jennifer McCormick to attend a three-day entrepreneurship training session.

The Network has established pilot projects

Union Offers Job To Hearing Officer

The officer who presided over the United Faculty vs. Palm Beach Junior College hearing July 25 and 26 has been offered a job by FEA United while he is still deliberating the case.

Thomas W. Young, III, who was appointed by the Public Employees Relations Commission to hear the unfair labor practices charge, informed the college through PERC clerk Fred Bohannon Wednesday that he had been approached by the union.

He said he had been offered a job as the attorney for FEA United, to replace Steven Been, who was counsel for the United Faculty in the July hearing.

Been has resigned his job effective Oct. 1, according to news accounts.

Young told reporters he was approached by Pat Tornillo, FEA United president, with the job offer, but said he refused to discuss the matter since it would be improper for him to do so.

The hearing officer has offered to step down from the case if either side requests that he do so.

The hearing involved the suspension of Dr. Joan Young and Frank Leahy, and covered two full days even though voluminous testimony during a lengthy hearing before a substitute board of trustees was made available.

The college has been placed in a very

Keeping Up With The Seniors

If the audience at the PGA Sheraton last Friday took what Nancy Goodwin had to say to heart there should be more Senior Group Theatre programs popping up all over Florida.

Goodwin, Senior Activities Specialist at PBJC, spoke to a group of recreation directors at the state-wide conference of the Parks and Recreation Association, outlining the theatre, skitlets, Play Factory, and other activities she initiated at the college.

"Our purpose is to provide a creative outlet for senior citizens in the performing arts," Goodwin said.

She said the Senior Players will perform "Three Men on A Horse," a Broadway comedy, in late December or early January, and the "Play Factory" was busy as ever recording audio tapes for the blind.

In a similar vein, she explained skitlets, the short scenarios presented year-round at area nursing homes, churches, schools, etc. and provided a demonstration.

"We are publishing a book of skitlets that will tell how to produce your own," she said. "It hopefully will be published by the college."

Yucatan Adventure

The mysterious land of the Mayas will be the destination of PBJC's Thanksgiving Field Trip-Study Tour, Nov. 20-25.

The program is sponsored by International/Intercultural Education. Six days will be spent in Yucatan, Mexico, and headquarters for the group will be the colonial city of Merida, gateway to the magic Mayaworld. Motor coach sightseeing will include the Mayan archaeological sites of Chichen-Itza, Uxmal, Labna, Sayil, and Progreso.

Participants may earn 2 hours credit or audit the program. The tour price of $325 (double) plus PBJC tuition includes airfare, hotel, all breakfasts and lunches, one dinner, all sightseeing, entrance fees and gratuities.

For additional information, please contact Joan Jones at 8137.

Musical Notes

Dr. Ken Keaton, classical guitarist and member of our Music Faculty, and Dr. Ron Manning, tenor, will perform Franz Schubert's Die Schöne Müllerin at Wynmore Village in Pompano Beach, October 14 at 8:00 p.m.

In addition, the PBJC Music Department will present the excellent series, Music in Time, hosted by James Galway and written by William Mann. This authoritative, comprehensive history of Western Music consists of sixteen one-hour programs on stereo video cassettes, and will be shown, one program per week, every Friday, 12:10-1:10 p.m. in HU 110. The showings are open to the entire college.

Among the titles to be featured are:

1) Vibrations and Pagan Rites 2) The First Secular Music 3) The Renaissance 4) The Golden Age 5) Luther and the Reformation 6) Music at the Great Courts 7) The Seasons and the Symphony 8) Vienna 9) The Revolutionary 10) The Romantics 11) Nationalism and Revolution 12) Land of Our Fathers 13) The Mighty Fistful 14) The Turn of the Century 15) War and Peace 16) Today and Tomorrow. ...Dr. H. LATE ANNOUNCEMENT- The theatre group of PBJC North, Northstage, will hold auditions for its next production, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" on Wed., Sept. 19, 8 PM in Rm. 106 at the North Campus. Seven men and six women from 18-60 are needed. Call Dr. Barry Russal at 622-2440, ext. 305 for more information.

John Anderson Stumps For Mondale/Ferraro

Former presidential candidate John Anderson, now stumping the nation for Mondale/Ferraro, paid us a visit at PBJC Central's Sunshine Court Wednesday, and was introduced by Ed Pugh as a "visiting professor." It was the former Senator's third visit to the campus.

Anderson admitted that he and Mondale differ in some policies, and said he was still committed to the formation of a third party, which he hoped would offer a national ticket in 1988

He said, however, that on the crucial issue of world peace, Mondale's position was much closer to his own than that of Reagan.

Anderson produced some alarming figures about the size of the budget deficit and the growth of the national debt, and said Mondale appears more willing than Reagan to face these harsh realities.

Although the weather was hot and humid, a crowd of some 300 students, most of them standing in the shade at the edge of the court, stayed throughout the appearance, which lasted nearly an hour.

As in past presidential years, Ed Pugh and the political union are in touch with all major candidates and have offered the use of PBJC facilities for appearances.

Enrollment Revisited

The day after the Monday Report article of last week on enrollment was completed, a new printout gave updated figures which brought us even closer to last year's totals.

The new totals: Combined registered students, 12,630, (12,788 last year). These break down to: Central--7,479 (7,500). North--2,278 (2,284). South--1,752 (1,767). Glades--421 (512). Mixed--700 (728).

A note from Dr. Gary Sims and Mary Orsenigo says that their real figure for last year when the GCI situation is taken into account should be 402 instead of 512. If so, and we certainly would not want to argue with them, this would mean that Glades had an actual increase of 19 students.

A word of caution: The projections that we could be within the five percent corridor carried in the Monday Report last week were only projections--not fact. We all still need to work very hard on retention for them to become fact.

unusual legal position as a result of the job offer to the hearing officer, according to Jesse Hogg, PBJC's labor attorney.

"So far as we know, a job offer under these circumstances is unprecedented in Florida labor history," Hogg said. His firm is researching alternatives to present to Dr. Eissey and the board.

At this time, it would be impossible to predict whether it will be necessary to hold another hearing if Young steps down. Both sides would have to stipulate that the transcript from the first hearing could be used by his successor.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 46 September 17, 1984

Going Backward In Tallahassee

Moving Forward Toward Oct. 5 Payday

While the case of the union job offer to a hearing officer rumbled on at the state level last week, college and union officials here at home worked quietly and efficiently to prepare a contract and present it to members of the United Faculty for ratification.

It is our understanding that the last of the ratification votes is scheduled for today, and that results could be presented to the college as early as tomorrow.

If so, there will be time for the trustees to act at their meeting of Sept. 26, and for payroll work to get underway so that pay increases in the contract could show up in paychecks of Oct. 5.

The Oct. 5 payday is a special one all around, since it will be the first payday when increases can be granted to community college personnel. As you may remember, this delay in pay increases was a provision of the appropriations act this year.

Oct. 5 should also be the day when salary changes for other personnel will show up in the pay check, where changes are being recommended. Recommendations will be going to the board on Sept. 26.

But while forward steps were being taken in labor relations at home, things were busily moving backwards in Tallahassee.

By week's end, hearing officer Thomas Young had removed himself from consideration of the Leahy/Young suspension unfair labor practice charge at the behest of the union.

Young had earlier reported an offer from Pat Tornillo, president of FEA/United, for Young to become attorney for the union to replace Stephen Been, who had retired effective Oct. 1. He offered to withdraw if either side requested, and the union did.

Young's employers, the Public Employees Relations Commission, were left with

PBJC Politicos Plan Active Week

The countdown to Election '84 is 50 days, and poltical activities on campus are beginning to rev up.

According to Edwin Pugh, social science instructor, PBJC will launch its attack on voter registration records beginning today, and tomorrow evening, the college's newly-formed Republican Club will host a meeting to which county college and high school students have been invited.

Voter registration will be conducted in the Social Science and Business buildings all this week, and then will move to the

CLAST Review Sections

NOTE TO ALL CENTRAL CAMPUS TEACHING FACULTY: Please read the following to all classes that may have sophomore students.

If you will be taking the CLAST test on Sept. 29 and would like a review of computation and communication skills, the CPI Computer Lab is available Monday - Thursday, between 7:30 a.m. and 9:30 p.m., and on Fridays (report to AD 200) between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m.

An essay writing review will be held on Central Campus, Sept. 26 at 2 p.m. in CE 121.

The Reading Lab is open on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 12:10 p.m. to 2:10 p.m., and on Tuesday and Thursday, 9:15 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Sample copies of the CLAST exam are on file in the reserve section of the library (3rd floor)... Don Cook, Director, Counseling Services

David A. Forshay (1922-1984)

The Monday Report has received two submissions from readers in regard to Dave's untimely death on Sept. 7. We have edited for duplication of material and brevity.

David Forshay was an instructor at Palm Beach Junior College from 1955 to 1973. He was a patriot at a time when traditional American ideas were being questioned on all sides; he was resolute in his belief that the military strength of the nation was of paramount importance; he recognized covert threats to our system and he believed in countering them with like measures.

Dave was an authority on local history and was especially interested in the influence of the railroads on the development of Florida. In his friendly and outgoing manner, he shared whatever resources he possessed without stint. He had the unique quality of making each day seem better than the one before.

In a similar submission, Eleanor Myatt pointed out that Dave was born in Lake Worth of a pioneer family, his mother having been one of the city's earliest teachers. Her concluding paragraphs follows:

State and local history, notably that of the Seminole Indians, were Mr. Forshay's prime field of interest. He was for some time Treasurer of the Palm Beach County Historical Society and was especially proud of his success in getting a bridge on the Beeline Highway named in honor of Billy Bowlegs, the famous tribal Chief of the Seminole War period in the last century.

Those of us who fondly recall our memories of Dave Forshay will not soon forget his warm, colorful personality; his "hail-fellow" good nature; his infectious enthusiasm; and his loyalty to the college and to the locality that nurtured him. In our highly mobile age, when so many of us dwell so far from our original home, David Forshay will be greatly missed, both by us as individuals, and by Palm Beach County, where, with a deep sense of his roots, he was privileged to spend nearly all of his mortal days.

Color, Line and Wardrobe Planning

The Continuing Education Division will sponsor a seminar on "Color, Line and Wardrobe Planning" Tuesday, Sept. 18 from 4-7 p.m. in CE 121.

The class will deal with the psychological effects of color, figure types, personality styles, fashion and fad for men and women.

"It will provide a good overview of the color planning systems that are popular today," said Jennifer McCormick, program coordinator. The fee is $3, and all students, faculty and staff are welcome.

President's Reception

Spouses are definitely included in the invitations to the President's Reception on Sept. 30, even though the address was only to the faculty member or administrator, according to Dr. Elisabeth Erling.

Keeping track of changes in marital status has become almost impossible, Dr. Erling says, so only the employee was addressed--but a cordial invitation is issued nonetheless to the employee's spouse.

Dugout Club Golf Tournament Set For Sept. 29

The PBJC Dugout Club will sponsor its Second Annual Dugout Club Open Golf Tournament Saturday, Sept. 29 at Frenchmen's Creek Country Club in North Palm Beach. The shotgun start will be at 9:30 a.m. with a four-man scramble format.

"The 1983 golf tournament was a huge success, and the proceeds helped the Pacers win their first-ever state title," said Frank Cacciatore, head baseball coach. "This year, we are looking to repeat both successes."

Trophies for first and second place, as well as prizes for closest pin, longest drive and door prizes will be awarded. Refreshments will be served on the course, and a buffet luncheon will follow the round.

The cost for the day, including carts, green fees, lunch and refreshments, is $40 per person. The field will be limited to 36 foursomes.

Application forms may be obtained by calling Frank Cacciatore at 439-8048 (days) or 793-8747 (evenings), or they can be picked up at the PBJC Central Gym.

Luncheon Tickets On Sale

Tickets are on sale in the PBJC Bookstore for the luncheon to be sponsored by the Hospitality Management Department on Tuesday, Sept. 25 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Dining Room.

The menu will include brunch items, plus tea, coffee and desserts.

The tickets are $3 each, which will guarantee a reservation and will also be applied toward the price of the meal. Dessert, beverage and specialty items are extra.

Volunteers For Run

Nothing succeeds like success. Because we were so successful last year with the Golden Anniversary Run, we're going to do it again Saturday, Nov. 10.

In addition to a five-mile run which will start at 7:30 a.m., there will be a half-mile fun run beginning at 8:15 a.m., for children ages five to 12. As was the case last year, the course will wind through John Prince Park around the shores of Lake Osborne, while the children's race will be held at the soccer field in the park.

Runners are picky. They like their races well-organized, and that means we need people to help at the registration and refreshment tables, and to help with timing and other miscellaneous duties.

Not only will we have 500 or so potential students on campus, but the proceeds from the event will go into a special campus beautification fund set up by the PBJC Foundation.

Let's have another successful run! Please fill in the form below and send it to Nancy Cherry, or call George Matsoukas at 8073 and volunteer. ...Second Annual Run Committee

A Great Start At The Dolly Hand Center

The Monday Report thought it was about time you got an update on how things are going at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center, and we are happy to be able to report that the season is off to a very good start.

Judy Schiele surprised us with a report that B.J. Thomas drew about 450 people to the 500-seat auditorium Sept. 6, even though the donation was much higher than the usual one in the Glades--$17.50.

Earlier, on Aug. 29, the Cruse Family drew almost as many--425 to 430.

Judy reports that about half the house is sold out with season tickets for the Fall series, which includes:

Landis and Company, Magic...Mystery...Fascination... On Oct. 4, 8 p.m., donation of $8.

The Fantasticks, by the Vero Beach Theatre Guild, Oct. 25, 8 p.m., $5 donation.

Father Flanagan's Boys Town Choir, one stop in a national tour, Nov. 17, 8 p.m., donation $8.

The Messiah, the Christmas part of Handel's oratori by the Masterworks Chorus of the Palm Beaches, Dec. 14, 8 p.m., donation $12.

People from all over are beginning to discover the Dolly Hand, and the B.J. Thomas audience had folks from Moore Haven, Ft. Lauderdale, North Miami, and other coastal cities.

"B.J. was only scheduled for an hour and fifteen minutes," Judy says. "But we made sure he got some home cooking and a real friendly audience and he stayed for more than two hours!"

Judy and her advisors are busy planning the Spring Series, and already have attractions scheduled for February and March, and are negotiating for April and May.

Members of the PBJC family always get a special welcome in the Glades, and if you can attend any performance at the Dolly Hand, give Judy a call at 8160. She'll be happy to reserve seats for you if there are any left.

cafeteria Sept. 24-28 and Oct. 1-5.

"This will be our most ambitious campaign to date," Pugh said. "The Pacer Politicos are seeking to become one of Florida's "High Five" by bettering their past record of nearly 300 registrants."

The drive may be fueled by the student GOP meeting which will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 7 p.m. in CE 123 at PBJC Central.

The new club will host Celina Klee, college coordinator of the Reagan-Bush campaign in Palm Beach County, and other members of a staff sent from Washington.

Area high school and college students, as well as the general public, are invited. The speakers will provide campaign materials and set campaign goals.

"Our overall goals are to get the Reagan-Bush ticket here on campus, and to become the largest student activities unit," Pugh said.

Interior Design Students

About 15-20 Interior Design students were inducted into the Florida Interior Design Society, a professional organization for residential interior designers, on Sunday, Sept. 16 in Ft. Pierce.

According to Pam Hacker, adjunct instructor and sponsor of the group, many of these students are also members of Interior Motives, the design club at PBJC.

Announcements

Re-roofing of the Technical Laboratory Building has started and the Student Activity Center will start shortly. We are anticipating Continuing Education Building, Physical Education Classrooms, and both buildings of the Center for Personalized Instruction will be starting within the next 90 days. ...T. Tate

PBJC North Offers Mini-mesters

It's not too late to register for the Fall Term at Palm Beach Junior College North.

Beginning Tuesday, Oct. 16, PBJC North will offer a "mini-mester" schedule of classes that run for eight weeks and meet twice a week instead of once. The mini-mester will then end Dec. 13, the same as the regular term.

"Most of these courses will be held in the late afternoon or evening," said Dr. Sarah Pappas, PBJC North dean of instruction. "We are offering them because some students may still wish to enroll for the Fall Term."

The schedule includes a variety of subjects: statistics, intermediate algebra, business law, art appreciation, fundamentals of speech, chemistry, and others.

the task of ruling on a three-part motion by Jesse Hogg, college labor attorney, prior to the appointment of another hearing officer.

Hogg asked for dismissal because of improper and unethical conduct on the part of the charging party, and included a prior previously unreported incident in addition to the job offer in his argument.

He asked that the union be required to pay all additional costs if a rehearing is ordered.

He also asked that the commission rule on a previous motion to dismiss.

It is not known at this time whether another hearing will be necessary. Young told newspaper reporters he would not recommend a rehearing, but it is not certain that the commission and both sides will adopt the same viewpoint.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE
PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Volume VI, Number 47 September 24, 1984

Freeze On Administrative Salaries

Contract, Salary Adjustments Go To Trustees

A new contract for the faculty and salary adjustments for other college personnel will be on the agenda for the trustees of Palm Beach Junior College Wednesday, Sept. 26, 7:30 p.m. in Conference C at PBJC Central.

The administration will recommend board approval of the contract ratified last week with only two negative votes by the United Faculty of PBJC, a union of teachers, librarians, and counselors.

The contract calls for a four per cent raise for all unit members and a $325 one-time payment for teachers plus a 20 percent increase in overload pay.

The administration will also recommend a four percent raise for all other full-time personnel at the college with the exception of administrators and supervisors at salary grade C50 and above, whose salaries will be frozen at the 1983/84 level. C50 begins at $26,386.68.

The salary freeze was necessary because of poor funding from the legislature this year, the failure of anticipated enrollment increases to materialize, and other economic factors, according to Dr. Edward M. Eissey, PBJC president.

"When we discovered that some adjustments had to be made in payroll costs, we decided that the freeze on administrative and supervisory salaries was better than diluting the small raise we were giving to everyone else," Dr. Eissey said.

The freeze applies to all except five members of the administrative staff and to a number of supervisors.

The salary adjustments, both union and non-union, are to be reflected in paychecks due on Oct. 5.

Upgrading Faculty Skills In Local Industry

Upgrading faculty skills through work programs in local industry is planned as part of a recent grant from the State Department of Education to Palm Beach Junior College.

"We are pleased that our grant proposal has been funded," said Dr. Edward M. Eissey, "and we will put the funds to good use." The grant from the 1984-85 Postsecondary Education Programs of Excellence project was for $62,467.

The idea of upgrading faculty skills through work programs has been introduced to several of the county's largest employers, and the college anticipates excellent cooperation, according to Dr. Patricia Dyer.

It is planned to offer such programs to six faculty members for periods of about six weeks during this year, Dr. Dyer said.

Other aspects of the grant involve the offering of some 10 courses in computer literacy to faculty members of the college and of the county school system. Five will be beginning courses and five in advanced computer literacy.

Another program funded by the grant will involve a computer lending service, which will allow faculty members hands-on experience with small personal computers for a limited period of time.

The Programs of Excellence project has the purpose of strengthening math, science and computer education at colleges throughout the state.

Seminar Will Discuss Good Eating Habits

"You Are What You Eat", a free seminar on nutrition, will be sponsored by the PBJC Continuing Education Division Tuesday, Sept. 25 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. in Rm. AH 101 at PBJC Central.

The guest speaker will be Paul Mendelsohn, M.P.H., R.D., a registered dietitian with the Palm Beach County Health Department.

The lecture is the second in a series of six seminars on various health topics that will be held at PBJC every other Tuesday until Nov. 20. Upcoming topics include fitness, emotional health, medication and health care delivery systems (including HMOs). Each of the seminars will take a wellness approach to health.

Board Agenda (cont'd from P 1) 1

President's Report for last year and other publications, a proposed contract with the County Fire Service for training paramedics, preliminary plans for a new student cafeteria entrance area, a request to the state for an educational plant survey, and some 25 other items of a routine nature.

Hire Ed For Another Year

Dr. Eissey has decided to continue his "Hire Ed" program for another year and has already accepted a bid to work a half day at PBJC South in January.

That leaves 11 slots open, and you can "hire" the president to work in your area as an extra person during a rush period, to cover for a vacation, or just to get him acquainted with what your job is really like.

Requests should go to Dr. Elisabeth Erling, mail station #18, in writing with some suggested dates, types of job, and the supervisor. Dr. Erling will get back to you after checking the president's schedule.

There were more requests than could be filled this year, but the extra requests were discarded after a schedule was made up for this year, so a new schedule for 1985 will be put together.

Dr. Eissey will report to Bill Vasile at PBJC North for maintenance and grounds clean-up in October, and will do the same job in November for Bruce Boden at PBJC Central. On Dec. 5, he will report for work as a technical assistant to Dr. Flatley in Dental Health.

Hearing Officer Leaves PERC, Joins Union

The Tallahassee drama of the hearing officer who got hired out of his job by one of the litigants lurched along toward its conclusion last week.

The hearing officer, Thomas Young, resigned his position with the Public Employees Relations Commission and accepted the job of chief counsel for FEA/United, the state organization with which the United Faculty of PBJC is affiliated.

Curiously enough, the resignation came on the exact day he was to have filed his report on the Leahy/Young suspension unfair labor practice charge he was considering when the job offer came from Pat Tornillo, president of FEA/United.

If published news accounts are to be believed, Tornillo at first denied having known that Young was on an FEA/United case when he made the offer. Later, he said he may have known about it, but forgot. Then he said he might have known, but the important thing was to get that job filled with the right man.

And finally, as of Thursday morning, he was quoted as saying he really didn't offer the job, he just asked if Young would be interested.

Young's resignation apparently made moot a motion made earlier in the week by Jesse Hogg, labor attorney for the college, asking that PERC set aside Young's order withdrawing from the case, and rule first on an earlier motion by Hogg to dismiss the whole thing.

At week's end, it was clear that Tornillo's untimely inquiry and Young's unseemly haste to get into a higher paying job have created a sticky mess which probably cannot be resolved by PERC without damage to the one side or the other.

To be compelled to hold another hearing would be an obvious imposition. On the other hand, a hearing is held for express purpose of giving a hearing officer first-hand knowledge of the various witnesses and their testimony, and this cannot be obtained from a record.

In any case, the next move is up to PERC.

Freeze For C50 And Above

Trustees Ratify Contract, Grant Pay Raises

Palm Beach Junior College trustees ratified the union contract Wednesday, and also authorized 4 percent raises for all full-time employees with the exception of 31 administrators and supervisors, whose salaries were frozen at last year's levels.

In announcing the administrative salary freeze onall salaries at C50 and above, Dr. Eissey said the raises given other employees would have been only 2.7 percent except for the savings in the freeze and other economies.

Dr. Eissey said he hoped and believed that the freeze would be effective for this year only.

Necessary preparations are underway for the salary increases to show up in the paychecks of Oct. 5.

The board also acted favorably on the promotion in rank of five faculty members. Dr. Noreen Poole, in Nursing, went from Associate Professor to Professor. Philip Gans, Occupational, went from Instructor to Senior Instructor. Philip Madson, Division I/North Campus, went from Sr. Instructor to Assistant Professor. Raymond Van Pelt, Division II/South Center, went from Sr. Instructor to Assistant Professor. Gladys Anderson, Library/Glades, went from Sr. Instructor to Assistant Professor.

Carroll Peacock presented a plaque to the college signifying a first place in design award from the American Institute of Architects for the North Campus architecture.

Dr. Philip Lichtblau, board chairman, reporting on a recent meeting of the State Board of Community Colleges, told of a special computer program for the handicapped developed at Valencia Community College.

The board received the President's Report, the Fall Continuing Education Bulletin, the CE Bulletin for Health Professionals

RETENTION BULLETIN

Education: The Gift Only You Can Give Yourself - (For Students)

Students Are The Center Of Our Attention - (Faculty And Staff)

Together We Build Your Dream - (Partnership)

The three slogans above have been selected for use during the year, but if your submission is not among those above, chances are you will see it sometime this year on one of our college marquees.

In addition to the 42 original ideas, a total of 44 more ideas were submitted along with votes on the first 42. The first two slogans were among the top vote getters, and the last was one of the new submissions.

Dr. Melvin Haynes and the subcommittee working with him were impressed with both quality and quantity of the response. Here are a few other ideas on retention that are in various stages of workup. Please call Dr. Haynes' office if you have other helpful suggestions.

- Beachcomber to carry student slogan every week, Monday Report will carry slogan for faculty and staff.
- Design contest for poster for Partnership slogan, with some worthwhile prizes.
- A Marquee week throughout the county, perhaps featuring retention.
- Retention theme at the Fair exhibit this year.
- A fun-type social event with special emphasis on participation by faculty and students.

These promotional activities will be effective only if they help to remind you that helping students is why we are all here. Students Are The Center Of Our Attention.

Hospitality Club Plans Dinners

The Palm Beach Junior College Hospitality Unlimited Club will sponsor two spaghetti dinners Wednesday, Oct. 10 and Oct. 24 from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in the Hospitality Management Dining Room at PBJC Central.

The menu will include spaghetti with meat sauce, tossed salad, and homemade rolls with butter--all you can eat--for $4 per person. Coffee, tea and dessert will be 25-50 cents extra.

"At the dinner on Oct. 24, we will be selling fresh baked bread and rolls to go," said Lucille Nicolosi, club spokesperson.

The Hospitality Unlimited Club is the student group of the PBJC Hospitality Management Department. The proceeds from the dinners will be used to help modernize the kitchen and purchase equipment, Nicolosi said.

For more information, call Keith Carfi or Charles Nachman at 8125.

and the Institute of New Dimensions Catalog.

After adopting some editorial changes suggested by board member Williard Findling, the board adopted a new rule on Liquidated Damages.

Dick Jones, Purchasing, explained that a bid of $119,556 for food service equipment for the PBJC North cafeteria was $62,500 less than the same equipment would have cost if it had been purchased as an alternate in the construction contract.

Dr. Eissey announced that there would be a demonstration in the Computer Assisted Drafting Lab at 7 p.m. on Oct. 17, just prior to the next board meeting.

Nationally-Known Speaker Here October 12

A dynamic speaker with a national reputation in academic advising with a special emphasis on retention and recruiting, Dr. David S. Crockett, will be at PBJC Central on Oct. 12.

Dr. Crockett, who is related to THE Davy Crockett and who has already heard all possible remarks about the king of the wild frontier, speaks from a seemingly inexhaustible storehouse of information and anecdote about the real world of college life.

He has directed over 40 national academic advising conferences attended by college administrators and faculty from more than 700 colleges and universities.

He does not pull his punches.

Dr. Crockett is scheduled for work sessions in the Continuing Education Lecture Hall from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. with the Retention Committee, Counselors, and Division and Department Chairpersons.

At 2 p.m., there will be a general session for the Faculty and Professional Staff in the Allied Health Auditorium. Although classes scheduled for that hour will be held, all faculty and professional staff not scheduled for classroom teaching at that hour will be expected to be in attendance.

Dr. Crockett is Vice President of Public Affairs for the American College Testing Program.

If we are going to be serious about retention this year, and we are, Dr. Crockett is one of the best sources we could find for information and inspiration.

Candidates Day

Debates by 44 candidates for 22 local offices and a visit from a state Democratic Party official will highlight the "Candidates Day" to be sponsored by PBJC Friday, Oct. 5.

Between 7:30 a.m. and 1:10 p.m., pairs of opposing candidates will debate and answer questions for 30 minutes in various social science classes, according to Ed Pugh, social science famulty member.

Each pair will appear before two social science classes, he said. He expects state senators, congressmen, and council members to attend, as well as candidates for sheriff and tax collector.

So far, the two tax collector hopefuls--Allen Clark (D) and Bob Nichols (R)--have been scheduled for the 8:40-9:40 a.m. time slot.

Later in the afternoon, the office seekers will meet students and members of the community in the PBJC cafeteria, Pugh said. The final day of a voter registration drive will be conducted simultaneously in the cafeteria.

Ruth Ann Bransom, state chairman of the Mondale/Ferraro campaign, will appear in the SAC Lounge around 11 a.m. to answer any questions, Pugh said. She is a former state and national chairman of the League of Women Voters.

For those who have questions about the charter government issue or the amendments to the state constitution which are on the ballot, the League of Women Voters will have representatives also in the Student Activity Center.

GLOBAL GATEWAY

Fall 1984 Palm Beach Junior College Vol. 1, No. 3

ACHIEVING A GLOBAL PERSPECTIVE

Colleges and universities across the US are looking for ways to bring a global perspective to the ivory tower: by internationaling their curricula, making the world an integral part of more courses and majors; by encouraging more Americans to study overseas; and by better tapping the potential offered by a growing number of foreign students in the U.S..

The reasons for the new emphasis on international education are partly humanitarian. With international travel and global telecommunications becoming commonplace, the world continues to shrink. In addition, college and government officials are pointing out with increased frequency that U.S. security and international understanding are threatened if the country fails - as many say it has- to train the experts it needs in diplomacy, area studies, and languages. But the reasons are also economic. The U.S. is increasingly dependent on the global market for its prosperity. Today fluctuations in international prices and production have direct effects on American lives. One in eight U.S. manufacturing jobs depends on foreign trade, according to the Commerce Department.

Joseph Downer, vice-chairman of Atlantic Richfield, recently told a gathering of college officials, "The only revelent market today is the world market". Very few college graduates are sufficiently prepared in world affairs and foreign cultures, he added, but increasingly they are taking jobs that require some knowledge of the world.

In the eyes of many, U.S. students will have to overcome a number of American traits - ranging from isolationism to cultural condescension- if they are to open their education to encompass the world. Despite dour appraisals, there are some indications that the U.S. is beginning to pay more attention to the world around it. The federal government has shown renewed interest in international education. A number of cities and school districts are increasing, or reimposing, language requirements for high school graduates. Colleges from Florida to California report efforts to help train primary and secondary teachers to teach international subjects and to encourage teachers to travel and study abroad.

YUCATAN ADVENTURE

PBJC students, faculty and community members will have the exciting opportunity to combine Mexican travel with study this Thanksgiving. Yucatan Adventure is a 6 day field trip-study tour presented by International/Intercultural Education of PBJC. The program will feature out-of-country travel from November 20-25. The travel agenda includes the Yucatan Peninsula's most fascinating areas: Chichen-Itza, Uxmal, Merida, Sayil, Labna, and Progreso.

Nine hours on-campus lectures will concentrate on the history and culture of the Yucatan. Participants may earn two hours credit or the program may be audited. The tour price is 285.00 (double)plus PBJC tuition. The price includes round trip air from Miami, hotel, all breakfasts and lunches, one dinner, extensive sightseeing by motor coach, museums, and archaeological sites. Further information is available from Joan Gotay Jones, Central Campus. Tel: 439-8137

JAPAN '85

As part of the International/Intercultural Program of PBJC, the business department is planning a 16-day tour of Japan, May 11-26, 1985. The purpose of this trip is to help participants acquire a better understanding of Japanese culture and management styles. Highlights of the tour will be visits to the Tokyo Stock Exchange, Canon Camera factory, Nissan Motors plant, Imperial Gardens, Mt. Fuji, Hakone, Kamakura, Nikko, the famous gardens and temples in Kyoto, Hiroshima, Miyajima on the Inland Sea, and the Hakata Doll factory and Japanese university in Fukuoka. Plans are being made to stay in at least one Japanese Inn. Participants may earn 6 hrs. of course credit as follows: 3 hrs. MAR 2995- International Current Business Practices; 3 hrs. ECO 2001 - Comparative Economics. For information call Sue Smith, 439-8124 or Ann Steckler, 439-8122.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The International/Intercultural Advisory Committee for 1984-85 is composed of the following persons: Dr. Patricia Dyer, Chairperson, Gladys Anderson, Helen Darcey, Hamid Faquir, Otis Harvey, Joan Gotay Jones, George Matsoukas, Stafford Mooney, Frank Mossadeghi, Ray Van Pelt, Helen Schultz.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

P.B.J.C. is proud to announce that 146 foreign students are enrolled this term. They were honored at an evening reception on August 30 in the Student Center. Hamid Faquir, Foreign Student Advisor, introduced them to various college officials. Also present were representatives from the Multi-Cultural Affairs Group, International/Intercultural Committee, and several seamen from HMS Discovery.

MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS

The first meeting of the Center for Multicultural Affairs of the 1984/85 academic year was held on September 12. The major topic on the agenda was the election of officers for the new year. Mr. Edward Lisvosky (American Polish Club), Chairperson; Mr. Tom Kasper (American Russian Club), Vice Chairperson; Ms. Sara Glenn (Le Cercle Francais), Chairperson Elect; Mrs. Laila Lahtinen (American Finnish Tourist Club), Secretary; and Mrs. Mae Iverson (Sons of Norway), Treasurer. There will be at least one 300.00 scholarship awarded on or before the winter term. The Scholarship Committee will decide how the funds will be awarded, and to whom.

Legislative Forum Set For Oct. 18

Political Science in the form of practical politics is very much in evidence around PBJC these days. On Friday we completed our annual Candidates Day and our voter registration drive. Thursday we will have a town meeting for county commission candidates--see accompanying story.

And on the following Thursday, Oct. 18, the college will host a forum for legislators and legislative candidates. Response to telephoned invitations has been good, and we anticipate a lively and productive session which may be repeated annually.

The forum, which will be entirely a question and answer session, will get underway at 10 a.m. in the Continuing Education Lecture Hall and you are invited.

Questions from the floor will be directed to a moderator, who will be Dr. Eissey, and question topics will be largely confined to education, particularly community college education, unless such questions are exhausted in the one-hour time limit--a highly unlikely eventuality.

Prior to the forum, the visiting legislators and legislative candidates will be invited to a reception in Conference C. They will not be wined and dined. They will be coffee'd and danished--and welcomed by administrative/management types.

After leaving the welcome mat upstairs, they will be ushered to the hot seat downstairs, to coin a couple of phrases.

Dr. Eissey's invitation to the event says that the purpose of the first half hour is to get to know each legislator and candidate better--as a person. The last hour will give us a chance to get to know them better as a legislator.

The forum should provide you with an unexcelled opportunity to observe first-hand

Town Meeting Scheduled For Thursday

Palm Beach County Commissioners and commissioner candidates will be called on to give their ideas for positive change management in the county at a town meeting Thursday, Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Allied Health Lecture Hall at PBJC Central.

The meeting is a joint effort between the college and the Futures Group of Palm Beach County.

Commissioners Ken Spillias and Dorothy Wilken, as well as candidates for the vacant commission seats, will choose three areas of priority that they feel will be most important between now and the year 2000.

These areas include health care services, cultural arts, water and waste water management, public education, role of county government, low income housing/general welfare, employment, parks and recreation, safety and transportation.

Their 12-minute presentations will

Students Are The Center Of Our Attention

Free Kidney Testing

The Palm Beach Junior College Student Health Clinic and the Palm Beach County Kidney Association will sponsor a free kidney testing and prevention program Tuesday and Thursday, Oct. 16 and 18 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the PBJC Central Health Clinic.

The same program will then be given at PBJC North Monday, Oct. 22 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The testing will not involve the drawing of blood samples.

Six warning signs of possible kidney disease are: burning or difficulty during urination, more frequent urination, passage of bloody-appearing urine, puffiness around the eyes and swelling of hands and feet, pain in the small of the back, and high blood pressure.

For more information, call Mary Cannon at 8066.

The UFOs Are Coming!

The students in the PBJC Hospitality Unlimited Club have had their telescopes trained on the farthest corner of the galaxy, watching the approach of a fleet of UFOs.

The UFOs are coming to Earth and to Palm Beach Junior College. Judging by their progress, the students expect the UFOs to land in the Sunshine Court at PBJC Central on Monday, Oct. 15 at 9 a.m.

Get ready for the invasion! (Stay tuned for further reports).

Drama Students Search For Play Props

Does anyone happen to have an 1890's cigar humidor or a moustache brush just lying around? If so, Palm Beach Junior College needs to borrow them.

The humidor and brush are just two items from the Gay Nineties that PBJC Drama students will need when they perform Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements' "Strange Bedfellows" later this month.

They are also looking for a small mirror (to use with the moustache brush), ash trays, fireplace grate and andirons, speaking tube, quill pen holder and three quills, opera glasses, cigar bands, silver card tray and two calling cards, watch and chain, Persian rug, coffee pot, satchel, round lace table cloth and 13 lace doilies, seven black prayer-books, silver tea set (tray, pot, sugar bowl and cream pitcher), two china plates for cake, four china cups and saucers, four spoons, liquor decanters, three highball glasses, chafing dish and a magnum of champagne (doesn't have to be filled).

"Any individual or business that lends us these items will get ample credit in our program," said Frank Leahy, director.

The play, which is a comedy dealing with the suffragette movement in 1896, will open Thursday, Oct. 25 at 8:14 p.m. in the SAC Lounge at PBJC Central. The final performance will be Nov. 3.

For more information, call Frank Leahy or Art Musto at 8139 or the Humanities Department at 8142.

include a statement on why they chose the three particular priorities and how they would effect positive change using a concrete workable example of a program or project.

The meeting will be moderated by Chris Enyart, news reporter at WPTV-Channel 5.

"Palm Beach County is definitely a community at the crossroads," said Julie Noble, Futures Group president. "We believe community leaders must be responsible and aware shapers of the future. We can preserve and even enhance the quality of life in our communities if we plan strategically and make wise decisions today."

"Coffee With Ed" Schedule Begins Oct. 15

Coffee with Ed, an innovation which has become an institution, will begin again, for the sixth year, on Oct. 15, when the first group of faculty members have been invited to a no-holds-barred communication session with the president.

Most of the faculty members at PBJC Central have already been scheduled into a session, according to Dr. Elisabeth Erling, whose office keeps track of these things for Dr. Eissey. Sessions at other campuses are being arranged.

In his first year in office, Dr. Eissey sought a means for a live communication link with the faculty, where viewpoints would not go through the filter of other people, or be inhibited by any formal meeting arrangement.

His innovative series with the unusual name keeps the group small for a friendly chat where anybody can say, or ask, anything. Experience has shown, however, that it is better not to ask about snook fishing. If you do, you may not get a chance to ask about anything else.

"Holiday In The City"

PBJC employees will have the chance to celebrate the 1984 holidays with a buffet dinner at a posh hotel--providing the Social, Cultural and Welfare Committee gets 50 reservations by Oct. 30.

As a sequel to last year's successful "Holiday in the Country," the committee has planned "Holiday in the City" for Friday, Nov. 30 at the Palm Beach Ocean Hotel.

Cocktails will be served from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. with a buffet dinner following. There will be a cash bar ($1.50 for house drinks, beer and wine and $2 for name brands). Those who choose not to imbibe can partake of the buffet only for $12.

The menu will include roast sirloin of beef carved, sweet and sour chicken, baked lasagne, seafood Newburg, assorted salads, beverages and desserts.

"We need to have 50 people reserved by Oct. 30 or else we can't have the dinner in the hotel," said Jennifer McCormick, committee chairperson.

Anyone interesting in attending should call McCormick in Continuing Education, ext. 8014.

The Spirit Of Ghosts And Goblins

The PBJC Social, Cultural and Welfare Committee would like to "get people into the spirit of ghosts and goblins."

Consequently, they will sponsor a Costume Contest and Dress-Up Day in celebration of Halloween Tuesday, Oct. 30 at PBJC Central.

Though all the details still have to be worked out, Jeanette Sanders, committee spokesperson, says contestants will be evaluated by a panel of judges and a prize will be awarded.

Refreshments will be served during the judging, which will be scheduled at a time convenient to most employees. Those interested in participating should contact Sanders at 8005 or Jennifer McCormick at 8014.

PBJC MONDAY REPORT:

Kathy Aiello, President

FACC Chapter Elects All-Female Slate

The votes are in, and it looks as though the PBJC Chapter of FACC has elected not only its first-ever woman president, but the first all-female slate of officers in its 13-year history.

HIRE ED -- Dr. Eissey says they only have one lawn-mower at PBJC North that is not self-propelled and they gave it to him to push. Bill Vasile, who supervised Dr. Eissey's son last summer, told the president: "You're not as good as Mark, but you have possibilities." You can still Hire Ed for next year, but get your bid in soon to Dr. Erling's office.

According to a list of past presidents compiled by the FACC Executive Committee, Kathy Aiello (the 1984-85 presidential choice) is the first woman ever to hold the office at PBJC.

And the all-female slate of officers also includes Shelley Carton, vice president; Mary Orsenigo, secretary; and Jeanette Sanders, treasurer.

"I consider it a challenge and an honor to serve as FACC president," Aiello said. "I thank the members for their confidence in me. I know I have a big job ahead of me trying to follow in George's (Matsoukas) footsteps."

She said she plans to continue membership recruitment efforts during her administration, as well as increase involvement in chapter committees.

"Locally, I will also be working to encourage more of a feeling of family among the members at the semi-annual social events," she said.

She also plans to increase PBJC's participation in district-wide functions.

The new officers will represent the PBJC Chapter at the Statewide Convention Oct. 31-Nov. 3 at the Hyatt Regency in Miami.

Voter Registration Results

The PBJC Political Union has joined the "400 Club."

The union gained admission to this non-existent organization when it sponsored a voter registration drive Sept. 11 through Oct. 5, and enrolled 461 county citizens for the Nov. 6 election.

Children's Walkathon Set For Oct. 19

The Early Childhood Club is kicking off the new school year with the 11th Annual Children's Walkathon to be held Friday, October 19, 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the tennis courts.

The children from the Early Learning Center will earn money to buy materials for the Center and to sponsor early childhood education workshops by walking laps around the tennis courts.

You may sponsor a child by picking up a pledge sheet from the bulletin board near the observation room at the Center.

If you are interested in joining the Early Childhood Club, contact Sue Haines, 964-1995. Dues for the year are $4.

And the student group greatly exceeded their previous registration record of 380.

"We initially wanted to break 400, hence the '400 Club,'" said Edwin Pugh, Political Union faculty advisor. "We were pleased with the results, because Phi Theta Kappa signed up about 20, so the college-wide total was close to 500."

The breakdown for Political Union registration is as follows:
Republicans: 249 -- Democrats: 159 -- Others: 53

The group's next event will be a straw ballot which will be conducted Tuesday, Oct. 30.

"I would like to wish Kathy and all the new officers the best of luck in the upcoming year," Matsoukas said. "And I'd also like to thank Dick Jones and the rest of the nominating committee for the good job they did finding our slate of candidates."

North And South Social Events

There has been a flurry of activities recently around the campuses of PBJC North and PBJC South.

A Halloween party is on tap for Oct. 31 when the newly formed Hospitality Club at PBJC South gathers to chase ghosts and goblins. "Our group is rather informal," said Jim Tanner, dean of instruction at the South Campus, "but we are trying to get together the first Friday of each month for a scheduled activity."

A welcome party with everyone bringing a covered dish was held in September to greet PBJC South Provost Dr. Margaret Maney and other new personnel, and a pizza party was held Oct. 5.

And at PBJC North, faculty members hosted an appreciation luncheon Friday, Oct. 5 to honor members of the Student Affairs staff.

The idea for the luncheon originated with Dr. Sarah Pappas, dean of instruction. According to Dr. Ottis Smith, PBJC North Provost, the uniqueness of the event was that each member of the Student Affairs staff was introduced. "We are trying to get to know each other as individuals," Dr. Smith said.

Teri Lenahan coordinated the event, aided by several faculty members.

We Lost Our Power

Due to some trouble at Lake Worth Utilities, PBJC Central was without electricity last Thursday from 6:15 to 8:35 a.m. The power outage caused phones to be down until around noon.

Lab Demonstration, Auditorium On Board Agenda

The regular meeting of the trustees of Palm Beach Junior College, Oct. 17, 7:30 p.m., in Conference C at PBJC Central, will be preceded by a half-hour lab demonstration of computer assisted drafting.

New equipment for the CAD Lab, including the Fastdraft System donated this year by IBM, will be on display.

The agenda for the meeting is short, with 19 items, most of t.em routine in nature.

Among bids to be awarded is the contract for renovation of the auditorium at PBJC Central.

Authorization to sign facility leases for credit and non-credit classes with West Palm Beach, Riviera Beach, Palm Beach Gardens, North Palm Beach, Lake Park, and the YMCA on RCA Blvd., will be sought by the administration.

Final approval of a rule change on liquidated damages, and approval of minor changes in rules on fee waivers, holidays and special course fees will be recommended.

The UFOs Have Landed

The UFOs have landed, and will be in the Sunshine Court between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Oct. 15 and 31. "UFOs" are the handiwork of the Hospitality Unlimited Club; more specifically, they are two homemade chocolate chip cookies with homemade ice cream sandwiched in between.

The Club is selling the treats on the two days as a means to raise funds for new equipment for the Hospitality Management program.

Nuclear Awareness Education Week

The Union of Concerned Scientists has designated the week of October 15-21 as a time for colleges and universities in the United States to examine the issue of nuclear weapons and the threat of nuclear war.

The PBJC Social Science Department's Peace Education Center is organizing educational activities for Thursday, October 18 at 12:30 p.m. in the SAC Lounge, and for Friday, October 19 at 12:00 p.m. in the SAC Lounge and at 7:30 p.m. in the Allied Health Lecture Hall.

Please encourage your students to attend these activities. I hope each person will consider what they are doing in regards to this issue. We would appreciate any help anyone can give on this.

The Peace Education Center is making an effort to present alternative views on nuclear weapons, including the view that these weapons are a source of strength through which peace is maintained, and the view that the very existence of these weapons creates a profound moral dilemma that weakens any society that maintains them.

If you have some thoughts on the issue, come on and jump in before it is too late.

Diet Workshop

How would you like to impress everyone with your svelte new figure (or physique) during the upcoming holidays?

If that appeals to you, plan now to attend the special Diet Workshop that will be held for eight Tuesdays (beginning Oct. 16 and ending Dec. 4) from 4-5 p.m., in AH 201.

The workshop has been planned especially for PBJC faculty and staff, and will be taught by Ethel Fowler, R.D., an instructor in the PBJC Health and Home Economics Department.

The course will outline low-calorie, nutritious meals and other topics, and will include a weigh-in. The fee is $5 for the entire eight weeks. Participants may pay at the first session of class. For more information, call Ethel Fowler at 8089.
